$300,000 water main set at Wilke Road

by KURT BAER

The Village of Arlington Heights will construct a $300,000 water main along Wilke Road largely to accommodate future development on the Arlington Park Race Track property.

The water main will run from the new village well and pumping station, now under construction at Wilke and Kirchhoff roads, north on Wilke Road to Hawthorne Street opposite the track property.

The village is obligated under its 1969 annexation agreement with Arlington Park to provide water and sewer lines to the property. Race track officials requested the water main last summer before the annexation agreement expired, said Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson.

AT LEAST ONE trustee, Alice Harms, questioned the expenditure approved by the village board Nov. 17. She asked if the village can pass an ordinance to recapture part of the cost at the time the race track property is developed.

The annexation agreement prevents the enactment of a recapture ordinance, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said.

"The immediate effect is that we have spent $300,000 — a good portion of which will accrue directly to the benefit of the race track," Mrs. Harms said.

The Wilke Road water main will improve water distribution to other parts of the village as well, said Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the board's finance committee.

The first segment of the main, from the pumping station to Kirchhoff Road, is "absolutely necessary" to the operation of the new well, he said. It will cost $118,000.

The second stretch, from Kirchhoff Road north along Wilke Road to Hawthorne Street, will "beef up the water system in that part of the village," he said. Construction of the main to the race track will cost $185,000.

Palmatier called the $300,000 project "a small price to pay" for the water system improvement. "We'll get it back when and if they (Arlington Park) tap on to the system, especially with the new water rates we're going to pass shortly," he said.

Race track murder suspect found

A man, sought for more than a year for the murder of an Arlington Park Race Track stablehand, has been arrested by Florida authorities, Arlington Heights police said Monday.

Stanley Wayne Wood is in Marion County Jail, Ocala, Fla., prepared to waive extradition to Illinois, police said. Woods was charged in connection with the August 1974 beating death of the race track employee.

His alleged companion, John Cochran, 36, was arrested last February by FBI agents in southern Indiana for auto theft and unlawful interstate flight.

THE PAIR is charged with stealing the victim's car after they drove him to a Berwyn hospital from Arlington Heights.

In August, Woods and Cochran, also race track employees, told police they found John H. Walker, 51, of Covina, Calif., lying unconscious in the Arlington Park parking lot. They told police they thought Walker was drunk and put him in his car to allow him to sober up.

They reportedly returned to the car later, and finding Walker still unconscious, Woods drove him to Hawthorne Park, Cicero, where Walker's wife worked.

A race track guard told Woods to take Walker to MacNeal Memorial Hospital, Berwyn, where the victim was admitted with a large lump on the back of his head, police said.

WALKER DIED at the hospital two weeks later without regaining consciousness. A preliminary coroner's report said

Walker died from numerous blows to the head, but a coroner's jury ruled in November that the circumstances surrounding Walker's death were undetermined after witnesses failed to appear for testimony.

After the preliminary report, police attempted to question the pair further, but the men left the area, taking the dead man's car with them.

About a week after the incident, Mrs. Walker reported the pair never returned her husband's car. The vehicle was later recovered in a southern state.

Heidi Bowl II...

This time kids yell 'offsides' as NFL overtime benches Willy Wonka

'Twas the Sunday before Thanksgiving, when all through the house, Not a child was stirring, not even the grouse;

The cold dinner was stacked by the sink with care, In hopes that Willy Wonka soon would be there;

The children were nestled in front of TV,

With visions of Wonka's chocolate factory.

And Momma in her maxi, and I in my cap,

Had just settled our brains for a two-hour nap;

When out in Washington, D. C. there arose such a clatter,

I jumped to the television to see what was the matter;

Away to the set I flew like a flash, Oakland and the Skins were in an overtime clash.

The tube, in full football colors showed,

A 45-minute see-saw as Gowdy belted;

When what to my wondering eyes should appear,

But, the tiny children, all near tears.

Much louder than eagles, the children offered a yell,

They whistled and shouted for Wonka pell mell;

"Willy Wonka! Willy Wonka!" came the scream,

Only the chocolate factory would make them beam.

To the top of the sofa! At the base of the wall!

They screamed for Wonka out in the hall.

As the Redskins and Raiders continued the battle,

The children never ceased the loud rattle.

At 6:45, more than three-quarters hour late,

NBC ended its afternoon football slate.

Ancient George Blanda did magically appear,

To kick the Skins in the rear.

With a big old foot, so wrapped in fame,

I knew in a moment, his kick was the game.

And, then in a twinkling, I heard on the tube,

The voice of Wonka, that darling old boob.

So up to the television, the children they flew,

But, they continued to fuss, fume

and stew.

And then, in an instant, I knew what was the matter, Wonka was in mid-show, causing the clatter.

Those wonderful, wise czars at NBC, Had repeated the "Heidi Bowl" for all to see.

In 1968, Heidi was dressed all in fame,

When the movie tumbled and took the blame,

For bumping 50 seconds of a crucial game.

Two touchdowns the fans missed in '68,

Two touchdowns that changed a bowl date.

The fans' howl came swift, very quick,

The protest gave NBC a rough kick. The telephones in TV-land roared,

The screams came from the football board.

The story was different in '75,

The Wonka show instead took the dive.

The children who stayed up late, Missed the beginning of the TV date.

Hundreds called the Chicago station,

Demanding, screaming for a fair trial.

"Sorry," the NBC officials said, "This is a situation we dread."

The moral of this story is sad, but true,

You're damned if you don't and damned if you do.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald Metro staff writer Al Messerschmidt apologizes to author Clement C. Moore for using the basic meter of "The Night Before Christmas" to tell the story of Willy Wonka vs. the NFL and NBC.

NBC officials also were apologizing Monday to thousands of television viewers across the country who were upset by Sunday night's programming slip up. NBC spokesmen said Monday, however, it is unlikely the show will be rerun to make up the 45-minute interruption.

A WMAQ spokesman also said the "Willy Bowl" caused more reaction than the "Heidi Bowl."

"We had 586 phoned protests today," the Channel 5 spokesman said. "After the Heidi affair, we had just a few more than 500."

"A decision was made to pick up the film in progress because it was felt it would be too late for the kids to go to 9:45 p.m. E.S.T.," a network spokesman in New York said.

School tax hikes up to boards: Daley

Mayor Richard J. Daley said Monday it was now up to boards of education throughout the state to decide if taxes need to be raised to meet budget deficits. Daley was commenting on the failure of the state Senate to overturn Gov. Daniel Walker's vetoes of education funds. "We didn't have the votes," said the Chicago mayor. Daley said school executives agreed during a weekend meeting that they either needed local tax increases or cuts in their programs to balance 1976 budgets.

Murder suspect held in Florida

Florida authorities have arrested a man who has been sought by Arlington Heights police for more than a year in connection with the murder of an Arlington Park Race Track stable hand. Arlington Heights police said Monday that Stanley Wayne Woods is in Marion County Jail, Ocala, Fla., prepared to waive extradition to Illinois. Woods was charged with the beating death in August 1974 of the race track employee.

Two robbers flee with $650

Two men, one armed with a handgun, fled with about $650 in cash Monday from Siegelman's Restaurant, Arlington Heights after locking the night manager in the building. The woman manager told police she was locking up the business at 942 W. Algonquin Rd., when a man shoved her back inside the store about 12:30 a.m. A second man entered the store, and the two demanded money, police said. One of them held what police believe was a small automatic handgun during the robbery.

Woman injured in fire

A Wheeling woman suffered smoke inhalation Monday in a fire at her apartment above Mert's Inn, 582 N. Milwaukee Ave., Verdell Mertz, 47, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday night at a Libertyville hospital. Mrs. Jertz, wife of the building owner, was found in the tavern after the fire was extinguished. No damage estimate was available Monday. Fire officials said a bathroom was gutted.

Vandalism patrol starts Friday

Mount Prospect's special village citizens' patrol starts Friday as part of a four-pronged effort by Mount Prospect police to curb vandalism. The patrol will make use of ALERT, a 19-member local radio group, which will be specially trained by the department to spot and report crimes. The program is a modification of STOP (Special Teams on Patrol) which was proposed by Chief Ralph J. Doney earlier this year. Doney said legal complications concerning the liability of the village for the actions of the STOP watchers resulted in the new approach. In ALERT, residents will volunteer instead of being recruited as previously proposed.

Kasper to lead GOP til March

by WANDALYN RICE

The Cook County Republican Party dodged a major fight over the election of a new party chairman Monday by making Deputy Committeeman Louis Kasper acting chairman until after the March 16 primary.

The move, ratified unanimously by city and suburban GOP committeemen, means Kasper, 35th Ward committeeman from Chicago, will continue in the role he has filled since outgoing Chairman Floyd Fulla was indicted on federal extortion charges in January.

The GOP leaders Monday also accepted Fulla's official resignation as party leader. Fulla was convicted in federal court Oct. 31.

THE AGREEMENT to allow Kasper to continue as acting chairman until Fulla's term expires March 30 headed off a battle between Kasper and County Comr. Harold Tyrrell, a Proviso Township committeeman. The two men have been lining up support for two weeks.

The compromise, which involved Tyrrell withdrawing his candidacy until March, was worked out by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Skokie, Niles Township committeeman, just before the scheduled 1:30 p.m. meeting of GOP leaders.

Nimrod met in a back room at party headquarters in Chicago with Kasper, Fulla, and Tyrrell while committeemen waited for the meeting to convene.

Several committeemen expressed anger at the private meeting, with Peter Miller, committeeman of Chicago's 36th Ward threatening to walk out of the meeting. "The fate of our party is at stake right here today and a few fellows in the other room are making the decision for us. It's an insult."

WHEN FULLA, TYRRELL, Nimrod and Kasper joined the other committeemen and the press was excluded from the meeting, about twenty minutes of spirited discussion followed during which the compromise was explained and ratified.

Reporters listening through the closed door of the meeting room heard several committeemen praising Tyrrell for withdrawing his name and avoiding a party split.

After the meeting, several committeemen said they were pleased that a pre-primary battle over the chairmanship was averted.

"I think this was the best thing for the party," said State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Schaumburg, Schaumburg Township committeeman. "It was just too close."

Freud Uonkers, Wheeling Township committeeman, said, "I was diametrically opposed to a vote today on a permanent chairman because there hasn't been discussion among the committeemen."

NIMROD SAID HE had been thinking about a compromise between Kasper and Tyrrell "for some hours or days." He said, "I think it's very important at this time when we are selecting a ticket that we not divide ourselves."

Nimrod said he was sorry some of the committeemen were left out of the meeting where the compromise was worked out. "There wasn't a chance to consult everybody," he said, "but I think even the people who were unhappy saw it was best."

Nimrod said he decided the compromise was necessary because "the vote was going to be very close. There were some people who had committed themselves to both sides."

At a press conference following the meeting, Tyrrell said he decided to pull out of the race "as soon as I looked at the final vote tally" just before the meeting convened.

Tyrrell said, "The vote count Lou had and the one I had were so close, it could have gone either way if we'd gone into a fight."

KASPER SAID HE was pleased with the outcome and said he hopes to be elected to a two-year term in his own right March 30.

Fulla, who had been supporting Tyrrell for the chairmanship, said, "I think it (the compromise) was handled properly. I think more than ever we need unity."

In his official statement of resignation, Fulla said he was quitting "for the good of the Republican Party." He said, "In no way does this indicate that I have changed my constant stand of innocence to the insidious accusations to which I have been subjected and judged."

Fulla will be sentenced Dec. 9.

County plans to set up medical-examiner plan

The Cook County Coroner will be replaced by a forensic pathologist who will serve until he resigns or is removed for misbehavior following a public hearing, if recommendations presented Monday to the county board are adopted.

The board received a report from a 15-member committee which has been working for the last year to formulate recommendations on how to set up a professional medical-examiner system to replace the elected coroner.

The coroner's office will be eliminated Dec. 6, 1976, as a result of a referendum approved by voters in 1972.

County Board Pres. George W. Dunne has the power to appoint the county medical examiner who will replace Coroner Andrew J. Toman.

The committee report recommends that Dunne have the power to appoint the medical examiner but "to ensure the non-political status of the office" the examiner serves until he resigns or is removed for cause.

The report also recommends that Dunne select the new examiner and put him on the payroll three to six months before the coroner's office goes out of business.

Dunne referred the report to the county board's finance committee for further study.

In other action, the county board unanimously approved a resolution condemning the United Nations action calling Zionism a form of racism. Comr. Carl Hansen said the U.N. action is "reprehensible." He said, "While the U.N. condemns Israel, it ignores both Communist and Third World tyranny."

Thousands flee West Coast 'firestorm'

GLENDAL, Calif. (UPI) — A firestorm that "whooshed in like a freight train" destroyed 15 homes in the $35,000-60,000 range Monday and sent more than 3,000 persons fleeing in fear in the mountains north of Los Angeles where 40,000 acres of brush were consumed.

The fire, worst in the area in five years, was declared a state disaster area by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., making residents eligible for state aid.

The worst damage to residences was in the Glendale-LaCrescenta area but the fire stretched nine miles along the rims of the rugged terrain, bringing out more than 1,000 men battling the blaze at one time.

There were no deaths but three firemen suffered serious burns and dozens of firemen were treated for smoke inhalation and eye damage from burning ashes.

Authorities said 15 homes were reported totally destroyed and scores burned or scorched. The evacuees returned to their homes Monday afternoon except for the unlucky few who found only chimneys and the skeletons of walls standing.

Capt. Elmer Spraker of the Glendale Fire Department, said the underbrush had burned away by about 3 a.m.

"But it was a tragic thing," he said. "At that hour, the wind came up again and started blowing embers down from the hills and they landed on the homes."

"At one time the wind came through the canyons at about 60 to 70 miles an hour."

"As soon as the embers land on those shingle roofs," he said, "they're lost."

He said there was a great loss of wildlife in the Angeles National Forest area north of the city, a habitat for mountain lions, coyotes, deer and rabbit.

The northern area of Glendale and the county area of LaCrescenta was declared an emergency area. President Ford has been asked that it be declared a federal disaster area.

To the west, residents of the Palmdale and northern San Fernando area were ordered from their homes and waited while firefighters lit backfires in hopes of halting the wall of flames moving out of the hills.

More than 1,000 firemen from several areas of Southern California rushed equipment to the fire lines. About 20 fixed wing aircraft and six water-dropping helicopters battled the blaze.

The fire started Saturday from unknown causes in the rugged chaparral of Big Tujunga Canyon north of Glendale. It was contained once, but flared up again Saturday.

The smoke all but blotted out the sun over much of Southern California at dawn. An eerie yellow glow bathed Los Angeles and its satellite cities for hours after daylight.

THE REMAINS of several burned out homes in the north end of Glendale, Calif. smolder after a raging brush fire roared through area. The fire is the largest in Southern California in five years.

RESIDENTS OF Glendale water down their roof in attempt to save home as the Big Tujunga fire burns the area. Over 1,000 fire fighters and 20 aerial tankers are on the lines with no control estimated.

Violence in Basque country

King Carlos seeking a free hand

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — A gunman killed the mayor of a town near the French border Monday in the first Basque country violence under the regime of King Juan Carlos I.

It was not immediately clear whether the incident had political overtones. The victim's family said it was for economic motives stemming from an expose on the mayor's real estate dealings.

The shooting occurred as the new monarch reportedly moved to win a free hand in running the nation politically and as his banished father urged him to bring a "pluralist democracy" to Spain as quickly as possible.

The killing was the first violence in the four Basque provinces since three policemen were killed a week before Generalissimo Francisco Franco fell ill Oct. 17.

The gunmen, who fled with a companion, shot and killed Antonio Echevarria, 33, the mayor of Oyarzun, in his apartment.

Basque separatists had been fighting the Franco regime for autonomy. The virtual ceasefire during Franco's illness was seen as giving Juan Carlos an opportunity to show what he planned for them.

Initial reports blamed the guerrillas because Echevarria had fired two of his city councilmen for taking part in a strike against the execution Sept. 27 of five Basques for murdering a policeman.

Juan Carlos, who has indicated he wants to move away from the repressive rule that enflamed regional minorities, will name military figures to head his personal staff in an effort to gain armed forced support for him assuming a free political hand, according to palace sources.

One day after Franco's burial, the newly inaugurated king began assembling the staff to prepare for the arrival of foreign dignitaries for his first state reception Thursday.

The palace sources said army officers will be placed in charge of the staff's civilian and military sections.

They said Juan Carlos, Franco's hand-picked successor, wants to surround himself with military figures as a sign to the armed forces he is fully aware of their dominant strength in Spain.

In exchange, the sources said, the king hopes the military will leave him a free hand in politics.

Juan Carlos has indicated a desire to move Spain from a one-party state to a more democratic regime, saying in his inaugural address Saturday "a free society requires the participation of all in the decision-making policies."

But resistance to change is strong in Spain, where Franco ruled as a dictator for 36 years.

The king's father, Don Juan de Borbon, who was banished by Franco for his liberal ideas, issued a statement from Paris urging his son to give priority to social justice and "to consolidate a true pluralist democracy."

It was signed "the head of the Spanish royal family."

Ford expresses 'complete confidence' in Moynihan

President Ford met for a half hour Monday with Daniel P. Moynihan, the beleaguered U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and later expressed "complete confidence" in the job he is doing. After the meeting, the White House said Moynihan would stay in the post for "The foreseeable future."

Ronald Reagan just may demand equal time if any of his old movies are shown on television. The actor-turned-politician, who recently announced his candidacy for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination, said jokingly that the airing of his old films on television might do him more harm than good. Reagan was commenting on a ruling by the Federal Elections Commission, which said any TV station showing the former actor's movies would be liable to equal time demands by other presidential candidates.

Hint faulty steering in ship crash

BRIOLLO, Sicily (UPI) — Workers cut through the blackened and twisted super-structure of the U.S. guided missile cruiser Belknap Monday searching for three men believed crushed or burned to death during the ship's fiery collision with the U.S. aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy.

At least four men were killed and 45 injured when the two warships collided Saturday during night flying exercises in the Ionian Sea 70 miles off the coast of Sicily.

Another four originally were reported missing, but Navy officials Monday revised the figure to three and said all apparently were trapped under the superstructure during the crash.

"There is no chance that they are alive," a Navy official said.

The Navy said three of the dead men were from the Belknap and one from the Kennedy.

The angled flight deck of the 77,000-ton Kennedy, America's largest conventional aircraft carrier, sheared off the bridge of the 8,000-ton Belknap, touching off fires.

The cause of the crash was under investigation, but Navy sources said the problem may have been in the cruiser's hydraulic steering system.

"The crew was great, beautiful. They really fought for their ship," said Lt. Cmdr. J. Nuzum of Vermont, W. Va., a port liaison officer.

Navy sources said the Belknap was on standby rescue duty in case any of the planes landing on the Kennedy went into the sea during maneuvers, when it suddenly began steering erratically.

According to crewmen, the cruiser came across the bow of the Kennedy, which veered to starboard to avoid it, but the ships collided port to port.

"You think of a crash like an auto crash, but this seemed to have lasted 15, 30 seconds," said Belknap officer Lt. Cmdr. Rick Foley, 35, of Virginia Beach, Va. "There was no sudden impact, just shuddering and vibrating, followed by deadly silence, then people yelling instructions."

Find 'Squeaky' guilty of assault, not murder: defense

SACRAMENTO Calif. (UPI) — The case of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, accused of attempting to assassinate President Ford, went to the jury Monday with an appeal by her lawyer to convict her of the lesser crime of assault.

Atty. John Virga insisted the apostle of mass murderer Charles Manson pulled a loaded pistol on Ford, not to kill him, but to gain publicity for her "wake up America" pro-environmental, anti-industrial pleas.

On the 14th day of the unprecedented trial, the defiant Miss Fromme brought the defense case to an abrupt conclusion by refusing to testify because Manson and other jailed members of his one-time sex and drug cult were barred from appearing as witnesses.

In a two-hour closing statement described by the judge as a "history of the world," Virga cited the names of such figures as World War II Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, poet Ogden Nash, Santa Claus and retired Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas to try to convey the background of Miss Fromme's thinking.

"It's not my trial," the 27-year-old

Manson disciple told U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride. "If it's not my trial, how can I take the stand on my own behalf?"

Virga cut short his defense case because of Miss Fromme's refusal to testify and asked the jury of eight women and four men to convict her of assault rather than attempted murder.

"I'm telling you now you should find her guilty of assault of a president because that's what she did," Virga said. "She did not act with intent to kill the President."

But federal prosecutors demanded that she be found guilty of the charge of attempting to kill the President when she pointed a .45-caliber automatic at Ford Sept. 5 as he walked through a crowd toward the state Capitol. There were four bullets in the ammunition clip, but none in the firing chamber.

"Reason and logic would tell you one of those four bullets was meant for the President of the United States," U.S. Attorney Dwayne Keyes told the jury. "What is the purpose of that weapon? It's not for sport. It's to kill people."

If convicted of attempting to murder Ford, the diminutive defendant faces up to life in prison. However, the jury could find her guilty of assault which carries a maximum 10-year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

Miss Fromme, wearing jail denims and carrying her "sacrificial" red robe in her arms, appeared in court for 10 minutes outside the presence of the jury.

She tried to emphasize that her fatal environmentalist warnings of "bloody bedrooms and screams in the night" should be taken seriously.

"What I'm saying is don't make us shoot. Don't make us be violent," she told MacBride in a statement reminiscent of a pretrial warning she made to the judge.

The small, red-haired defendant said her attorney would "lie" and try to make a joke of a rambling but violent threatening letter she wrote last August to a television newsman which said, in part: "... if Manson is not allowed to tell you are too sheltered to face ... your homes will be bloodier than Tate-LaBianca and My Lai put together."

A model for budget requests

21 goals OK'd by state education board

Twenty-one educational goals for the State of Illinois have been adopted by the Illinois Board of Education. The goals, representing the top priority issues for Illinois education, were prepared from information gathered from members of the state board of education, the Illinois Office of Education staff, local educators and the general public. In adopting the nine-page statement last week, the state board asked that the document serve as a model for the state in relating budget requests, legislative proposals and general work plans.

The goals will be distributed to educational agencies throughout the state. THE 21 GOALS are:

- Reading and literacy. Students should be able to read and communicate effectively, and citizens should be provided with right-to-read programs.
- Bilingual and bicultural education. Schools should offer programs for students that speak English as a second language.

- Adult education. Communities will be encouraged to offer programs that emphasize basic reading skills, consumer skills and vocational and technical education.
- Vocational education. Schools should offer vocational counseling and training for those who need it.
- Career education. Students should be exposed to a variety of career options.
- Exceptional students. Gifted students should be given sufficient challenges, and the needs of handicapped students should be met. Districts should attempt to locate and serve students not receiving special programs at this time.

- Education alternatives. Community and business groups will be encouraged to participate in planning alternative methods for educating students.
- School dropouts and truant students. The state should help school districts develop methods for meeting the needs of these students.
- Student rights. Students have the rights guaranteed in the U. S. Constitution and should be taught the laws and responsibilities for humanity, the state and the community.

- Health and safety. Standards for comprehensive health services should be established, and guidelines for school construction should be modified.
- Finance. The state should equalize financial resources between rich and poor school districts, and local school districts should try to improve the management of their finances.

$13,156 to offset losses

NORTRAN gets extra RTA cash

The Regional Transportation Authority has authorized an additional $13,156 in grants to the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN).

The additional funds were approved after an audit of expenses of the system showed greater losses than originally anticipated.

RTA officials also disclosed plans to buy approximately 350 large buses for the Chicago Transit Authority and approximately 150 smaller buses for suburban routes. The RTA is seeking bids on delivery of the buses which would be the first bought by the RTA.

THE SUBURBAN BUSES, which would be 35 feet long and 96 inches wide, would seat approximately 43 passengers. They are smaller than CTA buses, which are 40 feet long and 102 inches wide, because state law limits the size of buses which can be driven in non-urban areas.

The RTA will have to wait 18 months to two years for delivery of the buses once a contract is awarded.

In the meantime, the RTA will investigate buying used buses which could be renovated to replace older buses currently running on some suburban routes.

At a meeting Friday the RTA board left unresolved a controversy about the pay level of bus drivers employed by suburban municipalities. The board approved grant authorization for five suburbs which has been delayed because Chicago board member James Kemp has urged a system be developed to increase the pay of suburban drivers so that their wages are comparable to the pay of CTA drivers.

RTA board member Joseph Tecson of Riverside had opposed the interference by the RTA in the pay levels set by municipalities. Tecson said the RTA could end up forcing pay increases for all municipal employees through "a ripple effect," and he questioned whether the RTA had the authority to interfere in wages paid by a municipality.

HE SAID INCREASED costs to the RTA from the proposed higher pay could "push us over the precipice and force us to impose a gasoline tax or a commercial parking tax."

Thursday the Metropolitan Area Transportation Council, an advisory group to the RTA board, urged support for Tecson's stand.

But Kemp said he would continue to pursue the equal pay question.

The advisory council, led by temporary chairman James T. Ryan, also took stands Thursday urging the Chicago and North Western Railway to resume negotiations with the RTA on a purchase of service contract.

The council currently has 12 members from suburban areas, but 13 additional members from the City of Chicago and a member from Kane County are still to be appointed.

Ryan, who is also Arlington Heights village president, was authorized by the other council members to contact Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and the Kane County board about appointing the other council members soon.

Stocks in late rally, close at 845

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late rally Monday drove prices higher in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The rally followed an indication the Federal Reserve Board intends to maintain an accommodative monetary policy.

The fed's signal — a four-day repurchase order it made for its own account — drove Treasury bill rates lower. Wall Street hailed the move because it dispelled fears the fed would tighten credit in light of a $5.5 billion jump in the nation's money supply during the past two weeks.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, off around two points at the outset, gained 4.88 points to 845.64. The blue-chip average was helped by a 1 1/8-point gain in Sears, Roebuck, which closed at 72 7/8. Sears reported strong third quarter earnings.

STANDARD & POOR'S 500-stock index rose 0.17 to 89.70 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased six cents.

Breadth figures confirmed demonstrated investor uncertainty, however. Of the 1,829 issues crossing the tape, 742 advanced, 646 declined and 441 remained unchanged.

Volume totaled 13,930,000 shares, down from the 14,110,000 traded Friday.

American Electric Power led the Big Board actives, up 5/8 to 21 1/4 on 151,500 shares. Texaco followed, up 1/4 to 23 1/8 on 143,400 shares. Westinghouse Electric was third, off 3/8 to 12-3/8 on 129,500 shares.

Prices closed mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share gained three cents, but declines topped advances by about a three-to-two margin. Volume totaled 1,480,000 shares, compared with 1,390,000 traded Friday.

Whites live longer than blacks: survey

An average 20-year-old American can expect to live another 53 years, and a 62-year-old white male pondering early retirement can expect 17 more years of life, according to tables published this month by the National Center for Health Statistics.

Black persons at all ages have a shorter life expectancy than whites, and black males have the shortest life expectancies of all race-sex groups, the tables show.

A white male at age 65 can expect 13.02 years more life. The white female 16.93 more years, compared to 12.53 more years for the black male and 15.67 years for the black female.

The figures are for the period 1969-71, and are the result of a study calculated from the 1970 Census.

Vista residents air gripes in village meet

Arlington Vista subdivision residents Monday night urged village trustees to be their advocate in finding solutions to problems that plague their neighborhood.

Homeowners complained that their neighborhood's Flentie Park, has become a center for teen-age vandalism, drinking and hoodlum activity.

They pleaded for new safety measures along Palatine Road, including sidewalks and a pedestrian overpass.

And they asked for relief from sanitary sewer backups in the subdivision.

MEMBERS OF THE village board who attended the Mayor's Round Table meeting said they would explore increased police patrols in the subdivision, post no-parking signs around the park, spend $210,000 to solve the sewer problem and advocate the construction of sidewalks along a portion of Palatine Road.

About 50 Arlington Vista homeowners, located at the northeast corner of Palatine Road and Windsor Drive, said that neither the police department nor the Arlington Heights Park District has been able to curb vandalism, drinking and drug use in Flentie Park.

The park district promised lights for the park a year ago, but the lights still are not installed, one resident said. Another said it took the police nearly an hour to respond to one vandalism call recently.

Sidewalks are needed on Harper College's proposed second campus at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, residents said.

A PEDESTRIAN overpass also would help children get to schools on the south side of Palatine Road, they said.

"There isn't a person on this board or in this room who wouldn't like to get their hands on the person who designed Palatine Road," said Trustee Alice Harms. Trustees said they would ask Harper officials about the possibility of putting sidewalks on the south side of the second campus site, but made no commitment to an overpass that would cost $75,000 to $90,000.

To solve the problem of sanitary sewer back ups, Trustee Frank Palmatier said he will propose adding $210,000 to a $3.2 million flood control bond issue in order to build relief sewers for Arlington Vista and Arlington Terrace subdivisions.

Two men rob cafe of $650

Two men, one armed with a handgun, fled with about $650 in cash Monday from Siegelman's Restaurant, Arlington Heights, after locking the night manager in the building.

The manager told police she was in the process of locking up the restaurant at 912 W. Algonquin Rd. when a man shoved her back inside the store about 12:30 a.m.

A second man entered the store, and they demanded money from her, police said. One of them held what was believed to be a small automatic weapon.

After handing the money to the men, the robbers then tried to lock her in the washroom, but the door would not lock, police reported. She was ordered to remain there.

The manager called police from a pay telephone in the lobby because the other telephone had been ripped from the wall, police said.

One of the robbers was described as being about 6 feet tall and 160 pounds. He was about 25-years-old and wore a waist-length jacket and a dark ski mask, police were told.

The other suspect was described as 5 feet 4 inches tall, and wearing a peacoat.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Reader troubled with breathing

I am a 31-year-old male and have low blood pressure. Also, my average pulse rate is around 48 beats per minute. Along with this periodically, I have trouble breathing. The shortness of breath is accompanied by sharp pains, either in the chest, legs or arms.

Last year I had a severe attack of this breathing problem and spent six days in the hospital where I had several different tests run concerning my heart. All of these proved negative, and the doctor said my heart appeared to be strong and without damage, even though the pulse rate was about the slowest he had ever seen.

Are these problems in any way related and does my pulse rate seem rather slow? What do you advise? Please comment on low pressure since everything I hear or read is about high blood pressure.

Since your doctor said you didn't have heart disease, your slow heart rate in a man as young as you probably means you are in excellent physical condition. Roger Bannister's heart rate was 38 per minute when he was fully trained for the 4-minute mile. And, I have seen slow heart rates, at rest, in almost all endurance athletes I have examined. It is quite common. You are not the least bit unusual in that regard.

Low blood pressure, if it is not caused by a specific illness such as tuberculosis or adrenal gland disease or anemia, which your doctor has probably ruled out, is a wonderful thing to have. Get down on your knees and thank God you have it. As long as it is high enough to prevent you from having fainting problems, it won't cause you any difficulty at all and will decrease your likelihood of having heart disease or vascular disease later in life.

INCIDENTALLY, WE consider any pressure of 90 over 60 as perfectly normal for unrestricted flying duties, including flying high performance jet aircraft. So, you can see that this is on a pretty solid basis. This, too, is most likely an indication of good physical fitness.

For more information on what determines blood pressure levels and what they mean send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Just write to me in care of Padlock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Those breathing spells are not related to either your slow heart or low blood pressure. And, those sharp pains are not what you see with heart disease. More often these are related to anxiety, perhaps anxiety over your health status and not knowing exactly what they mean.

MY GUESS IS that you are over-breathing, hyperventilating. When you do this, you blow off too much carbon dioxide and upset your chemical balance. This can cause you to feel bad and cause numbness, tingling and a variety of symptoms. Since you have already had a good examination for these problems, I would suggest that if you start to have this feeling, consciously breathe very slowly and shallowly and see if you can overcome the problem. Or, you could use an old trick and breathe into a brown paper bag over your mouth and nose. That will sometimes trap enough carbon dioxide to enable your body to readjust your chemistry. Do not use a plastic bag!

You might also profit from some psychological counseling at a mental health center to see if there is something bothering you that you don't understand. That might help relieve your situation for you by getting at its basic cause.

Newlyweds met at WIU

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Maldaner Jr.

A romance on the campus of Western Illinois University culminated in marriage Nov. 1 for Nancy Hess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Hess of Des Plaines, and Richard T. Maldaner Jr., son of the Richard Maldaners of Springfield, Ill.

They are now living in Arlington Heights while working in the area, Nancy at Illinois Range Co., Mount Prospect, and her bridegroom at Morse Electro Products Corp., Elk Grove. The bride is a '73 graduate of Elk Grove High School.

What about freezer when power out?

Dear Dorothy: A week ago the power went off in a section adjoining ours and I've heard stories of people there who lost hundreds of dollars in food stored in their freezers. I've been worrying what we would do if it happened here. My husband has been looking at ads for auxiliary generators, but these are expensive, also. What else can one do in situations like this? —Helen Duval

You're worrying too much. If you keep your freezer fully loaded, as most people do, the box will retain enough cold to keep your food frozen for two days. Power supply is usually restored much faster than this. A half-full freezer can be trusted for only about a day.

I wouldn't go the generator route. I'd do some scouting to find out where dry ice can be obtained in emergencies. Then, if something goes hay-wire, you can hustle over and get 25 pounds of dry ice, spread it on some cardboard and it will keep your box good and cold for several more days. Keep in mind that you shouldn't handle dry ice with bare hands. If you can't locate a reliable supply of dry ice, look into the availability of locker plants.

Dear Dorothy: We've enjoyed French fried parsnips for years and I was surprised recently to find that

Two win Junior Miss pageant

Mary Christine Meyer of Wheeling High School and Karen Anne Leksander of Elk Grove High School have been named winners in Paddock Publications' 11th Annual Junior Miss Pageant.

Both girls will receive $500. They were selected at a pageant Sunday evening at Hoffman Estates High School, 1100 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Debbie Himsel of Rolling Meadows High School and Lynette Lang of Prospect High School were named runners up. They will each receive $250.

Lynette Lang of Prospect High School won a $100 talent award for piano playing. Miss Meyer and Susan Wachholz, both of Wheeling High School, tied for the scholastic achievement award. Each girl will receive $100.

Twenty-three other girls were named semifinalists.

This is the third consecutive year that a Junior Miss winner has been picked from Wheeling High School, and the second consecutive year that the scholastic achievement award was won by Wheeling High School students. Miss Meyer and Miss Wachholz both had straight A averages in three years of high school.

More than 500 persons attended Sunday's pageant. Last year's Junior Miss, Donna Neukuckatz, was an emcee. She is now attending Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind.

Contestants await the judging.

The way we see it

A proper start on painful road

The recommendation that Arlington Heights Dist. 25 close four schools between now and 1982 is not a shock to those who have followed the problems of declining enrollment in the Northwest suburbs.

Nevertheless, the prospective school closings have the potential to create much dissent, disharmony and anguish in the neighborhoods which stand to lose their schools.

For that reason, it is good to see Dist. 25 taking a calm and carefully planned approach to involving the community in the decision-making process which precedes a final decision on how many, and which, schools to close.

The district released the results of an enrollment study by a consulting firm Thursday night, with the recommendation from the consultants that Thomas and South junior high schools be closed in June 1977, North School in 1980 and Kensington School in 1981 or 1982.

Between now and Jan. 12, the Dist. 25 Board of Education will hold hearings throughout the district to find out the reaction of the public to the plan and to explain the problems facing the district.

And as the decision time comes closer, we hope Dist. 25 officials will maintain the openness that has typified the first phases of their approach to the problem.

Dist. 25 is not the first district to face the problem of declining enrollment by looking squarely at the possibility of closing schools. Mount Prospect Dist. 57 already has closed two schools. High School Dist. 214 has begun the study process which may lead to shutting down a high school.

The problem that faces all districts in this situation is that, whatever decision is ultimately made, some people are going to be unhappy. Closing a school is bound to have a major effect on any neighborhood, and it can never be a pleasant prospect.

When faced with such decisions, the most important thing is to make sure everyone is involved and understands the reasons for the decisions. Dist. 25 has started on the correct road. We hope the school district continues its thoroughness and candor

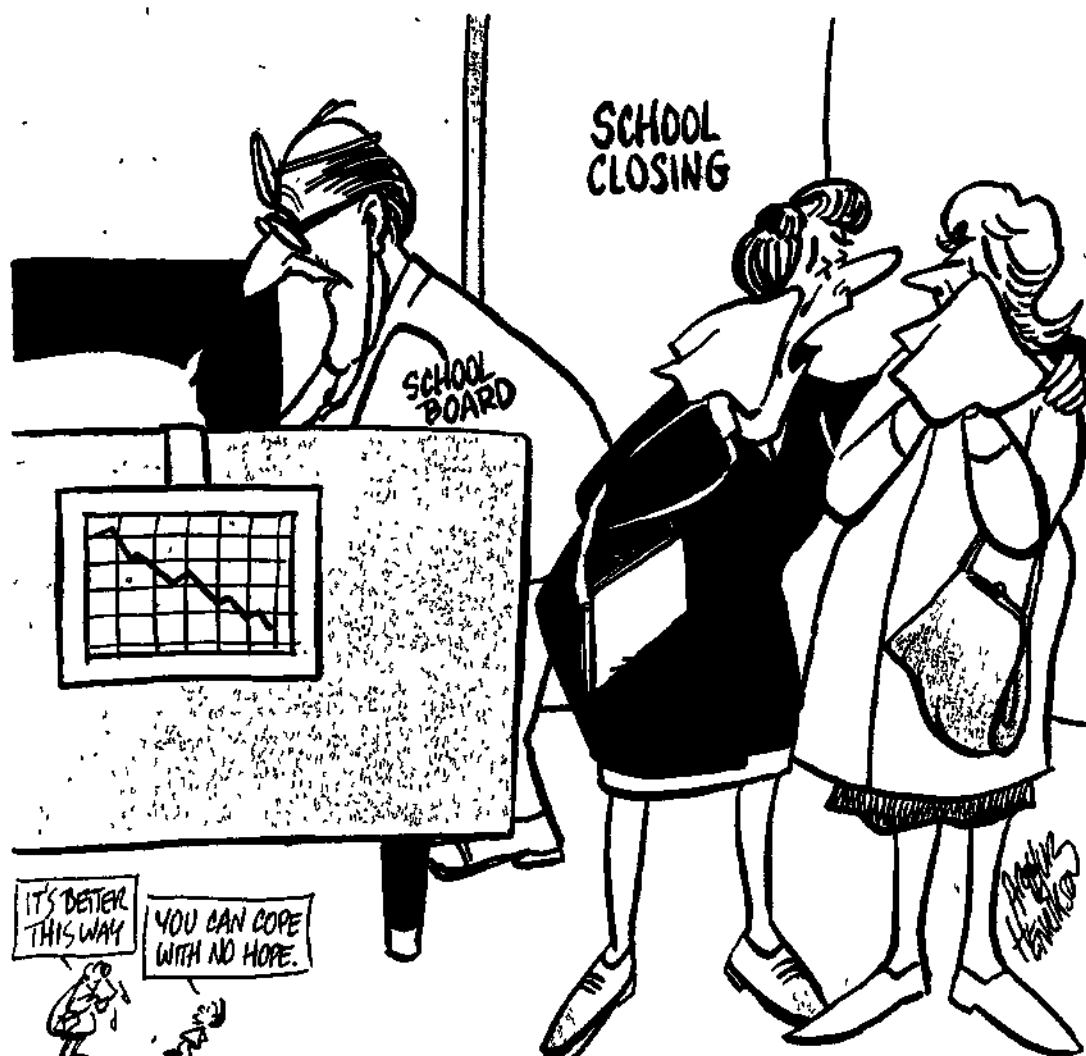

Local recycling efforts make real contribution

Garbage power is hardly a glamorous idea. Yet the notion that trash can be reused or burned as an energy resource is gaining support in the Northwest suburbs, thanks to the efforts of several municipalities and service organizations.

Local recycling centers deserve recognition as a step toward solution of the landfill space shortage problem and the recovery of needed resources. The Federal Energy Administration estimates that in the United States alone more than 20 million tons of trash are collected annually. The discarded materials could be burned to supply 14,000 megawatts of power, roughly equivalent to 290 million barrels of oil.

The suburbs' homegrown variety of small recycling centers eventually may be replaced by larger resource recovery and trash-burning systems. The Northwest Environmental Council plans to study such a concept. In the meantime, neighborhood recycling centers offer a do-it-yourself way to turn garbage problems into garbage power. Keep those cans and bottles coming.

Sure it's sad. But it would have been unbearable if the doctor hadn't told us the truth!

Moral support for the 52-cent man

When I opened my typewriter, so many moths flew out I've been busy for the past five minutes with Bug Off. This is an open letter to Gerald Marcy of Arlington Heights. Marcy, you know, is the man who protested the unfair 52 cents late charge on his Laseke Disposal Co. bill. According to Joe Swickard's account in The Herald, he had to pay the 52 cents or else Laseke would discontinue service to his home.

He was also told by Arlington Heights Village Health Director George Weinand (acting as judge and jury) that if service was discontinued, he would, according to village code, be fined $500 minimum to $1,000 maximum a day for allowing the garbage to pile up while the discontinued service remained discontinued. Our local discussion group was unanimous in deciding that (to put it in ladylike fashion as opposed to current and choice descriptive word) Marcy was put upon.

Dear Mr. Marcy, We think you were right in paying the 52 cents but you should have followed through. When Health Director George Weinand explained that accumulation of rubbish would result in an excessive fine, you should have insisted that Laseke be fined for not collecting the garbage on Labor Day (plus all other holidays).

Each holiday, plus at least four days after each holiday, rubbish is accumulating all over the village. In fact, according to our loose calculations, Laseke owes every household 58 plus cents for each holiday they allow the rubbish to begin accumulating.

And Health Director Weinand owes it to the people he is in charge of protecting from germs, bacteria, maggots and other creepy crawly things to see that Laseke is fined on behalf of each household for every day there is no garbage collection. Unless, of course, Weinand has bacteriological knowledge that germs observe our holidays (if they can figure what to do about Armistice/Veterans Day).

Mr. Marcy, you might find solace in knowing that you are not the only one who has found Laseke's recent policies strange. In fact, for a company that wept so convincingly for understanding when they were negotiating their last contract, they've been doing some peculiar things lately. One resident sent a check for $10.75 instead of $10.78. Laseke used a 10-cent stamp to send it back for correction. E pluribus unum incidents.

We just thought you'd like to have moral support. You've got to consider it a triumph that you got as far as the village hall and you've got to admit that Laseke sure knows how to keep his business rolling with well greased wheels.

Paramedics thanked, 'show selflessness'

Re: "Bobbie Quinn loves the paramedics," Nov. 5 Fence post.

I too have a great respect and much admiration for these people who in our troubled times are the many who are still genuinely concerned with giving and not receiving.

I was in an auto accident recently on the expressway. Although I only broke my right arm and received a few stitches, I must say that had it not been for the paramedics not on duty who stopped and gave assistance, notified the ambulance and proceeded to aid those involved, myself and the driver would probably have not been ministered to as needed.

I never got their names, I only remember their faces. But I want to publicly thank all those men and women who gave of themselves on behalf of all who have been fortunate enough to survive because of them.

Is Angola the next Vietnam?

by NEA/London

Economist News Service
LUANDA (LENS) — Before slipping almost furtively out of Luanda on a Portuguese frigate last week, Admiral Leonel Cardoso, Portugal's last high commissioner in Angola, declared he was handing over sovereignty to the "Angolan people." There was not an Angolan present to hear his words. Within the next day, Angola had two presidents and two governments, each committed to defeating the other in battle. It was a sorry end to nearly 500 years of the Portuguese presence in Africa.

Admiral Cardoso said he left with his head held high; indeed, he laid the blame for the thousands of deaths in Angola over the past few months on the powers which were giving arms to the rival movements. The Portuguese government may feel it has made a point of sorts in sticking to the date, Nov. 11, on which it promised to give Angola independence. But in its determination to get out as quickly as possible it has not fulfilled its responsibilities either to the 400,000 Portuguese settlers or to the black Angolans who stay behind.

The departing high commissioner was on surer ground in pointing to the fact that foreign states have been supplying increasingly sophisticated weapons to the rival Angolan nationalist movements. The war Portugal has left behind — between Dr. Neto's People's Republic based in Luanda and the People's Democratic Republic led by Holden Roberto and Jonas Savimbi with its seat at Huambo (Nova Lisboa) — is no longer a matter of skirmishing between badly armed guerrilla groups.

The Soviet Union first, and now the United States and the other backers of the Roberto-Savimbi regime, have changed that. The untrained Angolans on both sides have no idea how to use many of the weapons that have come in; so foreigners have had to be brought in too. Angola has become a proxy battlefield between the major powers.

In his speech on Independence Day

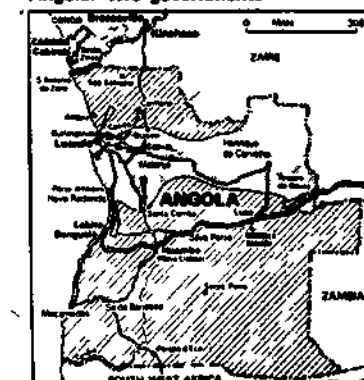

Dr. Neto made it clear that his party would organize Angola along Marxist lines, but said it would follow a non-aligned policy in foreign affairs. This is the real test. The massive military support the Soviet Union and its Communist allies have given to the Popular Movement was responsible for the progress its forces had made until the past three weeks.

There are other African independence movements which have received Communist aid and yet have not subsequently invited the Russians to establish bases on their territory. But Angola's strategic position on the Atlantic coast, and its good harbors near the Cape shipping routes, put it in a special category. The Russians would certainly try hard to establish their influence in a Marxist Angola.

This is the fear which has prompted both China and America to back Dr. Neto's opponents. Nor is it surprising that South Africa is at least turning a blind eye to the help in supplies and trained men that is coming to the anti-Neto side over the South West African border. Angola will play a key part in the hopes of detente between South Africa and the black African countries; and a government under Dr. Neto would be unlikely to help that detente.

Adlai Stevenson nixes Presidential candidacy

Office seekers of all shapes and sizes moved Monday to clarify their positions on candidacy for next year's election.

Observers said the action in some cases only served to further cloud developments for the 1976 Democratic and Republican primary elections.

U. S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., told a press conference that he would not be a candidate for President next year.

The change of heart will make Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley find another person to run as a favorite son candidate so he can field his own delegation for the Democratic convention next year.

Stevenson's decision will lead to a more wide open primary in Illinois with more of the 10 declared Democratic Presidential candidates seeking to garner a few of the state's 109 delegates. So far only former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter has indicated he will seek delegates from the state.

move quickly to leave the United Nations because of the passage of a resolution branding Zionism as a form of racism.

"It would be too easy to shoot from the hip and say get the U. S. out of the UN and the UN out of the U. S. I would like to see a more measured approach."

Mikva said the U. S. should look at what various agencies like the UNESCO and the World Labor Organization do for U.S. allies. He suggested that if allies did not benefit from UN activities then the U. S. should reconsider its appropriations.

"There was as much anti-Americanism there as anti-Zionism," Mikva said.

Another hat in 10th race

Another Republican opponent also appears to be ready to enter the GOP primary for the nomination to oppose Mikva next year in the 10th District.

State Sen. John Nimrod,

Sen. John Nimrod

R-Skokie, told supporters over the weekend that he planned to run against former U. S. Rep. Samuel H. Young and Daniel B. Hales in the March primary.

Nimrod, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate, said he delayed the announcement of his candidacy because he wanted to see who the other candidates would be.

Nimrod is also the Niles Township Republican Committeeman. He had attended a Young candidacy announcement, but at the time indicated he was merely there to hear what Young has to say.

Some Republican officials in the district, which includes Maine, Niles, Evanston, Northfield and New Trier townships, believe a three-way primary could hurt Republican chance of ousting Mikva next November.

Stanley for State House

An administrative assistant to former State House Speaker W. Robert Blair has announced he will be a candidate for the State House in the 2nd Legislative District.

Roger C. Stanley, Streamwood, announced he will seek the Republican nomination in the district. He is the Republican Committeeman in Hanover Township.

Mikva seeks another term

U. S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., said he would seek another term in congress, a move he admitted would surprise few people.

In announcing his candidacy, Mikva said he hopes to return to Congress to work on a new Bill of Particulars in 1976.

He said the bill would include a genuine tax-reform proposal, a new energy-conservation program, an agriculture policy designed to stabilize the price and supply of food, protection of individual rights, and a foreign policy based on democratic ideas.

He also said the U. S. should not

State slatemakers meet

Dems to weigh hopefuls today

by STEVE BROWN

A long line of political hopefuls will begin parading before Democratic slatemakers today in Springfield in hopes of being nominated to run for statewide office.

Two suburban men will be among a group of at least 15 candidates who will seek the backing of the Democratic State Central Committee at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Donald Eslick, Northfield Township Democratic committeeman, will ask to be slated for comptroller and State Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, will seek to be nominated for governor.

THE LOCAL MEN will have to share time with Sec. of State Michael Howlett, State Treasurer Alan Dixon and Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan who are tied up in a controversy which may leave the other office seekers scrambling for the leftovers.

Dixon is an announced candidate for governor. He expects to face Gov. Daniel Walker, who is refusing to appear before the slatemakers.

However Dixon's candidacy has been clouded because Howlett indicated recently he might be willing to run for governor if he has the backing of the party and if Dixon withdraws.

The announcement is seen as a signal to Dixon that he should withdraw and let Howlett attempt to beat Walker.

Dixon associates said he will not drop out unless he is slated for secretary of state. That request might have been simple to fill until Monday, when Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan held a press conference and said he would run for secretary of state.

The announcement prompted a Dixon aide to announce Monday Dixon believes Hartigan could not beat Howlett in a primary fight for secretary of state. Dixon, who has two years to serve in his current post, is still depending on Howlett's public statements and private assurances that he will not run for governor unless Dixon drops out.

AN AIDE TO State Democratic Party Chairman John Touhy said all three men will appear in Springfield today and on Dec. 1 in Chicago, but it was not noted what post they are seeking.

Some observers suggested Monday that Dixon might not be slated for any post and might be forced to either be part of a three-way fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, or drop out of the governor's race and suffer embarrassment because of his past political statements.

Other candidates who will appear before the slatemakers for various positions include:

- Lieutenant Governor: Former Supt. of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis; State Sen. Kenneth Bunbee, D-Carbondale, one of the independent Democrats who helped block the override of Walker's education fund vetoes last week; Metropolitan Sanitary District Trustee Joanne Aker; State Rep. Charles Keller, D-Effingham, who has substantial support from the regular downstate organization; and William S. Forsythe, Champaign, a University of Illinois trustee.

- Attorney General: Patrick Murphy of Chicago.

- Comptroller: Eslick, who is currently assistant superintendent in the Illinois Office of Education; State Rep. Ronald Brinkmeier, D-Freepport; State Rep. Richard Luft, D-Pekin; Roland Barris; and Harry Semrow, a member of the County Board of (Tax) Appeals.

Eslick said last week that he believes he has the background to handle the comptroller's post. He also has served as an aide to Hartigan.

Eslick said if he was not slated for comptroller by the party he would not consider running with Walker, who is reportedly planning to field a slate of independent Democrats.

Pierce has been considered running for governor for some time, according to backers. Besides serving in the state house, Pierce is also a member of the state central committee. A citizen's committee has been circulating petitions urging Pierce to run for governor for some time.

The Highland Park Democratic Women's Club has planned a fund-raising reception for Pierce on Sunday.

Frank Lloyd Wright school here

Beautiful Spring Green only three hours away

by LEA TONKIN

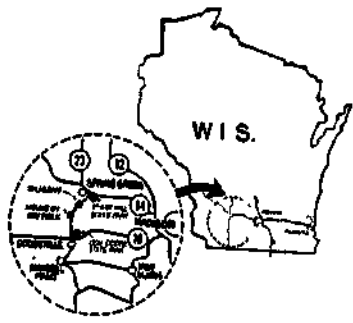

Back country roads winding through gentle hills will take you to southwest Wisconsin's Spring Green area. It's a ruggedly beautiful region where visitors can enjoy indoor and outdoor attractions year-round.

Make the Thanksgiving weekend into an introduction to Spring Green. It's a pleasant three-hour drive via U. S. Rte. 14. Visitors in a hurry can make the jaunt on Interstate 90, turning west on U. S. Rte. 14 at Madison.

When you reach Spring Green, take time to become acquainted with the quiet beauty of this small town. The Wisconsin River winds its way through the village. The Bank of Spring Green's striking curves mark the influence of the nearby Frank Lloyd Wright School of Architecture.

Antique buffs will discover a few small shops, and the Dutch Kitchen restaurant on Jefferson Street features Pennsylvania Dutch specialties as well as home-baked desserts.

TURN SOUTH ON Wis. Rte. 23, watching for signposts leading to the House on the Rock. It's a fascinating structure of stone and mortar perched atop Deerslayer Rock in The Wyoming Valley.

AN EASY drive from the Northwest suburbs, the Spring Green, Wis., area offers a variety of indoor and outdoor recreation.

The house at first appears as a lonely wilderness sentinel. Once inside, visitors discover an esthetic blend of natural and man-made beauty. It's a small world where collections of Oriental art objects and antiques complement the subtle appeal of waterfalls, pools and live trees. Following the carpeted stairs and crooked passageways, you'll come upon strangely tilted windows offering a panoramic view of the valley below. Gargantuan fireplaces flanked by andirons and cauldrons of massive proportions, illuminated panels and elaborate wood carvings — the curious collections of artisan Alex Jordan in the house and studio make the admission price worthwhile.

There's still more to see at House on the Rock. The adjacent Streets of Yesterday will delight the music lover, the nostalgia buff and anyone who enjoys the bright and shiny things in life. Plunk your coins in the slot, folks, and you'll hear most anything from the dazzling blast of the Gladiator callopo to the old-time sound of a parlor organ. Children will enjoy the doll collections, the fire station and shops that line the Streets of Yesterday.

YOU CAN EASILY spend a few hours at the house, which has a natural ventilation system. Bring along a sweater or jacket. You'll need it any time during the April 1 through Dec. 1 season.

At the nearby Taliesin Fellowship Buildings, which serve as summer headquarters for the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, tours may be taken mid-July through Labor Day. The famed architect is buried there.

Weekend visitors can take to the trails at nearby Tower Hill State Park, and the Governor Dodge State Park located 15 miles south of Spring Green. Sandstone bluffs and deep valleys at Governor Dodge provide a picturesque setting for nature walks, camping, horseback riding and snowmobiling.

The town of Mineral Point, southwest of Spring Green on U. S. Rte. 151, provides an interesting stopover for the weekend visitor. Cornish miners settled in the area in 1830, drawn by the Galena mines. The miners' restored limestone homes can be toured during the summer season, and a self-guided tour of historic sites is an easy drive. For information on the tours, write to the Mineral Point Chamber of Commerce, Mineral Point, Wis. 53665.

Williamsburg ready for Bicentennial

Even in the fourth season, Williamsburg, Va., remains the green country town that Gov. Nicholson envisioned it 200 years ago.

Many travelers find winter the most rewarding time of year to visit the Historic Area. After the foliage leaves the trees it is possible to see every house for blocks, study the unique and interesting roof lines and chimneys as well as have an uninterrupted view of the many backyard gardens.

The winters are mile — golf and tennis can be played year-round — and the soft sunlight beckons those who like to traverse the area on foot and visit the kitchens, picturesque craft shops and other exhibition buildings.

ALTHOUGH THERE'S a nip in the air, the warmth of Williamsburg's hospitality remains. It's a time for old friends to get together and, in keeping with the 18th-century tradition of winter visiting, Colonial Williamsburg offers several types of leisure season packages, combining hotel accommodations, tours of the historic buildings, selected meals and other options.

The best-known and most popular of these combinations are the Colonial Weekends, held on 11 occasions during the winter months. They include two nights at the Williamsburg Inn, Lodge or The Motor House, four meals, two receptions, general admission tickets to the colonial homes, public buildings and craft shops in the historic area, golf privileges on the Golden Horsehoe or Spotswood courses, and special programs and demonstrations of 18th-century activities.

Rates for the Colonial Weekends range from $73 to $92 per person depending on the hotel. A third night option, European Plan, also is available at a special rate. Colonial Weekends are scheduled for Dec. 12-14, 1975; and every weekend from Jan. 2-4 through March 12-14 except Jan. 30-Feb. 1.

This season the weekends will feature a new film, "A Williamsburg Sampler," plus the popular Groaning Board, a sumptuous feast that includes not only good food but lively entertainment as well. The popular Colonial Williamsburg Militia Company also will fire the morning guns on Saturdays and there will be other Bicentennial-flavored activities.

JUST PRIOR to Christmas, a holiday prelude is featured. The Prelude has essentially the same meals, lodging, reception, touring, golf and price factors as the Colonial Weekends, but emphasizes Yule season events.

Another special package offers four days and three nights at The Motor House, weekdays or weekends, from Nov. 1 through March 1, except Nov. 28-29 and the Dec. 20-31 holiday season. Called the Leisure Season Package, this plan offers three breakfasts, and two dinners, admission to the exhibits and buildings in the historic area, and tennis privileges. The cost is $73.50 per person, double occupancy, with option to add a day at reduced rates.

Don't miss that cruise!

A question came up this week regarding fly/sea programs. We have clients on the fabulous Carla C in January, and they were wondering what happens if the plane is delayed here by a snowstorm. A good question! The flight is a charter, which means that everyone on that flight is going on a Costa Line cruise, either the Carla C or Americanas. The cruise line says the ship will be held. However, if you should fly scheduled airlines to your port for any cruise, I suggest that you plan your flight, keeping in mind that the cruise line will not hold departure for a few people. To be really safe during times when snowstorms might occur, we suggest flying down Friday evening for a Saturday departure.

Zigman leaves coaching duties; Drain in charge

by JIM COOK

George Zigman, one of the area's most successful and respected varsity basketball coaches, will spend this season on the sidelines as a spectator because of health reasons, the Herald learned Monday.

Arlington Athletic Director Russ Altis, in confirming the announcement, appointed freshman 'A' basketball coach Don Drain to the varsity post for the remainder of the year. Zigman will return to the head coaching spot for the 1976-77 campaign.

Zigman, who would have been shooting for his fourth consecutive North Division title and third straight 20-victory season, was in attendance during Arlington's 43-36 opening season loss at Proviso West Friday, but not in a coaching capacity.

"It was pretty tough sitting there, imagining what moves to make and I'm kind of anxious to get back in there," Zigman, who has already forged a 127-43 record into Arlington's books, said.

"I'm very confident Don will do a good job until I get back. He's helped me tremendously in the past and I'm sure he'll do a fine job with these kids."

Junior varsity coach Howard Fedema, who ran the team Friday, will assist Drain beginning Wednesday night when Arlington encounters Willowbrook in the first game of a four-team, round-robin tournament at York High School in Elmhurst.

Drain is starting his ninth season in the Arlington basketball program and guided the current Cardinal seniors to the Glenbrook North holiday championship over Proviso East as freshmen and piloted the juniors to a sparkling 16-1 season two years ago.

"I know all of the players and they know me," Drain said in reference to the adjustment. "Our system at Arlington is nearly identical on all levels, so the fundamentals are already out of the way."

"This Thanksgiving Tournament at York will be good for us," Drain, a mathematics instructor, added. "The competition (Willowbrook, York and Elgin) is high caliber and should be a good proving ground for the team."

Unofficial deer harvest 'good'

Early returns from the first three-day segment of the shotgun deer hunting season last weekend supported the optimistic predictions of a record buck harvest this year.

With the northwest region of the state still to be heard from, Illinois Department of Conservation (IDC) officials report most hunters had good success afield.

The shotgun deer season, which permitted shooting between the hours of 6:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, was blessed with generally fair weather conditions.

The northern one-half of the state was covered by frost in the mornings with scattered snow flurries — but not nearly enough to allow tracking the whitetail.

The southern portion of Illinois, meanwhile, was relatively soggy with early-morning rains making for spongy footing.

But the climate failed to hamper the efforts of shotgunners hunting the confines of Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge in Williamson County.

The federal refuge area, open in the past only when herd control became desirable, accommodated 600 hunters during the first segment of the season.

Unofficially, those 600 shooters bagged 495 deer — or one whitetail for every 1.2 hunters — an extremely high percentage. The refuge will permit an additional 200 shooters for the final three-day season, Dec. 12, 13 and 14.

The deer herd on the refuge area has increased to the point where it is a major factor in crop depredation both on refuge lands and in surrounding private agricultural acreages, ruining orchard and row crops.

Late November is annually the time of year when most automobile collisions with deer occur. Many of these accidents are serious enough to warrant special attention by drivers of motor vehicles.

On the average, 1,500 deer are killed and reported to state officials each year by autos, but that number is probably one-half of those actually occurring and going unreported for various reasons.

The deer are especially on the move this time of year because of crop harvesting by farmers, hunting pressure and the deer breeding season which finds bucks very actively chasing does.

The IDC has an agreement with the Department of Transportation to help alleviate the deer-auto collisions.

Reflecting devices in areas of known heavy deer use and deer crossing signs have been erected throughout the state, but it appears that drivers seldom heed the warnings, so accidents continue to increase.

In areas of known deer use, drivers are urged to drive slowly and alertly at sunrise and dusk as well as at night.

In the event of a collision, contact the nearest law enforcement agency. Although the deer are usually buried by the Transportation Dept., Wisconsin has taken a different approach to the problem.

A new state law in the Badger state now allows any driver who accidentally kills a deer with a motor vehicle on a highway to keep the deer free of charge if he has it tagged by a conservation warden or law enforcement officer.

The IDC will issue no hunting licenses to persons under 16 years of age unless they have previously held such a license or have satisfactorily completed a hunter-safety course.

These strengthened requirements were made mandatory through legislation passed during the current session of the General Assembly and signed by Gov. Daniel Walker and will be implemented beginning next July.

"We would prefer that all youthful hunters take the course in hunter safety," Tony Dean, director of the IDC said. "When a youngster is learning to hunt, it is essential for him to begin with proper techniques in order to make safe practices instinctive."

"We would also like to see adults attend the course," Dean added. "No one is too old to learn or review gun safety."

Currently, 19 other states and two Canadian provinces require hunter-safety certificates prior to issuing hunting licenses. Free courses will be offered in Illinois throughout the year.

Mid-Suburban volleyball play

Newcomer, two vets show strength

(Editor's Note: Starting with today's feature on three area volleyball teams, the Herald will be running weekly stories featuring local teams every Tuesday.)

by PAUL LOGAN

A newcomer and two veteran teams are enjoying fast starts in Mid-Suburban League volleyball.

The Buffalo Grove Bison, 2-0 in the North Division and 4-1 over-all, are giving every indication of being the new power in the North. In the South Division, two old rivals — Prospect and Forest View — own perfect records in and out of the league.

"We're much better," said Paula Von Gerichten, Buffalo Grove's coach, in comparing this year's team with one that finished in third place in the 1974-75 season. "We've gotten a whole lot more movement out of them. We're just playing more aggressive ball."

In two divisional battles last week, Buffalo Grove defeated Palatine in two games and Arlington in three. Its other two wins were in crossover meets with Schaumburg and Elk Grove. Hoffman Estates defeated them in three games in the season opener.

Von Gerichten has a young team. Her only senior starter is Sue O'Heir. Michelle Smith, Sherri Blum, Debbie Underwood and Michelle van Campenelle are juniors. Joyce Gallagher, a sophomore, also starts.

"In a lot of cases, we've hustled well and played good defense," said Von Gerichten in explaining her team's fine start. Tonight the Bison will host Hersey. The Huskies haven't lost in North play.

Other North action will have Wheeling at Fremd and Palatine at Arlington.

In the South Division, this season was supposed to be a time for rebuilding. Instead, the Prospect Knights are 1-0 in divisional play and 5-0 over-all!

"I really didn't expect all that much this year because some of them are new," said Sandy Pifer, coach of the Knights. She's still not predicting anything, however. "We're a young team — having ups and downs. We're unpredictable at this point."

Opponents have to be thinking otherwise of the defending MSL champions. Last year's success helped bring a record number to tryouts. Of the 75 who showed up, 23 make up the varsity and jayvee teams.

Although Pifer freely substitutes, the usual starting lineup has senior Karen Smith, junior LouAnn Sandstrom, and sophomores Jeannine Hahn, Lisa Young, Dina Wilke and Pam Mache.

"Basically, from what the other coaches tell me, our strength is in defense," said Pifer. "I think we probably have a lot of good positioning on defense. We're probably not as fast as other people we've seen."

However, the Knights are far from perfect. "There are a million things to improve upon," she said. Pifer would like to get away from a "too predictable" offense. She also would like to see her team improve in the area of serve reception.

She says she is most happy with the improvement shown by her freshmen. Even if Prospect doesn't repeat as conference champion, this wealth of underclassman talent bodes well for the future.

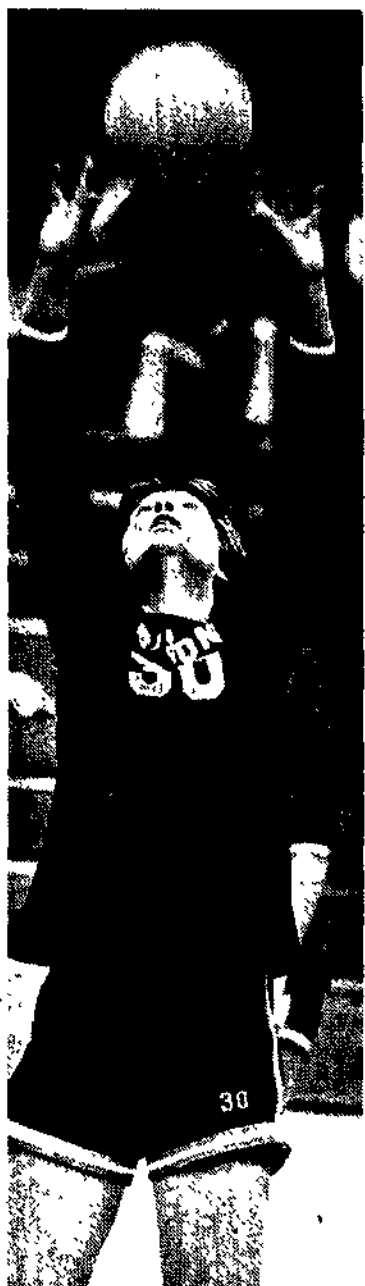

Prospect will face a tough test tonight at Hoffman Estates. Other South action will have Conant at Elk Grove and Forest View at Rolling Meadows.

Forest View barely lost to Arlington in last year's districts. The Falcons also finished second in the division. So far this season the veteran team of Coach Denise Van Heule has been pushed to three games twice by Wheeling and Hoffman before winning.

In order to register those two-game sweeps (they've only done that against Arlington), the Falcons must improve on their "execution," according to Van Heule. "Just the way we're moving on the court needs work. We're learning a new offense, so it's going to take time to learn it inside and out."

She takes her starting six from seven fine players — seniors Cathy Del Giudice, Kim Smid, Bonnie Rogosch and Mary Arko and juniors Debbie Brinkman, Nancy Lancaster and Lori Frighetto.

Once they've had enough competition under their belts to perfect their offense, Van Heule will be able to say just how good a team she's got.

HELPING LEAD her Buffalo Grove team to victory in volleyball action is Debbie Underwood. The Bison presently lead the North Division of the Mid-Suburban League with a 2-0 record.

'Dead' duck is alive!

SLIDELL, La. (UPI) — Warren Stovall was relaxing at home after getting a pair of mallards he intended to have mounted. He went to his freezer to get ice for a drink.

He opened the freezer door and a half-frozen drake with buckshot wounds in the neck and wing swooped by him like an avenging ghost.

"Warren started screaming," said his wife Charlotte who was in another room watching television. "I think he thought the dead duck had come back to get him."

"He came running in with the duck and it was alive. It had worked its way out of the foil and was sitting in the freezer when he opened it, and flew out."

Stovall shot the drake and a hen about 12 hours earlier Friday. A busy taxidermist told him to put the birds on ice until he could get to them Monday.

Stovall wrapped each bird separately in tin foil, sealing them with tape, and popped them in the freezer.

"He worked his way out of the foil and must have been out a long time," said Mrs. Stovall. "There was bird mess all inside the freezer."

A weeping Mrs. Stovall wrapped the bird in a blanket and rocked it like a baby. She nursed it through the weekend and took it to the veterinarian. The vet said the stunned bird survived in the freezer because of its natural insulation.

The Stovalls decided to give the drake to a man who raises ducks. "As much as this duck has been through, he wasn't meant to die," Mrs. Stovall said.

Twins tab Mauch

Gene Mauch came back "home" Monday, taking over as manager of the Minnesota Twins and saying they have "the potential to win."

Calvin Griffith, Twins president, announced he had hired the veteran 50-year-old Mauch, fired by the Montreal Expos after the past season, to manage the Twins for the next three years. Mauch succeeds Frank Quilici.

Mauch piloted the old Minneapolis Millers to American Association pennants in 1958 and 1959 before managing the Philadelphia Phillies from 1960-68 and the expansion Montreal club from 1969-75. He said, "I promised myself two years ago that if I went with another club it would be with a club that's got the potential to win. I believe I've got that here."

He said the Twins are "fundamentally sound" and he hopes they will play for him "with enthusiasm and intelligence."

Mauch said he was "glad to come back to Minnesota." He said 1968 and 1969, when he piloted the Minneapolis Millers to American Association titles, were "my best years in baseball."

Mauch's salary with the Twins wasn't mentioned. He had one year to go on a $70,000-a-year contract with Montreal when the Expos fired him. Griffith was asked what arrangement was made with Montreal for paying off the rest of Mauch's contract there, and he replied, "Montreal paid Gene."

Griffith took his time finding a new experienced manager to try to improve the Twins after they had a difficult year on the field and at the gate last year. The Twins finished fourth in the American League West Division with a 76-83 record and drew only 737,156 fans.

Steelers roll over Oilers

Frenchy Fuqua and Franco Harris ran for fourth-quarter touchdowns as the Pittsburgh Steelers broke open a close game and stomped the Houston Oilers 32-9 in the nationally televised Monday Night Game of the Week at the Astrodome.

The Pittsburgh defense forced numerous Oiler turnovers, and quarterback Terry Bradshaw enjoyed an excellent night of passing as the Steelers put a one-game bulge between themselves and Cincinnati in the AFC Central Division. Houston is two games back.

Bradshaw used his receivers well, locating Lynn Swann, Frank Lewis, and John Stallworth almost at will.

Houston QB Dan Pastorini hit Ken Burroughs for a 59-yard TD pass in the fourth quarter for the Oilers' only touchdown.

Harris ran four yards for a touchdown and Bradshaw passed 18 yards to Swann within the last three minutes of the second quarter to lift the Steelers to a 15-3 first half lead.

Defensive end Dwight White had given Pittsburgh an early 2-0 lead in the first quarter when he dropped Pastorini, who chased down a wild center snap on an attempted punt, in his own end zone.

Houston, held to one first down in the first 18 minutes, put together four first downs midway through the second period on the running of Don Hardeman and Ronnie Coleman to move from its 10 to the Pittsburgh 10, from where Skip Butler kicked a 27-yard field goal.

Butler's boot made the score 3-2 with 5:17 left in the half.

Virgin wins NCAA harrier title

Craig Virgin of Illinois outkicked defending champion Nick Rose of Western Kentucky in the last mile to win the National Collegiate Athletic Association cross-country championship at Penn State Monday.

Virgin, 12th in last year's race at Indiana, finished the six-mile course in 28 minutes 23.3 seconds, 30 yards ahead of Rose.

The top two finishers ran together from the halfway point until the five-mile mark when the Illinois junior took the lead. He ran the final mile in 4:46.

The University of Texas at El Paso nosed out Washington State, 88-92 for the team title. UTEP was led by James Munyala (sixth) and Frank Karuki (eighth).

John Ngeno led Washington State to the runnerup spot with his third-place finish. Terry Williams of Oregon was fourth, but the defending team champion Ducks finished 11th in the team race.

Pennsylvania's Dave Merrick, two-time Illinois High School cross country champion from Lincoln Way, was ninth.

Virgin, a high school star at Lebanon (Ill.), was IHSA champ in 1971 and 1972.

Buckeyes dominate All-Big Ten

Big Ten champion Ohio State, going to the Rose Bowl for its next game, dominated the all-conference football team chosen by league coaches for United Press International and announced Monday.

On the first team offense, the Buckeyes landed star running back Archie Griffin for the third consecutive year, quarterback Cornelius Greene for the second straight year, fullback Pete Johnson, and tackle Chris Ward, the only sophomore in the top 22.

On the defensive team, Ohio State placed three players, end Bob Brudzinski, tackle Nick Buonomi, and defensive back Tim Fox. Two Buckeyes made the offensive second team and four made the second defensive eleven.

ARM'S LENGTH. A mass of arms reach out for a rebound during Prospect's opening contest with Evanston Saturday, including one belonging to Knight Bruce Brothers (44). Harper, Lake County collide, Lions travel

The Harper Hawks and Lake County Lancers will compare basketball teams tonight at St. Viator High School beginning at 8 p.m. as Roger Bechtold's squad attempts to recover from an opening game loss to Elgin.

The Lancers are 1-1 for the season, having bumped off highly regarded Wright and dropping a decision to Highland.

"We're going to be a good team," said Lake County coach Dr. Bruce Smith. "Wright is down this year but helped us to beat them."

Lake County's big guns are 6-5 center Pat Mitchell and guard Bobby Calhoun.

"Those are the two we go to when we need the points," Smith said.

Backing them up will be forwards Calvin Myers (6-2), Mike Gudowski (6-3) and guard Greg Hasty.

Harper suffered poor first half shooting in their 70-64 loss to Elgin and dropped far behind before closing to within a point late in the game.

Jim Arden led the Hawks with 18 points against Elgin and forward Wally Butman chipped in 12. Van McLeod, a freshman guard from Forest View, had several key steals during Harper's comeback bid.

LIONS IN TOURNEY

St. Viator's varsity basketball season got off to a successful start last Friday when the Lions rallied for a 73-67 victory at Immaculate Conception, a pretty nice present for first-year coach Ron Cregier.

Now Cregier takes his Lions to the eight-team Streator Holiday Tournament, where they will open up with a game tonight at 8:00 against Kankakee Eastridge.

"It was a good start," said the 26-year-old coach who already has three years of coaching experience at Mendel Catholic. "We really played with poise in the fourth quarter. It was a real five-man effort by the kids."

The Lions got 23 points from 6-9 center Glen Girard and 16 from little guard Ralph Casciaro, who got nine of them in the fourth period when Viator came from behind for the win. Sophomore Paul Wiloff added 14 and junior Steve Nataro had 12.

"The key for us was making those nine free throws in the fourth quarter," said Cregier.

Four of the bonus tosses were by reserve guard Kevin Mulroy, a refugee from the Lions' football team who showed coolness under pressure.

Cregier saw a lot of good things Friday. He saw balanced scoring, a solid defense, and poised play from a team that mixes youth and experience.

The Lions' next game in the Streater tourney will be played on Friday — at either noon or 6:30 p.m., depending on the results of tonight's contest.

The other teams in the tourney are Proviso West, Marquette, Rich South, Mendel Catholic, Morris, and host Streater.

Ask Andy

Ocelots-world's loveliest felines

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Kris Bertram, 12, of Milwaukee, Wis., for his question: WHAT IS AN OCELOT?

Lions and tigers, lynxes and leopards are meat-eating hunters, well known for their caty tempers. But let's face it, with their golden coats, bold stripes and flowery spots, surely the members of the cat tribe are among the most handsome animals in the world. And people who know them well rate the ocelot as the most handsome cat of them all.

The ocelot may be almost twice as big as an ordinary house cat. He does not mix with the bobcats and lynxes of our Northern woods, and most of us never see him except in a zoo. His favorite haunts are tropical jungles. He is at home as far south as Paraguay, and once in a while he prowls just north of the Mexican border.

At first sight, you might mistake him for a teenage leopard. However, though the spotted leopard is a beauty, he cannot compete for looks with the ocelot. For one thing, the leopard's spots are more or less standard. But no two ocelots wear exactly the same patterns.

The ocelot's fur is short, thick and silky. Its background color ranges from pearly to pastel gray, from tawny yellow to pale candy brown. It is deeper on his back and paler on his tummy, throat and chin. However, the background color is almost completely covered with darker patterns of dots and spots, stripes and rings, blotches and splashes.

His home is the forest floor, where he prowls on soft padded paws in search of agouti and other small game. He also is an expert climber and sometimes hunts birds among the boughs. All this is usual caty conduct. But unlike most of the other cats, the ocelot enjoys the water and often takes a dip in his favorite stream.

Usually he hunts with his mate and the pair carry on a meowing conversation. But unlike most of the other cats, prowls through the dense underbrush. In August or September, the female builds a soft grassy nest among rocks or in a hollow tree — and bears two furry kittens.

Ocelots are hard to spot in the dense woods — but they are still hunted for their handsome coats. Some people capture the young ones and tame them. An ocelot may become a friendly and playful pet, fond of chasing a ball and retrieving it like a dog. However, unless his human family is extra kind and understanding, he may develop a caty temper as he grows older.

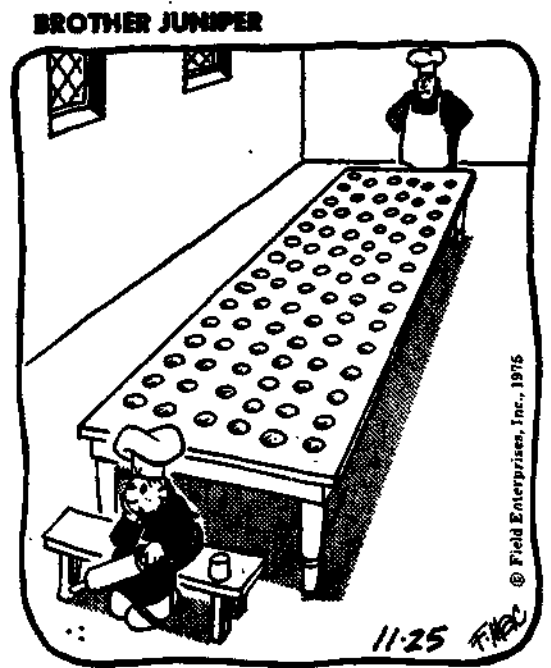

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Alison Gyves, 10, of Tucson, Ariz., for her question: HOW DOES LIGHTNING DIFFER FROM HEAT LIGHTNING?

Lightning and heat lightning are the same. The thing that makes them seem different is where you happen to be. We see streaks of ordinary lightning when a storm is overhead or almost overhead. We are close enough to see the fiery flash as it darts down through the cloud. But sometimes the storm is miles away — too far for us to see its fiery streaks of lightning, but not far enough for the cloud to be hidden below the horizon.

This is when we see the bright, hazy blur of heat lightning. Actually the lightning flashes are usual — but all we see is the foggy light it spreads through the misty cloud. Usually we see heat lightning on a sultry evening, when the air longs to be cooled by a shower. But the storm that could cool things off passed us by and happened way off in the distance.

Despite nervous opening Turner's out to please

by GENIE CAMPBELL

It's hard to say who was more nervous opening night last Friday at Arlington Park Theatre — the audience or the billed star.

Theatergoers had the easier time of it fidgeting in their seats while speculating what Lana Turner would look like up close and how she would react in the well worn Samuel Taylor and Cornelia Otis Skinner comedy, "The Pleasure of His Company."

Lana on the other hand, had to prove herself and perform before an unblinking crowd of curiosity seekers. She did manage to do so, but not without the noticeable fear and apprehension of a misjudged, innocent bystander prodded to face a firing squad. She came out on stage with a bad case of the heebie jeebies which fortunately gradually subsided as the play unfolded.

NO DOUBT TICKET holders going to Arlington in the following weeks, will see a much more poised, confident Lana Turner now that the long-standing actress realizes the audience isn't going to attack but rather, sit back and smile.

The role of a matronly, wealthy, society-minded mother trying to launch her daughter off to a good start on a well-to-do marriage, is much more suited to her present attributes than the sexy, movie queen image she portrayed for so long.

Director John Bowab has done his job. Turner's costuming is, for the most part, appropriate and attractive. Nor are flamboyant, dramatic gestures employed to juice up her stage appearance outside of several cross-legged lounging Turner-style poses which do look contrived and would be better left out altogether.

Having been out of the limelight in recent years, it is a decided tribute to Lana that tickets immediately sold out for all performances last weekend. The play already has been extended through Dec. 28 to accommodate those orders still flowing in.

Mid-week review

BUT IT IS not only Miss Turner but also co-star Louis Jourdan for whom the public clamors. He has developed a large following in this area through his two previous engagements at Arlington Park Theatre.

And as in "13 Rue de L'Amour," his most recent show here, Louis is at his best playing the scamp, a devil-may-care, winsome guy who is obsessed with chasing beauty and danger around the world.

Impish, unpredictable, making the most of his precise French diction, the roguish Jourdan makes up for the play itself whose theme by today's standards registers stale.

Playing the ex-husband who unexpectedly shows up to steal his daughter away for a foot-loose, fantasy-filled holiday, Jourdan expertly unloads those quips and uncompromising situations that still do work in "The Pleasure of His Company."

Though it is by no means my first preference in theater, the comedy is "cute" and hence appealing to a wide audience.

And included in the lineup are other talented cast members who manage to roll with the punches.

Marilynn Scott actually does look and act like her father's daughter and if she at times appears just a bit too naive and goody-goody, remember she's playing the show in 50s style.

Sidney Breeze is the kindly, philosophical and wise grandfather who graces the stage with a great deal of candor and wit. Don Marston wears his patience well as conservative husband number two, and Allan Hunt plays his part up as the jilted cattle rancher who chooses to eat his meat plain and speak "bull" instead of French. Finally there is Arsenio Trinidad who in brief appearances, epitomizes the saucy Chinese butler.

IF YOU HAVE a yen for the comfortable, "The Pleasure of His Company" will suit you just fine.

Experts plot bid sequence in this play

Here is another reader's question hand. It presents problems in both bidding and play. The bidding in the box shows how two experts might well bid the hand.

North responds two spades to see what partner might rebid. South rebids two notrump to show a balanced minimum.

North's jump to four notrump is Blackwood in ordinary circles. Some experts play it as optional Blackwood. South can pass if he is really ashamed of his hand, but responds Blackwood

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

If he likes his holding. Needless to say, South likes his three aces and two jacks and shows the aces, whereupon North settles for six notrump.

The play for six notrump is a good one. South has to try the spade finesse and it loses. Then, the hand depends on a successful club finesse. It is normal to cash dummy's king of clubs first whereupon it is necessary to finesse against East. He holds the club queen and South has his 12 tricks.

Battle with gout jams man's vibes for nature signs

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (UPI) — A bout with the gout has jammed William Samuel "Willie" Smith's reception of some of nature's vibes, but he's guessing this winter won't do much to cause a run on long johns.

"I'd say we'll probably have a mild winter," said the 76-year-old transplanted Texan who has been observing nature's signs for more than 50 years.

"I was in the hospital about 10 days with that rich man's ailment, and I just haven't been able to get out and look around much," said Smith.

Much of the weather lore he picked up from his grandfather, who lived with the Comanches as a boy of 12 after his family was wiped out by Indians.

"HE BECAME their medicine man," said Smith. "He was a doctor but couldn't write his own name. Wouldn't wear anything made of cloth. All his clothing came from animal skins."

His grandfather's Indian name was Shashenah, "but the white man called him Caleb Matlock," said Smith, a native of Mount Enterprise, Tex., whose father, Samuel, was a former sheriff of Cherokee County, Texas.

When Smith wants to get a line on winter, he keeps a weather eye out for woolly worms crossing the road.

"They're almost a 100 per cent sign," said Smith. "A maroon woolly worm with a thin coat means a mild winter. When it's black and thick, you can almost bet your last dollar you're in for a hard winter."

And, by all means, keep your eye on the redbird and listen to it when you want to know when winter and spring come.

Equivalency test for high school certificates set

Applications for the high school equivalency examination will be taken Dec. 2 at Harper College from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The examination, known as the General Educational Development (G.E.D.) test, is given to persons 18 years of age or older who have not earned a high school diploma. If successfully completed, the G.E.D. test entitles the applicant to a high school equivalency certificate which may be valuable in fulfilling college entrance requirements or getting jobs and promotions.

The examination will be given in three parts, Dec. 12, 13 and 19 at Harper College. Applicants must pay a $5 fee when registering to cover all three exams.

Applicants must be 18-years-old or older and a resident of Cook County.

Registration will be held at the community counseling center in Harper, building A, room 147. The college is at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

WHEN THE REDBIRD falls silent, it means winter has arrived, "and I haven't heard a redbird sing in two or three weeks," said Smith. "When he sings again, you know it's spring and he's announcing where his territory is."

The thickness of moss on the north side of a tree and the condition of its bark go into Smith's forecasts on the severity of winters.

Smith, who served an extended hitch in the Navy in World War II, also had a fling in show business and worked as a newspaper advertising salesman. Now he spends his time looking for old guns and Indian relics and nature's signs.

"Most people are so busy they don't pay any attention to the signs," said Smith. "The average individual doesn't pay any attention to the migration of birds except when he wants to kill a duck or goose."

WILLIAM S. "WILLIE" SMITH, 76, studies nature's signs from his grandfather, who served as a medicine man for Comanche Indians. Why a mild season? No black woolly worm, he says.

10-day restraining order issued

Abortion law enforcement halted

A 10-day restraining order issued by U.S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall temporarily suspends enforcement of all the provisions of Illinois' new abortion law, a Chicago attorney said Monday.

Illinois briefs

Marshall's order, Hamlin said, reads: "Any physician who performs pregnancy termination during the first trimester of pregnancy cannot be prosecuted during the 10-day period or anytime thereafter retroactively."

"It's rare when a federal court judge will do that," Hamlin said, adding he expects the attorney general's office to challenge that part of the order.

David Hamlin, director of the Illinois division of the American Civil Liberties Union, said Marshall's order issued last Saturday "prevents any of the various state's attorneys or the attorney general's office from enforcing any provision of the new abortion law" until Dec. 1.

The action came on a petition from the ACLU, which regards most of the new law unconstitutional.

Controversial portions of the new law include requiring wives to obtain permission of their husbands for abortions, and women 18 and under to have parental consent.

State not going bankrupt

Illinois is not in danger of going bankrupt but the state must begin to alter its deficit spending patterns of the past two years, a banking official said Monday.

Thomas A. Vaughn, a vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, told the 29th Annual Conference of Bank Correspondents that public statements and newspaper articles a few weeks ago made it appear that Illinois was almost broke and about to go bankrupt.

"However, the facts simply do not support such statements," he said.

FBI probes Bell wiretaps

The FBI and the Justice Department have started an investigation into illegal wiretaps brought to their attention by Illinois Bell Telephone Co. and private citizens, U.S. Attorney Samuel K. Skinner said Monday.

A separate investigation of allegedly illegal wiretaps by the Illinois Bureau of Investigation is "nearing completion," Skinner said.

The federal agencies are investigating an Illinois Bell report that it found nine wiretaps in its equipment since August. Previously, the company only notified the customer involved.

Skinner said the records and wiretapping devices were subpoenaed from Illinois Bell.

Board condemns U.N. vote

The Cook County Board voted unanimously Monday to condemn the United Nations' vote which equates Zionism with racism.

A motion called the U.N. vote "a vicious libel against the state of Israel and an abhorrent expression of internationally sanctioned anti-Semitism directed against Jews."

Commissioner Martin Tuchow, who introduced the motion, said the United Nations was on its way to becoming "the world center of anti-Semitism."

College master plan urges restraint

by United Press International

The second draft of the proposed new Master Plan for higher education in Illinois is less somber than the first but its message is still one of "caution and restraint" when it comes to money and new programs.

The plan, received by educators throughout the state Monday, was revised by the staff of the Board of Higher Education after college and university administrators complained the first draft was too negative.

The BHE is expected to give tentative approval to the plan at its Dec. 2 meeting, and it probably will be formally adopted in February or March after public hearings are held.

UNDER ILLINOIS LAW, the BHE must periodically issue long-term plans and goals for state colleges and universities. The latest, the fourth to be issued, is called MP IV for short.

Like the first draft of MP IV, the revised version calls for undergraduate tuition increases which would require each student to pay one-third the cost of his or her instruction. The staff estimates that would push up tuition by $60 per student per year between now and 1980.

The new draft also calls for graduate tuitions to be increased to a rate one third higher than undergraduate tuition.

In the original draft of MP IV, the staff said schools could not expect to get a bigger share of state finances than they currently receive, although they could expect more dollars in the future as state revenue grows.

THAT STATEMENT has been eliminated in the revised draft, but the emphasis on conserving money remains.

"The major thrust of the plan is still one of caution and restraint with regard to financing and expansion of programs and facilities," the staff director, James Furman, said in a letter accompanying the revision.

One of the changes likely to please educators comes in a section on goals for individual schools. The first draft of MP IV put specific limitations on how and where the schools could expand. The second draft, while still urging restraint, is more positive and general in recommendations for each campus.

Something for all ages

Suggestions on selecting toys

Selecting gifts for children at Christmas is often the most fun — and most frustrating — part of the season's buying trips.

What exactly do you get for a six-month-old or a nine-year-old? What are their interests at that particular age?

The American Toy Institute has published a booklet called "Choosing Toys for Children of All Ages" in which they offer suggestions on the types of toys suitable for children of different ages.

Babies Under 18 Months

The baby needs brightly colored, lightweight toys of varied textures. They should be washable, too big for him to swallow, and free of rough edges or sharp corners.

Baby's first toy might be the colorful bird or fish mobiles attached firmly to his crib so he can "play" with his eyes. Soon, when he can hold things, it's time for the first rattles, the first rubber squeak-toys, and the gym exercisers that stretch across a crib.

Soft dolls and animals are fun to feel, and disks or strings of large beads are also welcome. In his bath, the floating toys will keep baby happy.

A sitting-up baby loves blocks to bang and handle — especially if they rattle or have pictures on them. Cups or boxes that nest together also intrigue him.

And he's now ready for the first simple picture books, ones that show familiar objects and can't be torn.

When baby creeps and crawls, it's time for push-and-pull toys, musical or chime toys, animals on wheels, and small wagons. Baby's hands are now able to cope with simple take-apart-and-put-together toys.

He can hammer pegs into holes (pounding boards) and slip rings onto stakes. Blocks to handle, carry around, and stack provide for an absorbing activity.

Toddlers 18 Months to 3 Years

The running-around toddler needs things to ride and climb on — a low tricycle or small, scoot-along rider, a wagon to get into, trucks and animals to straddle, a hobby horse, a low-to-the-ground backyard gym and seesaw.

Imitating grown-up activity offers fun and learning. A tea party like Mommy's calls for dolls, tea sets, pots and pans, play table and chairs, and maybe simple dress-up clothes.

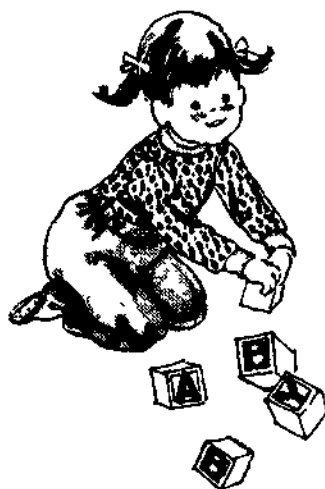

Balls and inflatable toys are good gift choices, along with wading pools and a climb-in sandbox full of pails, shovels and other sand toys.

For playing homemaker, there's child-scale kitchen equipment; stuffed animals and dolls can be part of this "let's pretend" setting.

Hands are more skillful now, though toys for this age group should be simple and not require too much fine muscle coordination. Easy puzzles, more advanced put-together toys like color cones, and shape-perception toys (square peg in square hole, etc.) help satisfy the manipulative urge.

Clay and modeling dough to poke, pat and roll caters both to the yen to manipulate things and the desire to make things. And it's not too soon for fingerpaints and the first easy-to-grasp crayons.

Playing simple musical instruments, from toy piano to tambourines, is lots of fun for 2-3-year olds. The older youngsters in this age group enjoy and can manage to operate simple phonographs.

The young builder needs more blocks of different sizes and shapes at this stage, and he will use them in many different ways, even trying to build "real" houses and towns. For outdoor play, big hollow blocks can be made into wonderful play houses and make-believe castles.

Young Children 3 to 6 Years

Children like to act out grown-up roles like those of cowboys, firemen, policemen, doctors and nurses, so the costumes and equipment for the role-playing are important. So, too, are the dolls and puppets that can represent people in this kind of play.

A play store, make-believe money, pretend food, a cash register and telephone are also welcome. Imagination comes into play, too, with figure-and-scene sets — villages, forts, circuses, farms, service stations, and so on.

The larger backyard gym set provides for large-muscle activity and will keep little friends happy when they come to play.

'Grown-Up' Children 9 to 12 Years

Serious attention to hobbies begins around this time. Boys and girls become involved in crafts projects of various kinds and often begin building collections of stamps, coins, rocks, and so on. There's also great interest in chemistry sets, microscopes, telescopes and other science-related products.

The desire for active physical play, which has most likely been evident since the toddler age, now finds its expression in team play. Baseball, football, basketball, ice-skate and roller-skate hockey, soccer and lacrosse gets lots of play. And it's at this age that boys and girls frequently acquire basic skills in golf and tennis.

Billiards, table tennis, archery and darts (the last two under adult supervision, of course) and similar games attract many 9-12-year-olds. Board games, in particular those requiring strategy decisions and involving a knowledge of school subjects, are also appropriate.

Dramatic play often holds great appeal for boys and girls in this age group. They like to arrange "stage sets" and follow through on all the production details, from props and costumes to the printing of programs. The performances may employ puppets, marionettes, or the children themselves as actors.

Painting, sculpting, working with ceramics, playing musical instruments, and reading a wide range of books are other activities enjoyed by these older children.

Safety Tips

The following practical suggestions to help insure your children's safety were developed by three Florida mothers through the Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc.

1. Think before you buy. Don't impulse buy.
2. Read and keep informed of developments in toy safety.
3. Teach your child proper safe play with toys. Set good examples.
4. Supervise toy play according to the situation. Consider the child's age, personality, surroundings and experience.
5. Check the broken toys. Repair or discard them.
6. Protect the young child from the potentially dangerous toys of the older child.

Young homemakers want toys resembling Mommy's "grown-up" appliances, such as a vacuum cleaner or washing machine. Also called for are large doll furniture and the equipment needed for bathing, feeding and dressing dolls.

Transportation is fascinating. Cars, trains, boats, planes, tractors and all kinds of roadwork and construction trucks find favor.

Wheel toys are needed to explore the neighborhood. Bigger tricycles and riders are suitable now, as well as the first two-wheeler with training wheels.

For rainy-day sessions, have coloring books, paint sets, crayons, drawing boards and wooden puzzles on hand. Reading picture books and story books and listening to records continue to be fun, too.

School Children 6 to 9 Years

Boys and girls usually begin to demonstrate different play interests now, but they still play together much of the time, notably at the game table, because 6-to-9-ers are fascinated by contests of chance and skill.

Dolls of all kinds, but especially the miniatures with their fashion wear and career-oriented wardrobes, come into play at this time. Also much in demand are doll houses with scale furniture, and paper dolls to be "dressed."

Auto race layouts and electric trains have great appeal for boys at this age. They also like science sets and work benches with real tools (fine with adult supervision) and construction sets. Model-building interest starts about now and often continues into the teens.

Although interest in group play is fast becoming evident, children in this age category also play well by themselves. They can now read the many books written especially for them.

Paints, crayons, colored pencils, and clay are still good selections, and more complex puzzles can be introduced. Toy typewriters, printing outfits, handicraft sets and make-it-yourself kits are very popular.

The day of sports and active games are here — baseball, football, basketball, hockey, jump rope and hopscotch.

Boys and girls alike love water sports, with snorkels and fins now added to such other water toys as large beachballs and swim rings. Skates, sleds, and bigger bikes are fine now, too.

Play it crafty this Christmas

Crafts experts suggest that this Christmas is a good time to experiment with one of their favorite pastimes: making attractive objets d'art out of ordinary objects around the home. Not only do the finished products make delightful gifts, they'll also have more meaning for the recipients as the creation of your very own hands.

Search around the house for items that can be converted into crafty gifts, recommend the experts. An old wooden box can start life anew as a jewel box with some paint and "studs" that are in reality brass-colored thumbtacks. Old cigar boxes also make attractive jewel cases with adhesive paper and the artistic placement of old jewelry pieces on top, with the aid of glue.

Transform an ordinary flowerpot into something special with a colorful piece of calico or gingham glued over the pot, and then varnished over for a shiny, gay finish.

Rejuvenate an old metal file box by spraying it with enamel paint, using stencils to create interesting designs.

Scraps of fabrics can make any sturdy cardboard box a delightful cache or storage box for lingerie, scarfs, and other items.

You can also make cache pots from cardboard paint buckets by gluing cotton cord to surface in a decorative design, spraying the whole thing with enamel paint.

Don't toss out that oatmeal box when it's empty — cover it with adhesive paper and you'll have an ideal container for hair rollers, a welcome gift for that teen on your list.

Wooden soft-drink cases, colorfully painted, make great storage racks for the kitchen or the office-at-home.

Create a handy sewing accessories container by painting over an old cooky tin, cutting an interesting piece of fabric into a circle the size of cover and gluing into place.

Once you've created some unusual and attractive gifts like these, you'll probably discover many other items around the house that will inspire equally crafty gifts.

NEWEST THING for the holiday season is the Marriage of Metals by Napier. Glamorous gold and silver creations, classic collars and matching earrings from $9. On display at Persin and Robbin Jewelers in Arlington Heights.

Mail packages early

Here's a basic mailing schedule for all Santa's helpers:

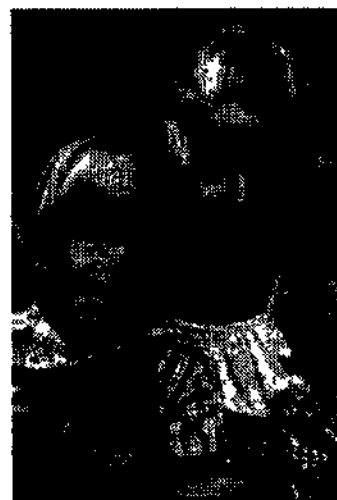

Mid-November: start to mail all parcel airlift packages to servicemen overseas. They should all be posted no later than the last week in November.

End of November: absolute deadline for all packages going to Alaska, Hawaii by surface mailing, packages by airlift to Canada and the Arctic, and airmail packages to the Near East, Far East, and Central and South America.

First week of December: mail international greeting cards and parcels to Africa, Near and Far East, surface mail for the entire U.S.A. (including Alaska and Hawaii), and airmail parcels and cards to Canada, Europe and Mexico.

Third week in December: this is the absolute deadline for all airmail cards and packages in the U.S.A.

By following this basic schedule, you can be fairly certain that your cards and letters will arrive on time for Christmas.

Properly humidified air can help to repel upper respiratory ailments aggravated by too-dry air. In many cases, where excessive dryness has been diagnosed as the cause of these ag-gravations, doctors have pre-scribed humidification. Ask your doctor for his recommendations.

for protection

Dry, heated air draws moisture from everything in your home - woodwork, furnishings, books, the piano or organ. It can cause walls and ceilings to crack, and make fabrics and carpeting wear out too fast. Proper hu-midification provides the protec-tion that's needed.

Be a good host

Don't wait until party day to clean house. You'll be too tired for your guests.

Don't get so wrapped up in one conversation that you forget your other guests.

Don't leave the television on when guests arrive . . . invited, or uninvited.

Don't force games, cards, TV or records on guests.

Do personally talk with each guest at least one time.

Do offer everyone something to eat or drink.

Do leave all your outside lights on; especially this time of year.

Do try to draw all guests into a conversation that's suited to them.

Do put yourself in their place. What would you expect at their house?

Just remember, a warm greeting and good eating are the two keys to successful hosting.

Thoughtful but inexpensive gifts

COMPLAINT-FREE, trouble-free is how Toro describes its Care-free Electric, the battery-powered 16-inch rotary designed especially to mow small lawns. Its new water-activated battery (no acid to add; only simple tap water) extends mowing time to almost 50 minutes. The new trickle charger provides a two-thirds charge in one day; full charge in two days.

Count days with Advent calendars

"How many days till Christmas?" Parents of young children are used to hearing this question time and again in the weeks preceding that big day.

One way to keep youngsters entertained during this time is by having them follow an Advent calendar.

Advent is the four weeks before Christmas and in many countries this period is

A thoughtful Christmas gift need not be expensive; often the most appreciated item is the least costly.

Usefulness and uniqueness is the key to shopping successfully on a budget, and fortunately there are no end of inexpensive gift items available this season.

A collector of fine china would appreciate standing holders to display those prized pieces. Budget-priced holders are available, as are more expensive solid walnut versions.

Calendar towels come in many attractive designs and are a welcome addition to any kitchen. These can be hung on the wall for ready reference in the coming year, then used as a towel the following year.

Personalized match-books would be an ideal gift for a couple that does a great deal of entertaining; check your local novelty shop, or stationery store for information on ordering these.

If those party-giving friends don't have a wing corkscrew bottle opener, they'll appreciate the way this handy gadget takes out corks without spilling a precious drop. And of course, attractive and unusual coasters are always in order for a host and hostess.

A working wife (and husband) would be delighted with a timer that gets the coffee going in the morning, automatically.

The hostess would also appreciate an apron that's more decorative than utilitarian for those special dinners.

A friend famous for her baking efforts would appreciate a set of cookie cutters, or miniature cake pans.

Owners of a fireplace would be pleased with some giant, decorative fireplace matches or a fancy bellows.

Gift the crossword puzzle fan with a special board equipped with dictionary and magnifier to aid in solving puzzles.

That youngster on your list will enjoy having one of the countless games that are on the market, in all price ranges.

And everybody — from junior to Mom and Dad — goes for those wacky t-shirts that are so popular now.

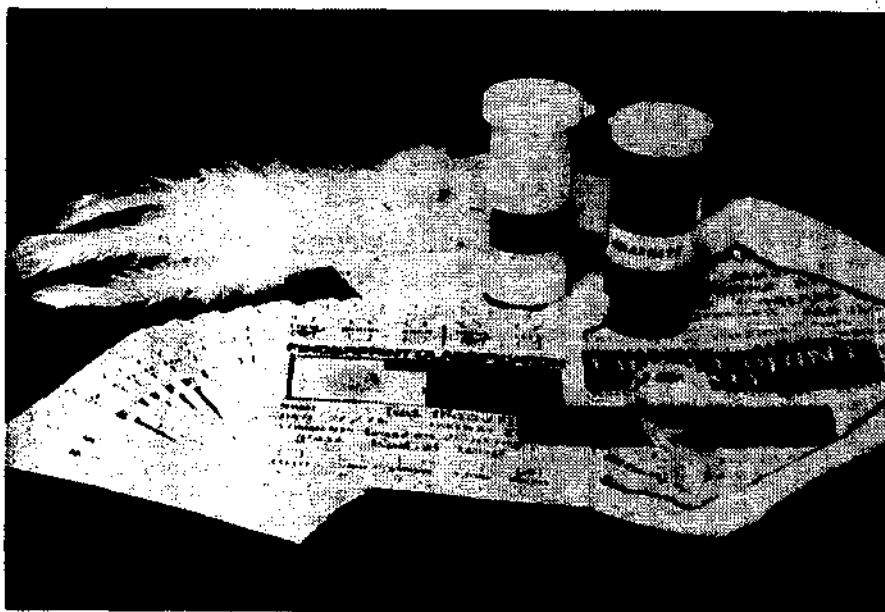

If you've a friend who's a dedicated letter writer, ask at your favorite stationery store about ordering a personalized printer with ink pad or personalized sticker for return addresses.

Bookplates for the avid reader on your list would be appreciated, as would a fancy bookmark.

Memo pads are useful gifts and they come in all types of decorator designs.

A friend who loves to knit would welcome a knitting needle case, especially if it's an attractive one.

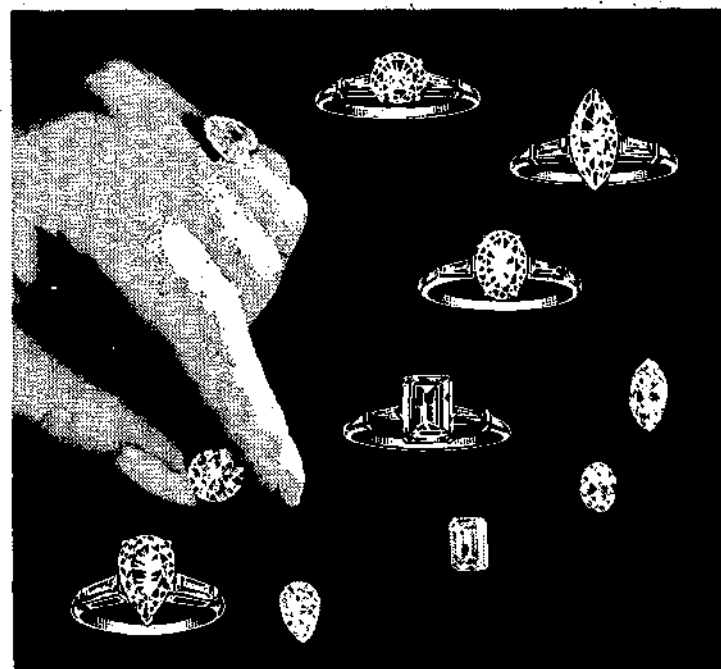

Handy, thoughtful gifts such as these can help your holiday budget out this year.

TAKE FINGERPRINTS — learn police and FBI methods. Bring out and identify invisible prints. Kit, from Educational Design, Inc., contains two kinds of fingerprint powder, ID cards, brush, lifting tape and carrying case. Complete instructions, games and activities. Ages seven through adult.

CHARLIE BROWN is marking his 25th birthday and Peanuts connoisseurs would like nothing better than the "Peanuts Treasury," a selection of Charles M. Schulz's favorite Peanuts cartoons, $8.95. Recycle greeting cards

One of the greatest pleasures of the holiday season is receiving and displaying beautiful Christmas cards. Indeed, some cards are so lovely that you hate to throw them away, at season's end. Don't dispose of those especially nice greeting cards — they can be "recycled" in several ways for next year.

Cut your favorite illustrations out and decoupage them to wood squares for wall hangings, or to a plain wooden box, to transform it into something special.

Cut-outs can also be used to decorate next year's gifts. Wrap gifts in solid color wrapping paper, then glue a perky Santa or a colorful wreath from your card collection to your gift, finished off with a harmonizing bow.

The youngsters can have fun creating their own greeting cards next year from this year's selection. Cut-out illustrations can be glued to colorful construction paper, with appropriate personal messages lettered in by the kids, with felt tips.

Some of the more elaborate greeting cards, particularly those featuring reproductions of famous masters, are worthy of framing in themselves, to be displayed at Christmas-time or even around the calendar.

So, enjoy your greeting cards this Christmas — and when you're ready to take them down, put your imagination to work "recycling" them for the next holiday season.

Cooking tips

When packing homemade cookies for mailing, use unsalted popped "corn" or dry cereal as a filler. Cookies arrive unbroken.

Refrigerator dough for cookies is easily sliced with a wire cheese cutter.

Celery salt or parmesan cheese, sprinkled over hot buttered popped corn, give it an interesting flavor.

Three to four tablespoons of vegetable oil, added to cake mix batter, make the cake more tender.

Wrap popcorn balls in aluminum foil; tie with colored yarn and hang from tree or mantel. Keeps them fresh and pretty to see and eat!

THE FIRST QUARTZ WATCHES MADE LIKE AN OMEGA.

Since 1952, when Omega first developed the revolutionary quartz-based printing timer for the Helsinki Olympics, we have been striving to bring this remarkably accurate method of timekeeping closer to your wrist. Now the time has come. The Omega Megaquartz is not only a watch of astounding accuracy, it's a watch worthy of the name Omega. We weren't satisfied until we perfected the features which allow you to change the hour as you enter a new time zone without losing a fraction of a second, and also to adjust the second display to match international time signals. Then to cap the Megaquartz collection, we produced the world's first wristwatch ever certified "Marine Chronometer." Its quartz resonator divides the second into 2,359,296 parts, making it accurate to within one second a month. All Megaquartz watches are backed by the same craftsmanship and solid service that you expect from Omega. We felt that the only way they could live up to your standard for an Omega is if they first lived up to ours. All Omega Megaquartz watches are water and shock resistant. From $250 to $1850.

THIS DRESS modeled by Pam Huebsch of the Schaumburg Stretch and Sew, 1423 Schaumburg Road, is one of the many that can be seen at a fashion show Dec. 6 at 2 p.m. in the Schaumburg store. The dress is a 100 percent polyester glitter knit. The shawl, also a knit, would cost about $11 to make.

Don't forget the dinner table

Your tree is gaily trimmed and decorations adorn your door and mantelpiece — but what about your dinner table? A holiday centerpiece will contribute to your festive decor and enhance your entertaining.

A platter of shiny glass ornaments with fancy candles set among them would make an elegant centerpiece.

A tiny artificial tree, colorfully trimmed, can set the properly festive note for the special dinner party.

Fresh poinsettias will be especially admired by one and all at this holiday time.

If you have a lovely silver bowl, fill it with holly for an unusually lovely centerpiece.

Give birds holiday treats

Don't forget our little feathered friends this Christmas — decorate that tree outside your home with edible ornaments that will give birds a treat.

You might string popcorn and cranberries on your tree, or hang decorative feeders filled with seed.

Adults and children alike will enjoy watching sparrows and other birds feasting on such festive fare.

A large candle, set among greens and pine cones, also creates an attractive arrangement.

A "bouquet" of candy canes tied with big red bows would be a delightful conversation-piece of your table; other Christmas-type candies in a beautiful container would also be appropriate.

A basket filled with holly or other holiday greens will add a fresh, lovely touch to your table.

Angel figurines, surrounded by holly or mistletoe can create a charming centerpiece also. Other figurines might also lend themselves to such an arrangement.

An old-fashioned candleholder can lend itself beautifully to an arrangement of greens for a nostalgic look.

If you have a rather pretty plant you'd like to spotlight, you might decorate the pot with green or red tape to give it a holiday feeling.

A fruit bowl piled high with your prettiest ornaments makes a striking centerpiece for your table.

A two-tier candy server could be filled with either tiny ornaments or decorative candies, then finished off with a big bow on top.

If you'd like a truly distinctive centerpiece, check with your local florist for suggestions on holiday floral arrangements.

A festive table will add to the pleasure of entertaining at Christmas!

Thanksgiving

than 350 years

This Thanksgiving, as we carve the turkey and enjoy the foods of the harvest season, let us remember to be thankful for the freedom we enjoy. And, as we approach the 200th anniversary of the United States of America, let us pay a special tribute to the Pilgrims of the Massachusetts Colony and our other forefathers who came to the New World in search of freedom. The Pilgrims of New England established the tradition of Thanksgiving even though their first years in the New World were rough and the harvest was small. They were thankful for their freedom and for the opportunity to create a colony in a new land, carving a community from the wilderness. We should always remember these brave settlers, for it was they who set the foundations for freedom upon which our country is built.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING - We will be closed on Thanksgiving Day to allow our employees to be with their families.

HERE'S A GIFT THAT COMES with a 350-year guarantee! In fact, Jeff Cross, who forged these bells claims they could last for 5,000 years. The artist turns out wind bells in 11 shapes and sizes; each bell bears the Cross foundry mark as well as the trademark — a seashell. Some have "HHBW" (Harmony Hollow Bell Works) in raised lettering on the crown, others read "Jeff Cross made me." All the bells have a different tone — hang several in your trees and have a regular carillon when evening breezes blow. The bells range from $12.50 to $39.50. The Gift Box, in both Arlington Market and in Mt. Prospect, is one of the few places the Kansas Bell Maker's bells can be found in Illinois.

The Smart Look For Women & Teens

TIFFANY TAYLOR, Ideal's 19-inch teenage cover girl doll, with hair that can be changed from blonde to brunette, goes national in 1975, after successful test marketing, with 14 casual and boutique outfits including a "mink" coat.

THE SIX MILLION Dollar Man is now a new action figure from Kenner Products, a division of General Mills Fun Group, Inc. Like the real television character in the high-rated suspense series, Colonel Steve Austin, who had been "reconstructed" after a devastating crash with multi-million dollar parts to acquire super-strength, the figure contains remarkable action parts to challenge a child's imagination. Through the back of the figure's head, the youngster can look through a bionic left eye, actually a wide-angle lens. A bionic right arm, operated by a special button, is capable of lifting up to two pounds, and a roll-down "skin" reveals two removable bionic components. The Six Million Dollar Man is 13-inches tall and comes dressed in red sweat suit and sneakers, like his television counterpart.

Christmas dinner

Turkey has been the Christmas dinner treat in many parts of the world only since the 16th century, when the American wild turkey was introduced in other nations.

Earlier feasts featured everything from a boar's head to goose or bustard. The latter is a game bird indigenous to Europe and Australia.

Music has charms for entire family

Question: What do you give the family that can be used by every member and enjoyed year 'round?

For more and more Americans this Christmas the answer will be — a musical instrument.

From grand pianos, to organs and home synthesizers, the family gift that can be enjoyed by all ages is music. And making your own music is proving ever more popular.

Nearly 38 million Americans are amateur musicians and millions more would like to be, says the American Music Conference. This Christmas is a good time to get them started.

If the piano or organ is too advanced or costly, there are hundreds of other items that can be found in retail stores suitable for all ages and ability levels.

For the youngster, there are plastic melody instruments such as tonettes, flutophones and song flutes, dozens of percussion instruments from sticks and claves to small xylophones, tambourines, triangles and drums.

Teens might like a guitar, jazz harmonica, drums or one of the brass or wind instruments.

The adult has the whole gamut of instruments from which to choose, keyboards to frets, winds to strings.

And, of course, there are original scores, special arrangements and self-instruction aids.

For the individual who is already an amateur musician, you can select accessories, scores and new instruments.

If money is no object, consider something really unique — a handcrafted banjo, gold guitar, one of the newer inventions such as a keyboard computer with the sounds of a synthesizer, a folding guitar, or a slender guitar with a unique electric sound.

For the keyboard player who already owns a piano or organ, there are synthesizer attachments to enhance and expand traditional sounds.

Regardless of whether the recipient is already an amateur musician or starts after receiving this year's Christmas gift — music participation will bring enjoyment and personal satisfaction throughout the year. And you'll be remembered each time the player sits down to play or gathers with family and friends.

Music is the one gift that never stops giving — not only to the person who becomes an amateur player but to everyone who shares in his music.

TRAP TENNIS, by Ideal, requires the skill and timing of a real tennis game. Forehand or backhand, smash or lob, each player has to try to fool the other about what kind of shot he's going to take at the ball on the revolving arm. Points are scored by trapping the ball in one of three holes at the end of the trap lever as the ball goes spinning around.

KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN®. Children will feel right at home in this scene for happy family outings. The food play scene opens on a special safety hinge (no pinched fingers) to reveal the delicious world of the Colonel. There's a table with four chairs, and a built-in counter with seating for three. The six customers are actually soft finger puppets, and there's a seventh finger puppet — who else — Colonel Sanders! He fits right onto a push-button behind the counter that activates the automatic bucket and tray dispenser — each finger puppet is grooved in front to carry a tray to the inside seating or to one of the vehicles waiting outside. There's a family car, a sports car and a motorcycle. All accessories can be stored inside the play scene for easy carrying. From Child Guidance for children ages three to eight.

Rings make cherished gifts

A ring is a special thing, a token of love, and as such, a very cherished gift whenever given, but particularly so during the Christmas season. Furthermore, the ring, perhaps history's first truly unisex jewelry — is a favorite of both men and women.

This year, rings take a variety of turns around the finger, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. Just in time for gift giving, rings can be found in a wide range of precious metals, with both traditional and untraditional stones, and in an endless variety of unique designs.

Colored stones decorate the rings with the most gift appeal. Black and green onyx, lapis lazuli, malachite, tiger's eye, jade, opal, carved rock crystal, turquoise, coral, ivory and mother of pearl spice up the many styles, in both gold and silver, with their unusual dimensional shapes as well as their colorings.

Blocks and cylinders of stones make outstanding rings. And when the stone is also a part of the ring's shank, the finger is really gift wrapped.

Flat topped designs are stone-topped, too. These very modern rings usually have square shanks, even split shanks, so the stones are really on display.

Extremely narrow bands of metal that curve upward from each side of the finger are stone centered and meant to be worn — and gifted — in multiples.

The precious colored stones, the rubies, the emeralds, the sapphires, look newest, in wide bands to fit the pinky, in animal shapes. Their splendid bounty accompanied by diamonds in traditional dinner rings is always a gift to herald — and she will!

A ring gift suggestion of special note comes just in time from Europe. It's a full circle or semi-circle of diamonds called the eternity ring. Giving this ring, a husband tells his wife, "I love you now even more."

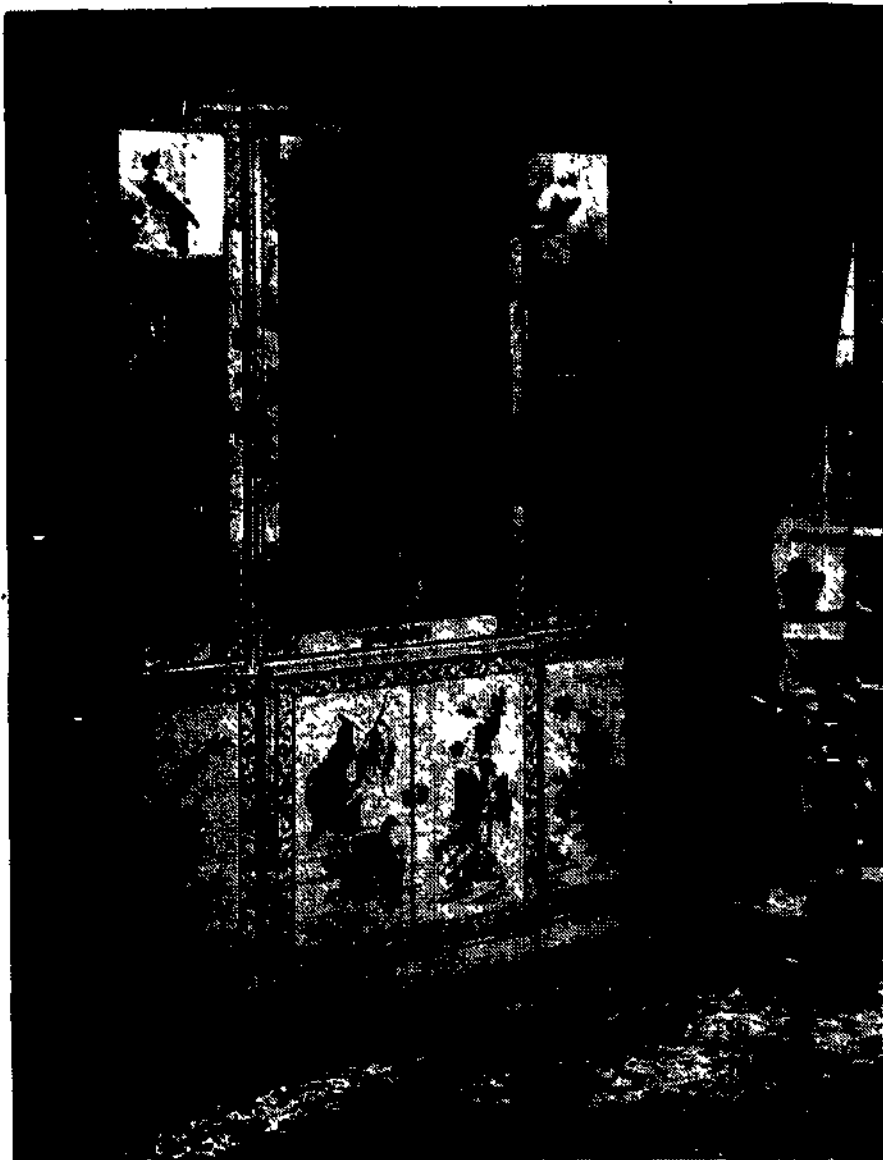

Her birthstone, accented by the smaller birthstones of her children, is a particularly loving ring to put in a mother's stocking.

Small diamonds in gleaming gold pave a glittering path, cluster in contemporary curves, singly spark neway novelties, line up for linear lightworks so it's not by chance that they are Santa's favorite way to ring in a gift. Their combination produces a variety capable of complementing every hand, every taste and every holiday budget.

This includes the masculine half of any gift list, too. For him, diamonds pave the way in generous tubular styles in squared off masculine styles.

New rings for men mix in stones with diamonds and gold for a truly handsome effect. This is Christmas, 1975, and the gifting follows his lifestyle.

Coin rings, diamond sparked initials, sports themes, rings with a flip side that features a different motif, sterling signet rings, animal heads are more ways to round his fingers with a gift he'll love, and love to wear.

TO BRIGHTEN your home for the holidays and enjoy for years to come, this striking bookcase is the perfect accent to any decor. In black lacquer finish or antique bone with silk screen chinoiserie decoration and hand-painted embellishments, the gilt finished back panel of the lighted interior artfully displays books or treasured collector's items on adjustable glass shelves. From the Et Cetera Collection by Drexel, it is featured at the Drexel Heritage Showcase by Plunkett Furniture, 955 E. Rand Road, Arlington Heights. Specially priced for the holiday season at $799.

Make Christmas season last longer

The Christmas season is the most joyous time of the entire year and it's always a little sad to see it come to an end. All the beautiful decorations are boxed away, favorite carols will not be heard for another year, children return to school and adults to their jobs and gray January sets in.

One way to ease the melancholy of the passing season is to pick up on the words of a favorite Christmas song and reserve the 8th of January for a "Twelfth Day of Christmas" party. The tedious and depressing job of dismantling the tree will seem brighter when shared with relatives and friends in a still-festive style.

Before the work begins, have everyone guess the number of ornaments on the tree, then give a prize to the one who finally comes closest to the exact number. Serve everyone a holiday cupcake with a candle on it for making a New Year's wish. If there's a "psychic" in the crowd gather 'round for some fortune telling.

Remember that the warmth and pleasure of good hospitality is never out of season, and that with your own thought and imagination you can make the end of the Christmas season a special, enjoyable occasion.

SAFETY FIRST should be the by-word before you hit the road this holiday season. Since children under 43 pounds should not wear adult seat belts, the best protection a parent can provide his youngster is a dynamically tested car seat such as the Kantwet molded Car Seat, from Questor Juvenile Furniture Company.

BEAUTIFUL COLLECTOR set of the famous Model A Fords. The most sought after auto styles of the late twenties and early thirties, recreated in a matched gift set. All cars have die-cast metal bodies and colorful high impact, plastic chassis. Extreme styling care and high mold expense were necessary to reproduce the "Woody" station wagon, "Touring" sedan, "Pick-Up" truck and "Roadster" with rumble seat. From TootsieToy.

ELECTRO HOCKEY from Marx. Blip lite "Puck" zips across tinted screen of battery-operated set made of polypropylene. Front dials control goalies at left and right ends. Automatic scoring and automatic shut-off when one side scores 11 goals. Additional bumpers under screen give erratic and fast hockey action on screen. Uses 3 "D" cell batteries. For ages six to adult.

BY COMBINING the best elements of a card game with those of a word game, Bali, from Aladdin Industries, Inc., Nashville, Tennessee, lets players test their vocabulary as well as their card skill. As a solitaire game, Bali presents the endless challenge of bettering a personal high score. When played by more than one player, the challenge increases with the number of players, as each one plays on his own draw and on each opponent's draw, attempting to build longer words — and higher scores.

Fill stockings with grooming gifts

When searching for a grab-bag or stocking-stuffer gift for Christmas, look for an inexpensive personal grooming gift. Any member of the family will appreciate these easy-to-find ideas that are also easy-on-the-budget.

For the frequent traveler or college student, wrap up unbreakable, plastic bottles to carry lotions, soaps and toothbrushes.

Gift Dad with a nifty shoe horn for his new shoes or a soft cloth to polish them. A lint brush is also a handy item he'll appreciate.

Give Mom a fluffy sponge for her leisurely baths. Another nice thought for any female: scented sachets to keep drawers pleasantly fresh.

Other gift suggestions that are suitable for relatives, teachers or friends include a nail brush, emery boards or throw-away towelettes to take to work or on a trip. These little items will be appreciated and used long after the holiday season.

PLAYSKOOL has put an entire classroom inside a school book! From the outside it looks like a school book, complete with a vinyl strap that's a measuring tape (in both metrics and inches). Inside is the school room with desks, students and teacher. There's a chalkboard to write on, a chalk holder for the chalk, learning cards to read and a seesaw for the little play people to play on. There's even a school bus to transport the pupils to and from school. All the pieces store inside the book — three to six year old children can carry their classroom around anywhere!

"Wrap" up this season

Wrap up holiday giving with long lengths of skinny scarves and bigger-than-life shawls to be worn over coats and suits. The shawls, often fringed, range from bulky wraps in acrylic to gauzy chiffons for evening.

Sweater wraps in berry tones are excellent gift items, too. Lean or oversized, they pull wardrobes together with great ease. Some are hooded, some have bulky shawl collars and tie loosely at the waist.

For someone special, an apron would be a fantastic gift. Not the kitchen variety, of course, but one just right for holiday parties.

A DIFFERENT version of the original safe and accurate dart game. Made of high-density plastic foam, with "storage" space for darts. From Cadaco.

A COMPLETE CREATIVE drawing toy from American Creative Toys, Inc., with unique "magic like" discs to make professional quality cartoons on paper or cloth. Even five year olds can draw Mickey & Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Bambi, Robin Hood and other Walt Disney cartoon characters plus the Flintstones and animals and pets. This is done simply by turning the disc one number at a time and filling in the corresponding numbered groove in the center of the disc. The set not only appeals to a child's inherent desire to draw, but provides an extra element of surprise in the results . . . and also encourages their imagination and creativity in enabling them to make their own cartoon strips, greeting cards, cut-outs, piggy banks, etc.

THE LOOKING GLASS, the newest in lighted mirrors from General Electric, features convenient three way versatility. It and stand are removable for travel convenience. Features can stand on a shelf, vanity or counter; it can be used as a regular and magnifying mirrors.

NEWEST BOOTY from Samsonite's Flee Bag assortment . . . The Booty Bag. Has more pockets than a gang of kangaroos. Soft supple urethane in Brown or Blue — and washable too. Adjustable shoulder strap has cushioned non-slip pad for comfortable carrying. Reinforced bottom folds up for flexible storage. Nylon zipper with lock and key. Two expandable end pockets with snap buckles. Two big side pockets with zippers, plus an inside passport pocket.

Dress up legs

Legs make news this holiday season . . . when they wear the latest legwear. Jacquards and stripes, colorful patterns are putting their best foot forward in leg warmers thigh-highs and knee-highs.

Pantyhose are sporting sweater textures for warmth as well as fashion these wintry days — and the latest knee-highs are strewn with flowers and stars.

Popular leggy colors this season are russet, burgundy, charcoal, loden, and camel, plus spring-like pastels.

SWEET AND INNOCENT, Holly Hobbie's art is filled with the homespun charm of a quieter, simpler time. This little blue girl creates a warm nostalgic feeling that endears her to people of all ages. Holly's charming characters have been translated into cards, posters, candles, soap, plaques, ceramics, and a host of other attractive gift items. Now American Tree and Wreath adds tree trim to this list. Three winsome novelty items complement the Holly Hobbie look. Matching patchwork-trimmed balls, perky parasols and watering cans complete the nostalgic air of these delightfully appealing decorations.

COLORFILLS from Kenner Products, a division of General Mills Fun Group, Inc., is the newest educational design drawing toy which helps children express their own creativity. Boys and girls can make an infinite variety of colorful patterns and pictures by placing the flexible plastic template over paper and filling in the small triangular cut-outs with felt-tip markers. The set comes with a decorative tray, recessed to hold the template and three colored markers in place, as well as blank paper for creating individualized designs.

JUNIOR saxophone will delight your children for hours. From the Worcester Toy Co., it plays real music.

History of the carol

Legend says St. Francis of Assisi is the father of the Christmas carol. He supposedly set up a miniature manger scene in Greccio, Italy, in 1224 A.D. and led people in songs of praise.

Caroling from house to house dates from the Middle Ages. A big revival of caroling began in 1818, when "Silent Night" was written by two Germans, Franz Gruber and Joseph Mohr.

Kids love Christmas season

New baby in the house? Christmas is a more special time for baby than one would expect.

Long before a child begins to walk and talk, he or she is responding to all varieties of sights and sounds, each of which is a very important learning experience.

So pull out Christmas records, pin up colorful decorations, light the tree early and gather 'round it — and let the baby of the family absorb all the joy of this wonderful season!

Children love stories, and what better time is there than Christmas for the whole family to share in some old-fashioned tale-telling?

Starting a week or so before Christmas, set up an after-dinner story hour. You might want to research the Christmas customs of different countries for an armchair holiday tour. Or select a good Christmas storybook and read a chapter a night.

You'll be surprised to see the closeness and warmth that such a quiet hour together can bring, and it will make Christmas a richer, more meaningful experience for both you and the young ones.

JUST IN TIME for our nation's Bicentennial, the new GAF View-Master Bicentennial Gift Pak is full of educational value that makes learning about history fun for any child. Seventy full-color, 3-D pictures on 10 stereo reels capture important moments in American history, from Revolutionary days to the present. Titles include "The Revolutionary War," "Forging of a Nation," "Historic Boston," "Historic Philadelphia," "Westward Expansion," "Landmarks in American History" and "20th Century."

Official tells waiting time for flood plan

A federal official estimated Monday night that it will be 10 to 16 months before Des Plaines residents and businessmen are eligible for expanded coverage under a federal flood insurance program.

Romulus Dorsey, flood insurance specialist for the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) said it would take that long for the city to move from the "emergency" to the "regular" phase of the flood insurance program. The changes would increase the maximum amount of flood insurance available to residents from $35,000 to $70,000.

Dorsey said before the city can move into the regular program, hearings and floodplain studies must be completed. He said the city council also would be required to pass additional flood plain regulations, particularly in the area of new construction.

DORSEY SAID the second $35,000, or up to $70,000 in insurance for new construction, would be available for residents at a rate dependent on the flood risk of a particular area.

Under the program, residents are required to pay 2 per cent or the first $200 of all flood damage, whichever is greater. The insurance would cover only structural damage and not contents. Dorsey added, however, that insurance on contents is available at additional cost.

Welfare cases increase 68% in township

The number of residents receiving public assistance from Maine Township during the first nine months of the year jumped 68 per cent compared to a year ago, but officials believe the trend is beginning to stabilize.

A report issued by Township Supervisor James J. Dowd this week showed a total of 2,583 township residents qualified for public assistance payments between Jan. 1 and Sept. 30 of this year, up from 1,535 during a similar period in 1974. The number of cases rose from 664 last year to 1,189 this year.

Township officials said $15,000 was spent on public assistance in September, though figures for other months are not available.

An ice block becomes a fruit basket under John Chrisopolus' ice pick. The ice is cold, but the work is hot.

Pick, chisel tools of local chef

by DIANE MERMIGAS

John Chrisopolus has a cool hobby. He is an iceman — of sorts.

Chrisopolus is reviving the art of ice sculpting by making the frozen art works available as novel centerpieces for parties and banquets.

Chrisopolus, food service manager for Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, learned the carving art while attending the Washburn Trade School for Chefs, Chicago.

Although ice sculptures are not in demand, as they were years ago when Chicago ice companies supplied them, he believes the glass-like art forms are on their way back.

DURING THE LAST nine years he has made 20 ice sculptures of various sizes and shapes. An average sculpture will cost about $75, Chrisopolus said.

The work takes anywhere from one to four hours, depending on the detail involved. "It's always a constant race with time because all the while you're working, the ice is melting," he said.

Chrisopolus could do his sculpting in a walk-in freezer to prevent melting. He also could choose to wear goggles to protect his eyes from flying chipped ice or gloves to protect his fingers from frostbite. But he doesn't.

"I probably should do that, but it doesn't bother me and I just get into it right away," he said.

SO, LIKE A surgeon, he dons a white smock and grabs his tools, a multi-pronged ice pick and a chisel, and goes to work.

The 200-pound block of ice sits idle on a terry-cloth towel atop a steel counter.

"One of the first problems you have is getting the ice block from the freezer and onto a cart, and from the cart onto the counter," Chrisopolus said.

"I've lost a lot of ice that way. You just have to move out of the way fast before it falls on your feet," he said.

Then he steps up to the block and like a prize fighter who flexes at the sound of a bell, he begins feverishly picking away at the ice, sending chips flying in all directions.

SOME OF THE large pieces crack off by themselves, and all the ice chips end up on the floor. The artist must watch his balance on the slick surface.

"This is another problem you run into. You've got to clear the ice and water off of the floor or it could get pretty dangerous," he explained, just barely keeping his footing while hacking away at the ice.

"You can do so many different things with ice, depending on the tools you use," he said. "But when you're done and it's sitting as a centerpiece on a table, people will always be amazed at whatever you do with it."

Chrisopolus said it's a traumatic experience to watch the fruits of his labor melt away during a dinner party, or to have a portion of the sculpture crack off just as it is being completed. But it happens.

"One time, the daughter of a friend of mine was getting married. I carved a heart with two doves on top as a special gift," Chrisopolus said.

"IT WAS SUPPOSED to remain in the freezer overnight, but the freezer wasn't working and when I saw it the next morning, it looked like a scrawny valentine with two sparrows perched on top," he said.

Chrisopolus often makes a rough

Heidi Bowl II...

This time kids yell 'offsides' as NFL overtime benches Willy Wonka

'Twas the Sunday before Thanksgiving, when all through the house, Not a child was stirring, not even the grouse;

The cold dinner was stacked by the sink with care, In hopes that Willy Wonka soon would be there;

The children were nestled in front of TV,

With visions of Wonka's chocolate factory.

And Momma in her maxi, and I in my cap, Had just settled our brains for a two-hour nap;

When out in Washington, D. C. there arose such a clatter,

I jumped to the television to see what was the matter;

Away to the set I flew like a flash, Oakland and the Skins were in an overtime clash.

The tube, in full football colors showed, A 45-minute see-saw as Gowdy bel-lowed;

When what to my wondering eyes should appear,

But, the tiny children, all near tears.

Much louder than eagles, the children offered a yell,

They whistled and shouted for Wonka pell mell;

"Willy Wonka! Willy Wonka!" came the scream,

Only the chocolate factory would make them beam.

To the top of the sofa! At the base of the wall!

They screamed for Wonka out in the hall.

As the Redskins and Raiders continued the battle,

The children never ceased the loud rattle.

At 6:45, more than three-quarters hour late,

NBC ended its afternoon football slate.

Ancient George Blanda did magically appear,

To kick the Skins in the rear.

With a big old foot, so wrapped in fame,

I knew in a moment, his kick was the game.

And, then in a twinkling, I heard on the tube,

The voice of Wonka, that darling old boob.

So up to the television, the children they flew,

But, they continued to fuss, fume

and stew.

And then, in an instant, I knew what was the matter, Wonka was in mid-show, causing the clatter.

Those wonderful, wise czars at NBC, Had repeated the "Heidi Bowl" for all to see.

In 1968, Heidi was dressed all in fame,

When the movie tumbled and took the blame,

For bumping 50 seconds of a crucial game.

Two touchdowns the fans missed in '68,

Two touchdowns that changed a bowl date.

The fans' howl came swift, very quick,

The protest gave NBC a rough kick.

The telephones in TV-land roared,

The screams came from the football board.

The story was different in '75,

The Wonka show instead took the dive.

The children who stayed up late, Missed the beginning of the TV date.

Hundreds called the Chicago station,

Demanding, screaming for a fair ration.

"Sorry," the NBC officials said,

"This is a situation we dread."

The moral of this story is sad, but true,

He anxiously smoothed out the rough edges of his ice sculpture with his hands.

"How do you like my fruit basket?" he asked, and smiled.

Is there a future in ice sculpting?

"Well," he said as he wiped the perspiration from his brow, "it keeps me in shape now and it's a novelty for most people. With enough chefs around who know how to do it, it could be the next big thing."

Flood insurance wait time told necessary in order for residents to qualify for mortgages on homes in flood-prone areas.

Michael Richardson, city director of planning and zoning, said he does not know how many homes lie in flood hazard areas, but said it is important the city pass additional flood regulations to qualify for the increased federal flood insurance.

"I WOULD anticipate that if we don't pass them we would be left out of the federal flood insurance program," he said. "If that happens, people won't be able to get mortgage money."

Richardson said the city passed flood regulations in Oct., 1972, to become eligible for the emergency federal insurance program. "Basically what we would need now are stricter regulations," he said.

Dorsey said the additional regulations would have to make flood-prone areas "floodproof." He said federal officials are willing to supply the city with a model ordinance outlining the additional flood regulations needed to qualify for the expanded federal insurance.

JOHN CHRISOPULOS can pick away at a block of ice pretty fast and in one hour's time, he's got a piece of artwork — as long as it stays in a freezer somewhere. Ice sculpture is a lost art, he says, but he's using his skills to bring it back.

unemployed persons to cover rent, food and other necessary expenses until they are placed on the county's welfare rolls.

THE REPORT indicates, however, that the number of those seeking temporary aid has begun to level off. Aid reached a peak in the first three months of the year when about 415 cases were added to the township rolls each month. Cases began to drop in April, when only 290 cases were added. Case additions have stabilized around the 230 mark for the last three months.

Dowd has said he is hopeful the apparent stabilization will lead to a decline and consequent easing of a demand for shrinking public assistance funds.

John E. Seitz, Des Plaines alderman and information officer for the township, said there is rapid turnover in the number of cases the township receives.

"It usually takes about three to six weeks for the county to place these people on the welfare rolls," Seitz said. "This is just an interim program until the county can step in."

No decision yet on fate of village scavenger tags

The fate of a fourth scavenger license for the Village of Wheeling remains uncertain after Wheeling trustees failed to reach a decision Monday night.

In an informal poll of the board, the six trustees present split evenly over whether to limit the number of licenses issued by the village to three or to retain the present ordinance which provides for four licenses.

Trustees decided to review the ordinance after learning as many as six unlicensed companies have been operating in the village. Representatives of the three licensed scavenger services have said they are capable of handling current and future refuse problems in Wheeling and had criticized the village for failing to stop unlicensed operators.

TRUSTEE Otis L. Hedlund, chairman of the judiciary and purchasing committee, said the board will interview applicants for the fourth license at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Hedlund said he decided to go through with the interviews even though the ordinance may be changed to allow for only three licenses.

"The interviews were already scheduled. I think we would be doing these other scavenger services an injustice if we told them not to come in," Hedlund said.

Trustee William Hein questioned whether the board was setting a precedent by interviewing applicants for licenses, a job usually performed by the village staff.

Village Clerk Evelyn Diens said the scavenger license is a special situation.

"Two years ago, we would have issued the license on a first come, first served basis. It's a little after the fact now — there are too many applications lying about," she said.

HEDLUND SAID about a half dozen scavengers have applied for the open license including one company that applied two years ago.

"This is a different situation than we've ever had," he said.

Village Atty. John Burke has recommended the board retain its current ordinance. Trustees Gilbert Monoson, Don Jackson and John Cole said they also were in favor of keeping the present ordinance.

The board probably will make a decision on the scavenger license ordinance at the Dec. 1 meeting of the village board, Hedlund said.

In other action, the board:

- Approved an ordinance amending a village law requiring fire department personnel to live within a seven-mile radius of the village.
- Approved an ordinance changing the curfew law from 18 years old to 17 years old.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation, firefighters said.

Month after Passolt leaves

Manager not expected until March

The new Wheeling village manager probably will not start work until March, a month after present Village Mgr. George Passolt is scheduled to leave.

Wheeling Trustee Charles Kerr said Monday it probably will take Callaghan & Co., a Chicago consulting agency, until Feb. 1 to review applicants for the position. Passolt will leave his post Feb. 1.

"Whoever we accept will very likely have to give his own employer notice. We probably won't be getting the new manager until March," Kerr said.

KERR SAID Assistant Village Mgr. Thomas Marcus probably will assume the village manager's duties during the interim period.

Village board members met Sunday morning with representatives of the consulting agency to draw up qualifications for the new manager. Kerr said the group agreed on some "fairly general and flexible guidelines."

"We're asking for a manager with experience. We're interested in someone with special training and experience in finances, labor relations and overall experience in village growth and development," he said.

Kerr said the new manager will be offered a salary of between $22,000 and $25,000. Passolt's salary is $28,600. Fringe benefits will be negotiated with the new manager, Kerr said.

THE VILLAGE BOARD last week hired Callaghan & Co. to help select candidates for the village manager post. Applicants will be screened by the consulting firm, which will choose three to five finalists to be interviewed by the board.

Heidi Bowl II...

This time kids yell 'offsides' as NFL overtime benches Willy Wonka

'Twas the Sunday before Thanksgiving, when all through the house,

Not a child was stirring, not even the grouse;

The cold dinner was stacked by the sink with care,

In hopes that Willy Wonka soon would be there;

The children were nestled in front of TV,

With visions of Wonka's chocolate factory.

And Momma in her maxi, and I in my cap,

Had just settled our brains for a two-hour nap;

When out in Washington, D. C. there arose such a clatter,

I jumped to the television to see what was the matter;

Away to the set I flew like a flash, Oakland and the Skins were in an overtime clash.

The tube, in full football colors showed,

A 45-minute see-saw as Gowdy belted;

When what to my wondering eyes should appear,

But, the tiny children, all near tears.

Much louder than eagles, the children offered a yell,

They whistled and shouted for Wonka pell mell;

"Willy Wonka! Willy Wonka!" came the scream,

Only the chocolate factory would make them beam.

To the top of the sofa! At the base of the wall!

They screamed for Wonka out in the hall.

As the Redskins and Raiders continued the battle,

The children never ceased the loud rattle.

At 6:45, more than three-quarters hour late,

NBC ended its afternoon football slate.

Ancient George Blanda did magically appear,

To kick the Skins in the rear.

With a big old foot, so wrapped in fame,

I knew in a moment, his kick was the game.

And, then in a twinkling, I heard on the tube,

The voice of Wonka, that darling old boob.

So up to the television, the children they flew,

But, they continued to fuss, fume

and stew.

And then, in an instant, I knew what was the matter, Wonka was in mid-show, causing the clatter.

Those wonderful, wise czars at NBC, Had repeated the "Heidi Bowl!" for all to see.

In 1968, Heidi was dressed all in fame,

When the movie tumbled and took the blame,

For bumping 50 seconds of a crucial game.

Two touchdowns the fans missed in '68,

Two touchdowns that changed a bowl date.

The fans' howl came swift, very quick,

The protest gave NBC a rough kick.

The telephones in TV-land roared,

The screams came from the football board.

The story was different in '75,

The Wonka show instead took the dive.

The children who stayed up late,

Missed the beginning of the TV date.

Hundreds called the Chicago station,

Demanding, screaming for a fair ration.

"Sorry," the NBC officials said,

"This is a situation we dread."

The moral of this story is sad, but true,

You're damned if you don't, and damned if you do.

Man nabbed for robbery of motorist

A Buffalo Grove man was arrested early Monday in connection with a $100 strong-arm robbery of a motorist near Wolf and Hintz roads, Wheeling, police said.

Police said Arthur Larson, Wheeling, was southbound on Wolf Road when the car behind him started flashing its headlights on and off. Larson stopped his car and left it to see what the problem was, police reported.

Two men approached him, saying they were police officers, and demanded $100 from him, accusing him of erratic driving, Larson told police.

Larson refused, and one of the two twisted his arm and took the money, police said.

Larson drove to the police station and reported the robbery. Police, checking the license plates, traced the vehicle involved to Gilchrist, police said. Gilchrist was picked from a lineup.

Bond was set at $7,500.

Planning starts for river valley recreation use

by TIM MORAN

A team of biologists and planners are at work on land use plans for the Des Plaines River Valley project of the Lake County Forest Preserve District.

The district already has about two-thirds of the 3,400 acres of river valley designated to be acquired.

The biologists and planners, some federally funded through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, have been studying the river and the surrounding land to determine the best use of the land.

Plans for different parcels range from heavy recreational use to preservation as a completely natural area.

A PIECE OF land on the northern portion of the river contains two gravel pits and would be ideal for a heavy recreational use, with boating and swimming included, said Norma Dudiak, a biologist working for the district.

A site directly east of Libertyville and north of Old School Road is planned for a Forest Preserve and should open within the next two years, said Ms. Dudiak.

Other areas may be designated to remain in natural states, in conjunction with a state project to inventory and preserve natural areas.

The river project may be connected with a national trail system, running through Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. Some preliminary work has been done to plot bicycle trails along the Libertyville portion of the river.

An inventory of the land acquired is under way, said Ms. Dudiak. The inventory includes a study of habitats, animal and bird populations, vegetation and tree sizes, and river quality.

PLANNERS IN the district have been preparing site plans for forest preserve areas such as the Old School site, which will be submitted to the forest preserve district board of commissioners for consideration.

Master plans for the preserves, once contracted to professional firms at high costs, are now being done by the district staff at considerable savings, Ms. Dudiak said.

A bicycle path from Rte. 176 to Grand Avenue along the river has been drawn up, and state funds may be available for the path.

"There are really going to be some nice places for people to come in the future," the biologist said.

The study so far has shown that the water quality in the Des Plaines River, while not very good, is better than first expected.

SINCE THE RIVER has a gravel bed, Ms. Dudiak said, the river should run clean. An advantage to acquiring the land along the river is that water quality can be controlled through controlling the land use.

Land-use planning for the river valley is essential to protect the county's investment, she said.

"You can't afford to spend a million dollars on a piece of land and not put it to its best use," she added.

Consumer advocate to speak at Harper

JOHN CHRISOPULOS can pick away at a block of ice pretty fast and in one hour's time, he's got a piece of artwork — as long as it stays in a freezer somewhere. Ice sculpture is a lost art, he says, but he's using his skills to bring it back.

Pick, chisel tools of area chef

by DIANE MERMIGAS

John Chrisopulos has a cool hobby. He is an ice man — of sorts.

Chrisopulos is reviving the art of ice sculpting by making the frozen art works available as novel centerpieces for parties and banquets.

Chrisopulos, food service manager for Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, learned the carving art while attending the Washburn Trade School for Chefs, Chicago.

Although ice sculptures are not in demand, as they were years ago when Chicago ice companies supplied them, he believes the glass-like art forms are on their way back.

DURING THE LAST nine years he has made 20 ice sculptures of various sizes and shapes. An average sculpture will cost about $75, Chrisopulos said.

The work takes anywhere from one to four hours, depending on the detail involved. "It's always a constant race with time because all the while you're working, the ice is melting," he said.

Chrisopulos could do his sculpting in a walk-in freezer to prevent melting.

He also could choose to wear goggles to protect his eyes from flying chipped ice or gloves to protect his fingers from frostbite. But he doesn't.

"I probably should do that, but it doesn't bother me and I just get into it right away," he said.

SO, LIKE A surgeon, he dons a white smock and grabs his tools, a multi-pronged ice pick and a chisel, and goes to work.

The 200-pound block of ice sits idle on a terry-cloth towel atop a steel counter.

"One of the first problems you have is getting the ice block from the freezer and onto a cart, and from the cart onto the counter," Chrisopulos said.

"I've lost a lot of ice that way. You just have to move out of the way fast before it falls on your feet," he said.

Then he steps up to the block and like a prize fighter who flexes at the sound of a bell, he begins feverishly picking away at the ice, sending chips flying in all directions.

SOME OF THE large pieces crack off by themselves, and all the ice chips end up on the floor. The artist must watch his balance on the slick surface.

"This is another problem you run into. You've got to clear the ice and water off of the floor or it could get pretty dangerous," he explained, just barely keeping his footing while hacking away at the ice.

"You can do so many different things with ice, depending on the tools you use," he said. "But when you're done and it's sitting as a centerpiece on a table, people will always be amazed at whatever you do with it."

Chrisopulos said it's a traumatic experience to watch the fruits of his labor melt away during a dinner party, or to have a portion of the sculpture crack off just as it is being completed. But it happens.

"One time, the daughter of a friend of mine was getting married. I carved a heart with two doves on top as a special gift," Chrisopulos said.

"IT WAS SUPPOSED to remain in the freezer overnight, but the freezer wasn't working and when I saw it the next morning, it looked like a scrawny valentine with two sparrows perched on top," he said.

Chrisopulos often makes a rough sketch on paper of what he plans to do with the ice blocks which are purchased from local ice companies.

"I can't even draw, yet I can create some likeness in the ice and it's not too difficult," he said.

He anxiously smoothed out the rough edges of his ice sculpture with his hands.

"How do you like my fruit basket?" he asked, and smiled.

Is there a future in ice sculpting? "Well," he said as he wiped the perspiration from his brow, "it keeps me in shape now and it's a novelty for most people. With enough chefs around who know how to do it, it could be the next big thing."

Chesterfield developer gains 1-year reprieve

The preannexation agreement between the developer and the village was to expire Monday on the 284-townhouse-unit Arrowhead project on Lake-Cook and Arlington Heights roads. The proposed suit was to pressure Chesterfield into following the agreement.

The extension stipulates that Chesterfield submit building plans to the village plan commission within a year.

THE ACTION came after an attempt by Trustee Robert Bogart and Village Atty. Richard Raysa to negotiate with the firm's executive vice president Fred Hillman.

Bogart asked Hillman to abide with the village's 1972 school donation and development ordinances. The ordinance would require substantially more cash donations to schools and a reduction of the development by 28 units.

Hillman rejected the compromise, saying he would have to be subjected to better building codes. The board voted last Monday to file suit to disannex the property. The suit would (Continued on Page 5)

Man nabbed for robbery of motorist

A Buffalo Grove man was arrested early Monday in connection with a $100 strong-arm robbery of a motorist near Wolf and Hintz roads, Wheeling, police said.

Charged with robbery was William O. Gilchrist, 20, of 1005 Cambridge Dr. He was arrested by Wheeling and Buffalo Grove police at his home shortly after the robbery, which occurred about 1:25 a.m.

Police said Arthur Larson, Wheeling, was southbound on Wolf Road when the car behind him started flashing its headlights on and off. Larson stopped his car and left it to see what the problem was, police reported.

Two men approached him, saying they were police officers, and demanded $100 from him, accusing him of erratic driving, Larson told police.

Larson refused, and one of the two twisted his arm and took the money, police said.

Larson drove to the police station and reported the robbery. Police, checking the license plates, traced the vehicle involved to Gilchrist, police said. Gilchrist was picked from a lineup.

Bond was set at $7,500.

EDITH VANDERBEEK sews "pillows" of patchwork taught by Sharon O'Shea in a special workshop by the Indian Trails Public Library. "Biscuit" quilting was the Indian Trails Public Library.

Quilting the in thing, teacher says

by BETTY LEE

Quilting, a craft centuries old, rapidly has been gaining appeal during the past few years, says Sharon O'Shea, a crafts teacher.

Mrs. O'Shea hosted a quilting workshop last week for the Indian Trails Library District, and brought bags of fabrics for those who came to learn some fundamentals.

"Quilting has been going on for a long time," she says. "It is continuing in the mountain regions like Appalachia."

Quilting continued in the United States, even in metropolitan areas before the world wars, Mrs. O'Shea says. "It was an alternative to buying something at the store."

Women did less sewing and quilting for the home when they joined the work force during the wars and after the wars women still were interested in quilting because the craft brought out individuality. "You don't see a million duplicates of something you have made," Mrs. O'Shea says.

MRS. O'SHEA TEACHES quilting for adult education classes at Maine and Niles township schools. She also teaches from her Buffalo Grove home and will start another class in January.

Beginners quickly can learn to quilt by piecing and sewing same-size squares of material. Other methods of quilting include applique, in which pieces of fabrics are sewn on top of a bigger square of material; Trapunto, an Italian method; and cathedral, in which different bits of fabrics are sewn to look like stained glass.

At the workshop, Mrs. O'Shea showed the puff, or biscuit, method of quilting. Two different-size fabric squares are sewn together and stuffed with polyester fill to produce a pillow effect.

Each "pillow" is sewn together in rows of fours, and each row is sewn to each other to form a square. At the workshop potholders were made with the square, but larger squares can be used for pillows. Quilting for a set of potholders is an activity that can be completed in a couple of hours, Mrs. O'Shea says.

Heidi Bowl II...

This time kids yell 'offsides' as NFL overtime benches Willy Wonka

'Twas the Sunday before Thanksgiving, when all through the house, Not a child was stirring, not even the grouse;

The cold dinner was stacked by the sink with care, In hopes that Willy Wonka soon would be there;

The children were nestled in front of TV, With visions of Wonka's chocolate factory.

And Momma in her maxi, and I in my cap, Had just settled our brains for a two-hour nap;

When out in Washington, D. C. there arose such a clatter, I jumped to the television to see what was the matter;

Away to the set I flew like a flash, Oakland and the Skins were in an overtime clash.

The tube, in full football colors showed, A 45-minute see-saw as Gowdy belated;

When what to my wondering eyes should appear, But the tiny children, all near tears.

Much louder than eagles, the children offered a yell, They whistled and shouted for Wonka pell mell;

"Willy Wonka! Willy Wonka!" came the scream, Only the chocolate factory would make them beam.

To the top of the sofa! At the base of the wall! They screamed for Wonka out in the hall.

At 6:45, more than three-quarters hour late, NBC ended its afternoon football slate.

Ancient George Blanda did magically appear, To kick the Skins in the rear.

With a big old foot, so wrapped in fame, I knew in a moment, his kick was the game.

And, then in a twinkling, I heard on the tube, The voice of Wonka, that darling old boob.

So up to the television, the children they flew, But, they continued to fuss, fume and stew.

And then, in an instant, I knew what was the matter, Wonka was in mid-show, causing the clatter.

Those wonderful, wise czars at NBC, Had repeated the "Heidi Bowl" for all to see.

In 1968, Heidi was dressed all in fame, When the movie tumbled and took the blame,

For bumping 50 seconds of a crucial game. Two touchdowns the fans missed in '68,

Two touchdowns that changed a bowl date. The fans' bowl came swift, very quick,

The protest gave NBC a rough kick. The telephones in TV-land roared, and the screams came from the football board.

The story was different in '75, The Wonka show instead took the dive.

The children who stayed up late, Missed the beginning of the TV date.

Hundreds called the Chicago station, Demanding, screaming for a fair ration.

"Sorry," the NBC officials said, "This is a situation we dread."

The moral of this story is sad, but true, You're damned if you don't and damned if you do.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald Metro staff writer Al Messerschmidt apologizes to author Clement C. Moore for using the basic meter of "The Night Before Christmas" to tell the story of Willy Wonka vs. the NFL and NBC.

NBC officials also were apologizing Monday to thousands of television viewers across the country who were upset by Sunday night's programming slip up. NBC spokesmen said Monday, however, it is unlikely the show will be rerun to make up the 45-minute interruption.

A WMAQ spokesman also said the "Willy Wonka" caused more reaction than the "Heidi Bowl."

"We had 506 phoned protests today," the Channel 5 spokesman said. "After the Heidi affair, we had just a few more than 500."

"A decision was made to pick up the film in progress because it was felt it would be too late for the kids to go to 9:45 p.m. E.S.T.," a network spokesman in New York said.

Parkway tree project under way

The planting of 81 trees on parkways throughout the Village of Buffalo Grove began Monday. The work is expected to be completed by the end of the week.

The tree planting is part of a free village program to replace nearly 200 parkway trees that have died in recent years. The village board in early November allocated $4,000 for this year's program.

Public Works Director Charles McCoy said Little Leaf Lindens and Norway Maples have been selected for planting. The trees are all two-and-a-half inches in diameter and are guaranteed for one year. The village contracted with Rolling Hills Nursery to have the trees planted.

McCoy said the village will not be replacing more than 200 trees which have died in the Mill Creek Development. Miller Builders of Skokie, developers of Mill Creek, are working with Charles Klehm and Sons Nursery, Arlington Heights, to replace trees in the development. The cost of the tree-replacement program in Mill Creek has been estimated at $10,000.

Chesterfield developer gains 1-year reprieve have been the first ever filed by a municipality to pressure a developer who was not following a pre-annexation agreement.

Five trustees voted to not proceed with the suit after discussing the matter in executive session. Trustee John Marienthal abstained from voting.

TRUSTEE Clarice Rech said board members did not believe it was a strong case. In discussions with the village attorney, it was agreed the village would not have a case substantial enough to go to court.

Because the board did not vote unanimously last Monday it was decided to drop the suit. The one-year extension granted by the board requires Chesterfield to relocate a street to conform with Cook County requirements, change north and south building boundaries to provide 25-foot setbacks and pay engineering fees under current rates.

These provisions were agreed to in writing by Chesterfield. Trustee Dorothy Carroll, who mentioned for the one-year extension, said the board will make it clear that this will be the last extension.

Hillman, whose plans were approved in 1968, asked the board for a two-year extension earlier this month. He said he needed the two years to redesign plans to accommodate the county road requirements and to bring the plans to the village. The board then denied the request.

If the preannexation agreement expired, the property would be reverted to R-9, multi-family zoning, the highest density.

Disney Park site donated for village museum

The Elk Grove Park Board Monday approved a site at Disney Park for a historical society museum, if soil tests show the museum building can be relocated there.

The site chosen will face the south side of Biesterfeld Road at the front corner of the park district maintenance garage.

Park Comr. Joan Brennan, a longtime opponent of the historical society, cast the only negative vote. In her successful campaign for park office last April, Mrs. Brennan criticized the historical society and the 15 cents per $100 museum tax.

THE PARK BOARD also, by a similar 4-to-1 vote, chose Olmstead Park, Cypress Lane and Kennedy Boulevard, as an alternate site should the Disney site prove unsafe for the building. The board decided it would offer no third site if the initial two choices proved unsuitable.

The historical society has only a few weeks left to relocate a house at 1199 Arlington Heights Road. The house is being donated as a museum building by the current owners, Anthony and Teresa Maiorillo.

"I feel we are simply picking the pockets of the taxpayers," Mrs. Brennan said, adding she was opposed to giving any park land for the museum site. "In no way can I see us do this morally to the people."

Mrs. Brennan said she believed the historical society should be more independent and be raising money on its own. "We're looking to the entire community to support this organization with $22,000 and now we're looking to the entire community to support this organization with land," she said.

THE $22,000 IS the anticipated funds the museum tax will generate next year.

Board member James L. Cashman, reluctantly went along with the Disney site as did board member Bart Dill because of the house-moving deadline.

Park board Pres. Edward R. Hauser and Comr. Lewis L. Smith also said they had reservations about the site but added it was the best site available now and supported the location.

Guess what second-grader James Shetze wants for Christmas?

Man, 26, charged in weapons case

A Hoffman Estates man was arrested Sunday night after Elk Grove Village police found a shotgun in the man's car during a traffic stop at Higgins Road and Oakton Street, police said.

Charged with unlawful use of weapons was Kenneth Witt, 26, of 360 Bode Rd. Witt was released after posting $1,000 bond pending an appearance Dec. 10 in the Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court.

Trustee raps interchange support

by TOM VON MALDER

Elk Grove Village Trustee Edward W. Kenna, the only board member who is opposing plans for an Interstate 90-Biesterfeld Road interchange, has criticized support by the Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce for the project.

"I think it is a bad deal for the Village of Elk Grove," Kenna said Monday of the proposed interchange. He also made public Monday a copy of a letter he sent to Jerry Capizzi, president of the industry association. Kenna's letter was a reply to a letter from Capizzi printed in The Herald Friday.

CAPIZZI'S LETTER said the interchange would "provide more efficient access to our commercial community, but more importantly, to Alexian Brothers Medical Center's life-saving facilities not only for the extreme west portion of Elk Grove Village, but for all communities west of Elk Grove."

But Kenna said he has received information over the weekend that shows 75 per cent of Alexian Brothers patients come from Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Roselle and would not benefit from the interchange.

Kenna also said development of Biesterfeld Road into a four-lane road would require concrete surfacing, something the village is not equipped to repair and maintain. He said the village would have to pay for upgrading of the road.

The trustee's letter further rejected Capizzi's statement that the interchange would aid local business, calling it "pure bunk."

"The type of shopping we have in this community is the convenience type that does not draw from any distance," Kenna said.

"IF SOMEBODY can show me one single advantage to any segment of the village population, be it industrial, commercial or residential, other than a miniscule saving of time, I would reconsider my position," the letter said.

"My position is based on much thought and concern and I will continue to fight the interchange, the extensions of Biesterfeld and the entry to the sports complex."

Kenna said he would be willing to meet with the Assn. of Industry and Commerce to discuss the matter further.

No other village board member has switched his support from the interchange plan.

This time kids yell 'offsides' as NFL overtime benches Willy Wonka

'Twas the Sunday before Thanksgiving, when all through the house,

Not a child was stirring, not even the grouse;

The cold dinner was stacked by the sink with care,

In hopes that Willy Wonka soon would be there;

The children were nestled in front of TV,

With visions of Wonka's chocolate factory.

And Momma in her maxi, and I in my cap,

Had just settled our brains for a two-hour nap;

When out in Washington, D. C. there arose such a clatter,

I jumped to the television to see what was the matter;

Away to the set I flew like a flash, Oakland and the Skins were in an overtime clash.

The tube, in full football colors showed,

A 45-minute see-saw as Gowdy bel-lowed;

When what to my wondering eyes should appear,

But, the tiny children, all near tears.

Much louder than eagles, the children offered a yell,

They whistled and shouted for Wonka pell mell;

"Willy Wonka! Willy Wonka!" came the scream,

Only the chocolate factory would make them beam.

To the top of the sofa! At the base of the wall!

They screamed for Wonka out in the hall.

As the Redskins and Raiders continued the battle,

The children never ceased the loud rattle.

At 6:45, more than three-quarters hour late,

NBC ended its afternoon football slate.

Ancient George Blanda did magically appear,

To kick the Skins in the rear.

With a big old foot, so wrapped in fame,

I knew in a moment, his kick was the game.

And, then in a twinkling, I heard on the tube,

The voice of Wonka, that darling old boob.

So up to the television, the children they flew,

But, they continued to fuss, fume

and stew.

And then, in an instant, I knew what was the matter, Wonka was in mid-show, causing the clatter.

Those wonderful, wise czars at NBC, Had repeated the "Heidi Bowl" for all to see.

In 1968, Heidi was dressed all in fame,

When the movie tumbled and took the blame,

For bumping 50 seconds of a crucial game.

Two touchdowns the fans missed in '68,

Two touchdowns that changed a bowl date.

The fans' howl came swift, very quick,

The protest gave NBC a rough kick.

The telephones in TV-land roared,

The screams came from the football board.

The story was different in '75,

The Wonka show instead took the dive.

The children who stayed up late,

Missed the beginning of the TV date.

Hundreds called the Chicago station,

Demanding, screaming for a fair ration.

"Sorry," the NBC officials said,

"This is a situation we dread."

The moral of this story is sad, but true,

You're damned if you don't and damned if you do.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald Metro staff writer Al Messerschmidt apologizes to author Clement C. Moore for using the basic meter of "The Night Before Christmas" to tell the story of Willy Wonka vs. the NFL and NBC.

NBC officials also were apologizing Monday to thousands of television viewers across the country who were upset by Sunday night's programming slip up. NBC spokesmen said Monday, however, it is unlikely the show will be rerun to make up the 45-minute interruption.

A WMAQ spokesman also said the "Willy Bowl" caused more reaction than the "Heidi Bowl."

"We had 586 phoned protests today," the Channel 5 spokesman said. "After the Heidi affair, we had just a few more than 500."

A decision was made to pick up the film in progress because it was felt it would be too late for the kids to go to 9:45 p.m. E.S.T., a network spokesman in New York said.

Humanities students take on the world

by PAM BIGFORD

They've got the world in their hands.

Every day seniors at Hoffman Estates High School reach out and touch a piece of the world. Yesterday it was Japan. Today it might be Africa.

These students are participating in a new program in High School Dist. 211, a humanities course that combines the disciplines of art, music and English to give students a view of man and his world as seen through the arts.

If the program succeeds at Hoffman, the test school, it may be included in other Dist. 211 schools.

TEAM TAUGHT by three teachers, the goal of the course is to allow students to experience the arts for themselves rather than look them up in a textbook.

"This is an extended classroom where the outside world comes in and teaches," said English teacher Shirley Meier.

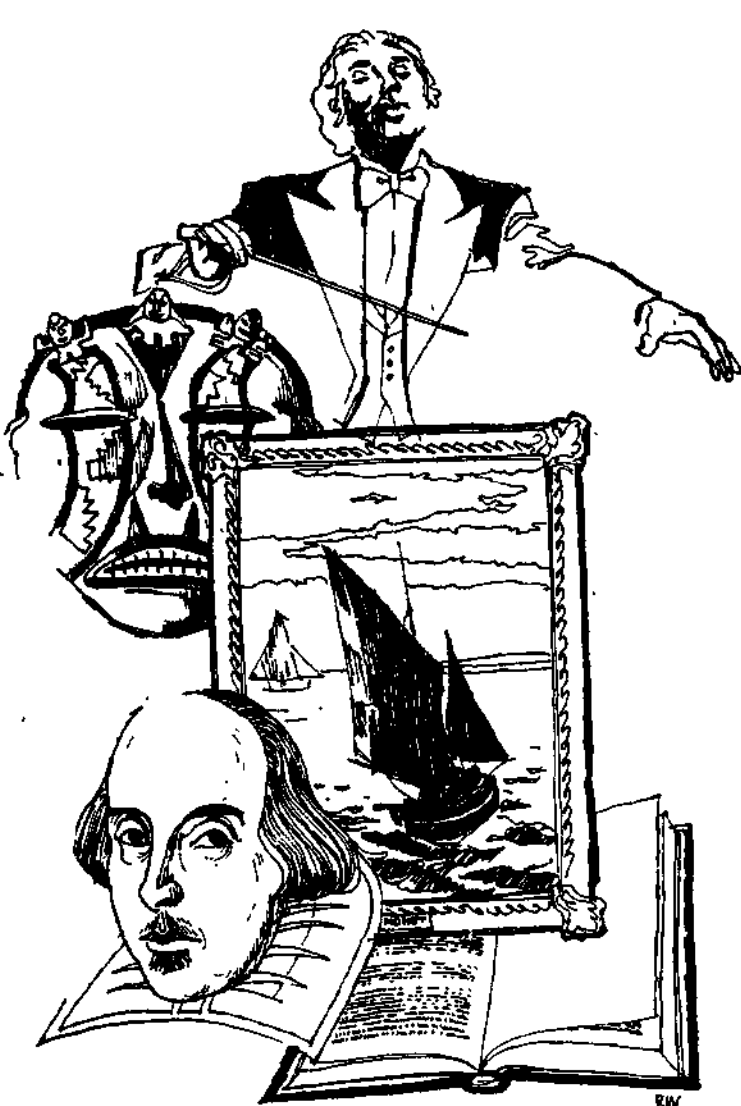

A major part of the class consists of guest speakers, movies, tapes and field trips. Speakers have ranged from a Japanese Embassy representative to a woman from the Lyric Opera to a man speaking on African religions and cultures.

Three field trips are planned for each semester. "We're trying to give them the real thing," Mrs. Meier said. "Art and music should really be experienced. You can talk about them, but until you have some experience with them, it's not very meaningful."

MRS. MEIER said the number of students who have never been to Chicago, "except for a hockey game," is amazing. Field trips are planned for an architectural tour of the city and a visit to the art museum. This month the class attended the opera, "The Marriage of Figaro."

The class lasts the entire year, and is split into four sections: Man in nature, man in religion, man in state and man in technology.

"During the 'man in nature' unit we studied Impressionism, the music of Debussy, and literature such as the 'Snows of Killmanjaro," said art teacher Maureen Christiansen. "The class did impressionistic self-portraits."

"Our field trips were to Crabtree Nature Center in Barrington, and then to the Hanover Park sewage reclamation plant," Mrs. Christiansen said. "We showed them how man has preserved nature, and then how man has disturbed nature and now has to put it back together again."

STUDENTS HAVE MORE discussion in this class than in a traditional class, the teachers said. The emphasis is on creative responses rather than required ones. They do presentations and panels, and part of their grade depends on a log they keep.

"We ask them to keep a log and react three times a week to things we have done in class," Mrs. Christiansen said. "They can react in a theme, a drawing or music. It's important for them to be creative."

Music teacher John Farquhar said the teachers do not expect the students to like everything that happens in class, and said the students "should say so if they don't like something, but tell us why."

The class, which is large at 75, had some problems at the beginning which seem to be working out. Some students objected to the more impersonal approach of a large class, and some weren't sure whether they could handle so much work on their own.

"THIS COURSE REQUIRES a different type of discipline," Mrs. Meier said. "They have to be more self-disciplined, and it's the kind of situation that they will face in the outside world, whether in college or not. We're seeing growth every day."

Harper free jazz concert tonight

The Harper College wind ensemble and jazz band will present its annual fall concert in the Bicentennial spirit today, with several American selections on the program.

Directed by Robert Tillotson, the wind ensemble will feature William Schuman's overture for the band entitled "Chester." This selection is based on the hymn tune said to have been sung around the campfires of the Continental Army and played by fifers on the march during the American Revolution.

The wind ensemble's program also will include "Somersault" by Hale Smith; "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite" by Karl King; and "Procession of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakov/Leiden.

The jazz band, directed by James Bestman, will include local soloists in several performances.

Selections from the program include: "Lil' Darlin'" by Neal Hefti, featuring Dave Sterner, Prospect Heights, on vibes; "Red Clay" by Freddie Hubbard, featuring Steve Lockwood, Mount Prospect, on soprano sax; Jim Polanek, Mount Prospect, on guitar; Dan Owens, Hoffman Estates, on drums; Scott Hendricks, Rolling Meadows, on piano and Reggie Gilmore, Schaumburg, Latin percussion.

Soloists for "If You're Leaving" by Loren Binford, include: John Kuttien, Mount Prospect, on tenor sax, and Bill Calkins, Des Plaines, on trumpet.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in the college center lounge and is free to public.

Harper sets management seminars

A series of management seminars will be offered in December by Harper College.

A seminar showing management how to build a more effective team will be presented Dec. 1. The seminar will be led by Herbert Cohen, president of Performance Management, Inc. and staff member of the Bureau of Industrial Relations, Graduate School of Business, University of Michigan.

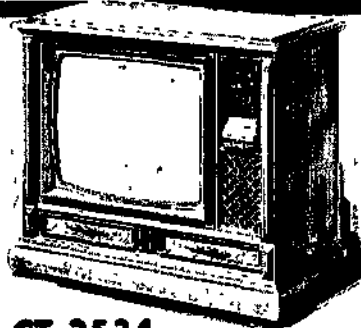

A two-day workshop on the popular Management by Objectives system is planned for Dec. 2 and 3. The seminar will be conducted by Arthur Deegan, a nationally recognized authority on the system.

THE SUBJECT of labor relations in a nonunion organization will be discussed in a seminar Dec. 9. This seminar is designed to keep managers of nonunion companies abreast of current trends and policies, practices and procedures used in nonunion companies.

This seminar will be led by Earl J. Wyman, assistant professor of management and coordinator of the Industrial Relations program at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

County enforcement sought

Real estate transfer tax moved back by Hoffman

Hoffman Estates officials have decided again to put off consideration on a real estate transfer tax until a way can be found to ensure county enforcement of the tax.

For the past two years, the village has considered adoption of a land tax which would levy a charge on the seller of village property. Last year, however, the plan was dropped when village administrators said they could get no assurance from the County Recorder of Deeds office that it would hold up recording property titles which did not carry the village tax stamp.

Trustees on the finance committee Monday night again decided against renewing consideration of the real estate tax proposal after consulting with officials in Arlington Heights and Des Plaines, communities which have also considered the tax.

"This item is going to have to remain on the back burner," Trustee William Cowin, chairman of the committee said. "Unless and until there is enabling legislation passed by the state," Cowin said the village would have little power to require county enforcement of the measure.

THE VILLAGE had modeled its real estate transfer tax proposal after a similar one now in effect in Chicago. The city's tax, however, is on the buyer rather than the seller of land.

Officials in Arlington Heights and Des Plaines have said they will "move very slowly" on the proposal because they "anticipate a total lack of cooperation" from the county recorder's office, Cowin said.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer told the committee the county recorder's office was concerned the workload of enforcing individual municipal real estate transfer taxes would become cumbersome.

Security alarms collar vandals at area schools

Editor's note: Vandalism is a common problem for school officials, but administrators and students in Schaumburg Township's elementary and high school districts are using new tactics to deal with the problem. Their effort is part of a communitywide campaign to enhance public pride and reduce vandalism. The role of schools in the "Be Aware-Be Thankful" campaign is the second part of The Herald's series on the program.

by PAM BIGFORD

Second in a series

Security alarm systems in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates schools have been a prime factor in curbing major acts of vandalism, school officials say.

In High School Dist. 211, no extensive vandalism has been committed since a security system was installed in every high school about seven years ago, said Gerald Chapman, assistant to the superintendent.

And in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, where $31,000 worth of vandalism done last year inspired the district to install a security system this year, Supt. Wayne Schaible said vandalism is down to "practically nothing."

The systems in use by both schools are ultrasonic security systems which use sound waves to detect intruders in a building. When sound triggers the system, a direct line alerts the police department and an alarm rings in the building.

"The purpose of installing the system was to avoid a major burglary, some-

All Illinois high school seniors are eligible to compete for 10 $500 Chicago Motor Club scholarship grants which will be awarded to winners of the Illinois Editors' Traffic Safety Seminars' 10th annual traffic safety essay contest.

Essay theme this year is "High School Driver Education: What Has It Done for Me?"

Contest rules include:

- The contest is open to all Illinois high school seniors in public, parochial or private schools.

- The top 10 awards will be divided equally among girl and boy entrants.

- Entry blanks, available at schools, Chicago Motor Club branch offices, or by mail from Seminar Headquarters, 66 E. South Water St., Chicago, Ill., 60601, must accompany all entries.

- Entries must be received at seminar headquarters postmarked no later than Dec. 31.

A seminar scholarship committee will screen entries and forward all those qualifying to the entrant's local newspaper with the suggestion essays be published. Publication of the essay qualifies the entrant for final judging, which will be done by a panel of University of Illinois educators.

Scholarship awards will be presented at the annual seminar awards luncheon in May.

The Rotary Foundation will grant more than $5.6 million in scholarships this year. The grants underwrite the full cost of study abroad, paying for language instruction, travel, lodging and food as well as tuition, books and laboratory fees.

A condition of Rotary scholarships is that the winners agree to speak to Rotary clubs and other groups in his study country and in his home country. As a result, applicants are evaluated on their ambassadorial as well as scholarly potential.

Chec-mate plan pays dividend; 2 suspects held

The man, registered in the program which guarantees anonymity to complainants, telephoned police when he saw two men breaking into cars in the complex.

Arrested were James Blue, 21, of 3711 Sigwalt St., and James Vinala, 17, of 2103 Cardinal Dr., both of Rolling Meadows. They were each charged with two counts of possession of stolen property and one of possession of burglary tools.

PATROLMAN MIKE MEYERS arrested the pair about 2 a.m. after stopping the car they were in on Valley Road, an entrance to the Sun Ridge apartment complex.

The man, who asked that his name not be used, said, "I was sitting and watching TV and I heard a sound like somebody was slamming the hood of a car. I got up and looked and called police."

"I'm up til 4 or 5 every morning. I've got to kind of watch out for the place."

He reports all kinds of activity going on in the complex at Higgins Road and Moon Lake Drive. He listens to police calls on a radio receiver "just out of curiosity." He noted the chec-mate program should be more attractive to residents and cannot understand why more people have not joined it.

"I joined it so I could use a number instead of my name and address . . . Police take your name down with people standing around. Why should they (people or offenders) know?" he said.

THE PROGRAM OFFERS a number for people who fear retribution if they report a crime or suspicious activity. Only the police chief and officials at the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates, which co-sponsors the program, can see the lists.

Police recovered about $1,500 worth of tape decks and citizen-band and two-way radios after the arrests. Five cars were broken into at the complex, police said.

Blue and Vinala were released on $5,000 bond each pending appearances Dec. 5 in the Hoffman Estates branch of Circuit Court.

Security alarms collar vandals at area schools

body going in and really tearing up a building," Schaible said. "Now a person almost can't get into a building without hitting one of these traps."

THE SYSTEM WAS installed in Dist. 54 after several years of costly vandalism ranging from fires set in Blackhawk School to smashed science labs at Keller Junior High School.

Schaible said the administration is amazed at the level to which vandalism has declined this year.

"There's no way to prove which is stopping the vandalism," he said. "We assume the security system, which has not yet been installed in all 27 schools, has had something to do with it."

Parent observers who volunteered their time to walk around the buildings during trouble periods probably deterred some vandals, Schaible said, and now the Civil Defense department of Hoffman Estates also patrols the buildings.

"The Civil Defense people check the schools for general security, such as locked doors, and they report anything suspicious. We bought them two-way radios to use for this purpose," Schaible said.

The small acts of violence that take only a minute to commit are the most difficult to combat and make up a major portion of the vandalism bill, records will show. Glass breakage ranks highest on both districts' vandalism list.

GLASS BREAKAGE in Dist. 211 totaled $6,000 last year, Chapman said. And that figure does not include man hours spent cleaning up after the vandalism. The district has not compiled an estimate of total labor costs involved in vandalism because most damage is the kind that can be repaired by district employees.

"We have people breaking glass, destroying signs, emptying fire extinguishers, writing on the walls, that sort of thing," Chapman said. "It's difficult to estimate how much it costs to clean all of that up."

In an attempt to curb this type of vandalism, the Dist. 211 Board of Education approved a program in October which uses student incentives to stop vandalism.

In the program the district grants each of the five high schools $1 per student to repair damages. At the end of the year, the unused money will be placed in the student activities fund and used to benefit the students. Total cost of the program is $10,630.

THE PROGRAM was proposed by the student council at Hoffman Estates High School where vandalism costs run more than $2,000 annually. The program was then expanded to include the entire district.

Chapman noted that most schools in Dist. 211 are fairly new and have been designed with the cost of vandalism in mind.

In Dist. 54, where schools have been built at the rate of almost two a year, building designs call for a minimal amount of glass.

Schaible said less glass not only means fewer opportunities for vandalism but also lower heating bills.

Schaible said he is cautiously beginning to believe a changing attitude is contributing to the low vandalism statistics this year in his district.

"I think kids are beginning to be proud of their schools," he said. "The students at Keller were so upset when their science rooms were torn up last year that they took up a collection to buy new aquariums to replace those that were broken."

Ties to tie two Schaumburgs

Village Pres. Raymond Kessell says he is "serious" about having special neckties imprinted with Schaumburg's new village symbol, especially to be worn during a 1977 trip to Schaumburg-Lippe, West Germany.

Although village officials would like to visit the home of Schaumburg's early founders next year in commemoration of the village's 20th anniversary, Kessell said he feels it wiser to postpone the trip until after the Bicentennial year.

At any rate, Marge Mefford, the village office manager, says it is not true that she plans to hand-embroider the new symbol on ties for all village officials.

MORE ON THE subject of the new symbol. Dist. 54 official Marve Lopicola, who is also a Schaumburg resident, says he won't feel completely comfortable until he can buy a sweatshirt emblazoned with the large S formed with willow leaves atop a heraldic rose.

SCHAUMBURG'S Larry Thielen recently resigned from the township Committee-on-Youth. Thielen was a candidate for village trustee on the Schaumburg Citizens for Planned Progress ticket. Mary Ellen Kelly was recently appointed vice-chairman of COY.

THE FIRST ISSUE of Schaumburg Park District's Sunshine Newsletter is almost ready for distribution. The news page will go out to students in all Dist. 54 schools in the village, with extra copies available at park offices in Meineke Community Center, 228 E. Weathersfield Way.

act in a theme, a drawing or music. It's important for them to be creative."

Music teacher John Farquhar said the teachers do not expect the students to like everything that happens in class, and said the students "should say so if they don't like something, but tell us why."

The class, which is large at 75, had some problems at the beginning which seem to be working out. Some students objected to the more impersonal approach of a large class, and some weren't sure whether they could handle so much work on their own.

"THIS COURSE REQUIRES a different type of discipline," Mrs. Meier said. "They have to be more self-disciplined, and it's the kind of situation that they will face in the outside world, whether in college or not. We're seeing growth every day."

Council action on blood plan expected tonight

City participation in a blood-assurance program is expected to be considered tonight when the Rolling Meadows City Council meets.

A recommendation to join the program sponsored by the North Suburban Blood Center has been made to the council by the special city committee appointed to study the proposal.

The program would supply all city residents with unlimited blood for a year provided 4 per cent of the city's population contributes blood. Rolling Meadows is one of few area communities which does not participate in a cooperative blood-replacement program.

The proposed SureBlood program offered by the North Suburban Blood Center, Northbrook, would enable both residents and the city's working population to contribute to blood drives and in turn be covered by the program.

THE COUNCIL may also act on another ordinance designed to permit a coin amusement game center to operate in the city.

The city council licensing committee is expected to recommend passage of an ordinance allowing game rooms as a special use in commercial districts. The ordinance is a compromise measure proposed following Mayor Roland Meyer's veto last month of an ordinance to license a game center proposed by William and Sheila Abraham.

Meyer objected to that proposal, saying it did not provide sufficient city controls on the facility. The council failed to override the veto and proposed the special-use ordinance.

The Abrahams' proposal for a game center has yet to be reconsidered, however. The couple has not secured a site for a game center yet and must do so before they can again petition the city council for a special-use permit.

The council is scheduled to meet at 8 p.m. in the city hall, 3600 Kirchoff Rd.

Two city men charged in Hoffman car break-ins

A man at the Moon Lake apartment complex keeps an eye on activity at the development, and thanks to him and the Hoffman Estates Police Department's checkmate program, police arrested two alleged car burglars early Monday.

Fire department needs report due

A report on the Rolling Meadows Fire Dept. and its future needs is expected to be presented to city officials shortly.

Acting City Mgr. Charles Green Monday said consultants from the National Loss Control Service Corp., Long Grove, have not yet reported to the city, but their final report is expected soon.

Grandparents get a day of their own at school

Local schools schedule parents' days galore during the school year, but Central Road School remembered grandparents this week with a special day.

Sponsored by Central Road School's student council, grandparents' day was a time for the older generation to see how classrooms have changed since they had children in school. But it also gave grandparents a time to share memories of life "in the olden days" with the children as part of their continuing study of the Bicentennial.

Nearly 150 grandparents registered to visit the school Monday, Principal James Hess said. Wearing name tags and smiles, they sat in on their grandchildren's classes, observing, or helping with classroom projects.

Children showed their grandparents around the school, and served them coffee and cookies provided by the student council.

Even the principal's grandparents got involved. Vern and Dora Seal, who now number their grandchildren in the dozens, are former schoolteachers themselves. They taught in a one-room schoolhouse in Oklahoma during the state's early days, and brought some books they used as teachers to show the Central Road children.

"Grandparents very seldom get a chance to visit the buildings," Hess said. "It's important to share with them."

Heidi Bowl II...

This time kids yell 'offsides' as NFL overtime benches Willy Wonka

"Twas the Sunday before Thanksgiving, when all through the house,
Not a child was stirring, not even the grouse;
The cold dinner was stacked by the sink with care,
In hopes that Willy Wonka soon would be there;
The children were nestled in front of TV,
With visions of Wonka's chocolate factory.

And Momma in her maxi, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a two-hour nap;
When out in Washington, D. C. there arose such a clatter,
I jumped to the television to see what was the matter;
Away to the set I flew like a flash, Oakland and the Skins were in an overtime clash.

The tube, in full football colors showed,
A 45-minute see-saw as Gowdy bel-lowed;
When what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But, the tiny children, all near tears.

Much louder than eagles, the children offered a yell,
They whistled and shouted for Wonka pell mell;
"Willy Wonka! Willy Wonka!" came the scream,
Only the chocolate factory would make them beam.
To the top of the sofa! At the base of the wall!
They screamed for Wonka out in the hall.

As the Redskins and Raiders continued the battle,
The children never ceased the loud rattle.
At 6:45, more than three-quarters hour late,
NBC ended its afternoon football slate.
Ancient George Blanda did magi-cally appear,
To kick the Skins in the rear.
With a big old foot, so wrapped in fame,
I knew in a moment, his kick was the game.

And, then in a twinkling, I heard on the tube,
The voice of Wonka, that darling old boob.
So up to the television, the children they flew,
But, they continued to fuss, fume

and stew.

And then, in an instant, I knew what was the matter, Wonka was in mid-show, causing the clatter.
Those wonderful, wise czars at NBC,
Had repeated the "Heidi Bowl" for all to see.
In 1968, Heidi was dressed all in fame,
When the movie tumbled and took the blame,
For bumping 50 seconds of a crucial game.
Two touchdowns the fans missed in '68,
Two touchdowns that changed a bowl date.
The fans' bowl came swift, very quick,
The protest gave NBC a rough kick.
The telephones in TV-land roared,

The screams came from the football hoard.

The story was different in '75,
The Wonka show instead took the dive.
The children who stayed up late,
Missed the beginning of the TV date.
Hundreds called the Chicago station,
Demanding, screaming for a fair ration.
"Sorry," the NBC officials said,
"This is a situation we dread."
The moral of this story is sad, but true,
You're damned if you don't and damned if you do.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald Metro staff writer Al Messerschmidt apologizes to author Clement C. Moore for using the basic meter of "The Night Before Christmas" to tell the story of Willy Wonka vs. the NFL and NBC.

NBC officials also were apologizing Monday to thousands of television viewers across the country who were upset by Sunday night's programming slip up. NBC spokesmen said Monday, however, it is unlikely the show will be rerun to make up the 45-minute interruption.

A WMAQ spokesman also said the "Willy Bowl" caused more reaction than the "Heidi Bowl."
"We had 566 phoned protests today," the Channel 5 spokesman said. "After the Heidi affair, we had just a few more than 500."
"A decision was made to pick up the film in progress because it was felt it would be too late for the kids to go to 9:45 p.m. E.S.T.," a network spokesman in New York said.

Sewer construction starts Monday

Construction of sewers in the Lake Park Estates subdivision is expected to start Monday, and homeowners who have not paid their share of the sewer work will be charged a minimum penalty of $44.

The sale of $155,000 sewer-system revenue bonds and a contract for the sewer work in the subdivision were approved Monday night by the Palatine Township Board of Auditors.

The contract with Dennis C. Ariola Construction Co., Chicago, is subject to the approval of Township Atty. Richard Cowen. A representative of the firm said work would start Monday on the sewers, with completion scheduled for February or March.

The $155,000 in sewer-system revenue bonds are being sold to Midwest

Securities Co. The bond sale is expected to be closed within 10 days, Cowan said.

THE COST OF the project is initially being divided among the 68 homeowners of the subdivision, northeast of Northwest Highway, and Quentin Road, who are paying approximately $35,000 and Palatine Township paying the remaining $120,000 to cover legal and engineering fees in addition to the construction. The homeowners will be assessed for the sewers by the township for the next 20 years to repay the $165,000.

Representatives of the homeowners association Monday said that $35,002 had been collected from 64 homeowners.

The board set connection fees for the sewer system that provide an incentive for residents to connect to the system prior to the start of construction. Residents who agree to connect to the sewer and pay their share before the construction starts will be charged $556. Property owners who want to connect after the sewer construction work has started will be charged an additional $44 for a total of $600. The connection fee, within one year after the completion of the sewer, was set at $1,000, and the connection fee after one year is $3,000.

There are no provisions for several homeowners along Quentin Road in the subdivision to connect to the sewer system. These residents had earlier voted not to connect to the sewer and will not be subject to the same connection fees as other homeowners in the subdivision if they change their mind.

Harper free jazz concert tonight

The Harper College wind ensemble and jazz band will present its annual fall concert in the Bicentennial spirit today, with several American selections on the program.

Directed by Robert Tillotson, the wind ensemble will feature William

Schuman's overture for the band entitled "Chester." This selection is based on the hymn tune said to have been sung around the campfires of the Continental Army and played by fifers on the march during the American Revolution.

The wind ensemble's program also will include "Somersault" by Hale Smith; "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite" by Karl King; and "Procession of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakov/Leitzchen.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. in the college center lounge and is free to public.

Suspect in race track murder found in Florida

A man, sought for more than a year for the murder of an Arlington Park Race Track stablehand, has been arrested by Florida authorities, Arlington Heights police said Monday.

Stanley Wayne Woods is in Marion County Jail, Ocala, Fla., prepared to waive extradition to Illinois, police said. Woods was charged in connection with the August 1974 beating death of the race track employee.

His alleged companion, John Cochran, 36, was arrested last February by FBI agents in southern Indiana for auto theft and unlawful interstate flight.

THE PAIR is charged with stealing the victim's car after they drove him to a Berwyn hospital from Arlington Heights.

In August, Woods and Cochran, also race track employees, told police they found John H. Walker, 51, of Covina, Calif., lying unconscious in the Arlington Park parking lot. They told police they thought Walker was drunk and put him in his car to allow him to sober up.

They reportedly returned to the car later, and finding Walker still unconscious, Woods drove him to Hawthorne Park, Cicero, where Walker's wife worked.

A race track guard told Woods to take Walker to MacNeal Memorial Hospital, Berwyn, where the victim was admitted with a large lump on the back of his head, police said.

WALKER DIED at the hospital two weeks later without regaining consciousness.

A preliminary coroner's report said Walker died from numerous blows to the head, but a coroner's jury ruled in November that the circumstances surrounding Walker's death were undetermined after witnesses failed to appear for testimony.

Rate increases for garbage service OKd

The Palatine Village Board Monday night approved an ordinance increasing rates for monthly residential garbage pickup.

The ordinance, recommended by Village Mgr. Anton Harwig, called for a 25-cent monthly increase in the curbside pickup rate from $2.75 to $3. The back door pickup rate will increase 95 cents per month from $5.45 to $6.40.

The increases will take effect at the start of the next garbage billing period. The changes will increase curbside pickup by $3 per year and increase back door pickup by $11.40.

THE BOARD also voted to refer to the health, safety and welfare committee discussion of eliminating the back door service. Trustees did not discuss the matter in depth but said they preferred to have only curbside pickup in the village.

Harwig said the rate hikes were needed to offset increases to be passed on to the village by Browning-Ferris Industries of Illinois, who contracts with the village for refuse service.

The village's contract with Browning-Ferris allows the company to pass on to the village 75 per cent of any increased labor costs. The contract runs through 1977, and Harwig said the rate hikes will be sufficient to meet expected costs.

Harwig said the rate hikes will provide an additional $16,000 to the village refuse fund. The board budgeted $216,000 for refuse pickup this year.

THE REFUSE FUND revenues come only from residential billing for garbage pickup. Residents are billed quarterly for refuse collection.

The rate increase is the first in two years. Past increases from Browning-Ferris were absorbed by the village.

The new rate structure will not affect commercial businesses which are billed directly by Browning-Ferris.

Guess what second-grader James Shetze wants for Christmas?

Counterfeit $20 bill turns up at bank

A counterfeit $20 bill was found by a teller at Palatine National Bank, 50 N. Broadway St., while she was sorting bills in a "mutilated" money pile, police said Monday.

The bill was apparently passed to the bank sometime last week, but was not reported until Monday.

Construction of sewers in the Lake Park Estates subdivision is expected to start Monday, and homeowners who have not paid their share of the sewer work will be charged a minimum penalty of $44.

The sale of $155,000 sewer-system revenue bonds and a contract for the sewer work in the subdivision were approved Monday night by the Palatine Township Board of Auditors.

The contract with Dennis C. Ariola Construction Co., Chicago, is subject to the approval of Township Atty. Richard Cowen. A representative of the firm said work would start Monday on the sewers, with completion scheduled for February or March.

The $155,000 in sewer-system revenue bonds are being sold to Midwest Securities Co. The bond sale is expected to be closed within 10 days, Cowen said.

THE COST OF the project is initially being divided among the 68 homeowners of the subdivision, northeast of Northwest Highway and Quentin Road, who are paying approximately $35,000 and Palatine Township paying the remaining $120,000 to cover legal and engineering fees in addition to the construction. The homeowners will be assessed for the sewers by the township for the next 20 years to repay the $165,000.

Representatives of the homeowners association Monday said that $35,802 had been collected from 64 homeowners.

The board set connection fees for the sewer system that provide an incentive for residents to connect to the system prior to the start of construction. Residents who agree to connect to the sewer and pay their share before the construction starts will be charged $356. Property owners who want to connect after the sewer construction work has started will be charged an additional $44 for a total of $600. The connection fee, within one year after the completion of the sewer, was set at $1,000, and the connection fee after one year is $3,000.

There are no provisions for several homeowners along Quentin Road in the subdivision to connect to the sewer system. These residents had earlier voted not to connect to the sewer and will not be subject to the same connection fees as other homeowners in the subdivision if they change their mind.

Heidi Bowl II...

This time kids yell 'offsides' as NFL overtime benches Willy Wonka

'Twas the Sunday before Thanksgiving, when all through the house, Not a child was stirring, not even the grouse;

The cold dinner was stacked by the sink with care,

In hopes that Willy Wonka soon would be there;

The children were nestled in front of TV,

With visions of Wonka's chocolate factory.

And Momma in her maxi, and I in my cap,

Had just settled our brains for a two-hour nap;

When out in Washington, D. C. there arose such a clatter,

I jumped to the television to see what was the matter;

Away to the set I flew like a flash, Oakland and the Skins were in an overtime clash.

The tube, in full football colors showed,

A 45-minute see-saw as Gowdy belated;

When what to my wondering eyes should appear,

But, the tiny children, all near tears.

Much louder than eagles, the children offered a yell,

They whistled and shouted for Wonka pell mell;

"Willy Wonka! Willy Wonka!" came the scream,

Only the chocolate factory would make them beam.

To the top of the sofa! At the base of the wall!

They screamed for Wonka out in the hall.

As the Redskins and Raiders continued the battle,

The children never ceased the loud rattle.

At 6:45, more than three-quarters hour late,

NBC ended its afternoon football slate.

Ancient George Blanda did magically appear,

To kick the Skins in the rear.

With a big old foot, so wrapped in fame,

I knew in a moment, his kick was the game.

And, then in a twinkling, I heard on the tube,

The voice of Wonka, that darling old boob.

So up to the television, the children they flew,

But, they continued to fuss, fume

and stew.

And then, in an instant, I knew what was the matter, Wonka was in mid-show, causing the clatter.

Those wonderful, wise czars at NBC, Had repeated the "Heidi Bowl" for all to see.

In 1968, Heidi was dressed all in fame,

When the movie tumbled and took the blame,

For bumping 50 seconds of a crucial game.

Two touchdowns the fans missed in '68,

Two touchdowns that changed a bowl date.

The fans' howl came swift, very quick,

The protest gave NBC a rough kick.

The telephones in TV-land roared,

The screams came from the football board.

The story was different in '75,

The Wonka show instead took the dive.

The children who stayed up late, Missed the beginning of the TV date.

Hundreds called the Chicago station,

Demanding, screaming for a fair ration.

"Sorry," the NBC officials said,

"This is a situation we dread."

The moral of this story is sad, but true,

You're damned if you don't and damned if you do.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald Metro staff writer Al Messerschmidt apologizes to author Clement C. Moore for using the basic meter of "The Night Before Christmas" to tell the story of Willy Wonka vs. the NFL and NBC.

NBC officials also were apologizing Monday to thousands of television viewers across the country who were upset by Sunday night's programming slip up. NBC spokesmen said Monday, however, it is unlikely the show will be rerun to make up the 45-minute interruption.

A WMAQ spokesman also said the "Willy Wonka" caused more reaction than the "Heidi Bowl."

"We had 568 phoned protests today," the Channel 5 spokesman said. "After the Heidi affair, we had just a few more than 500."

"A decision was made to pick up the film in progress because it was felt it would be too late for the kids to go to 9:45 p.m. E.S.T.," a network spokesman in New York said.

Scholarships

All Illinois high school seniors are eligible to compete for 10 $300 Chicago Motor Club scholarship grants which will be awarded to winners of the Illinois Editors' Traffic Safety Seminars' 10th annual traffic safety essay contest.

Essay theme this year is "High School Driver Education: What Has it Done for Me?"

Contest rules include:

- The contest is open to all Illinois high school seniors in public, parochial or private schools.
- The top 10 awards will be divided equally among girl and boy entrants.
- Entry blanks, available at schools, Chicago Motor Club branch offices, or by mail from Seminar Headquarters, 66 E. South Water St., Chicago, Ill., 60601, must accompany all entries.
- Entries must be received at seminar headquarters postmarked no later than Dec. 31.

A seminar scholarship committee will screen entries and forward all those qualifying to the entrant's local newspaper with the suggestion essays be published. Publication of the essay qualifies the entrant for final judging, which will be done by a panel of University of Illinois educators.

Scholarship awards will be presented at the annual seminar awards luncheon in May.

The Rotary Foundation will grant more than $5.6 million in scholarships this year. The grants underwrite the full cost of study abroad, paying for language instruction, travel, lodging and food as well as tuition, books and laboratory fees.

A condition of Rotary scholarships is that the winners agree to speak to Rotary clubs and other groups in his study country and in his home country. As a result, applicants are evaluated on their ambassadorial as well as scholarly potential.

Applications for scholarships are processed the first three months of each year. Interested students can get further information by contacting their local Rotary Club.

Humanities students take on the world

by PAM BIGFORD

They've got the world in their hands.

Every day seniors at Hoffman Estates High School reach out and touch a piece of the world. Yesterday it was Japan. Today it might be Africa.

These students are participating in a new program in High School Dist. 211, a humanities course that combines the disciplines of art, music and English to give students a view of man and his world as seen through the arts.

If the program succeeds at Hoffman, the test school, it may be included in other Dist. 211 schools.

TEAM TAUGHT by three teachers, the goal of the course is to allow students to experience the arts for themselves rather than look them up in a textbook.

"This is an extended classroom where the outside world comes in and teaches," said English teacher Shirley Meier.

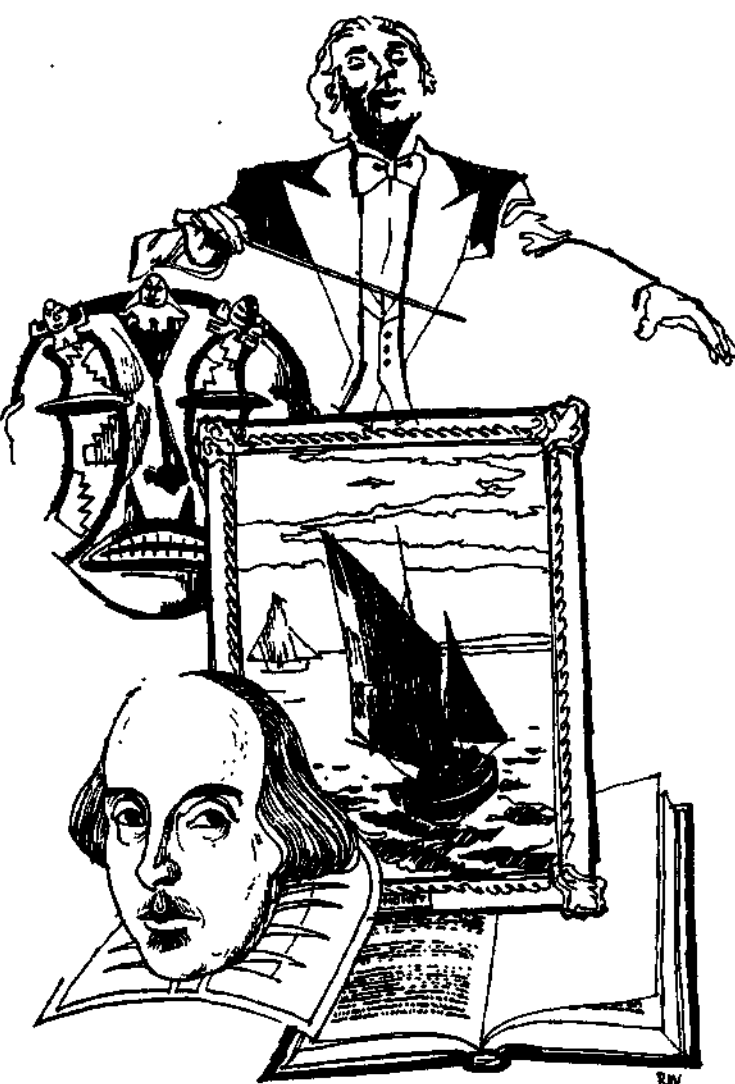

A major part of the class consists of guest speakers, movies, tapes and field trips. Speakers have ranged from a Japanese Embassy representative to a woman from the Lyric Opera to a man speaking on African religions and cultures.

Three field trips are planned for each semester. "We're trying to give them the real thing," Mrs. Meier said. "Art and music should really be experienced. You can talk about them, but until you have some experience with them, it's not very meaningful."

MRS. MEIER said the number of students who have never been to Chicago, "except for a hockey game," is amazing. Field trips are planned for an architectural tour of the city and a visit to the art museum. This month the class attended the opera, "The Marriage of Figaro."

The class lasts the entire year, and is split into four sections: Man in nature, man in religion, man in state and man in technology.

"During the 'man in nature' unit we studied Impressionism, the music of Debussy, and literature such as the 'Snows of Killmanjaro," said art teacher Maureen Christiansen. "The class did impressionistic self-portraits."

"Our field trips were to Crabtree Nature Center in Barrington, and then to the Hanover Park sewage reclamation plant," Mrs. Christiansen said. "We showed them how man has preserved nature, and then how man has disturbed nature and now has to put it back together again."

STUDENTS HAVE MORE discussion in this class than in a traditional class, the teachers said. The emphasis is on creative responses rather than required ones. They do presentations and panels, and part of their grade depends on a log they keep.

"We ask them to keep a log and react three times a week to things we have done in class," Mrs. Christiansen said. "They can react in a theme, a drawing or music. It's important for them to be creative."

Music teacher John Farquhar said the teachers do not expect the students to like everything that happens in class, and said the students "should say so if they don't like something, but tell us why."

The class, which is large at 75, had some problems at the beginning which seem to be working out. Some students objected to the more impersonal approach of a large class, and some weren't sure whether they could handle so much work on their own.

"THIS COURSE REQUIRES a different type of discipline," Mrs. Meier said. "They have to be more self-disciplined, and it's the kind of situation that they will face in the outside world, whether in college or not. We're seeing growth every day."

Park controversy topic tonight

The Palatine Park Board will continue discussion tonight of the controversial park under construction at Home Avenue and Oak Street.

A status report on the park's development is slated for presentation when the board meets today at 7:30 p.m. at the Palatine Hills Golf Course, 512 W. Baldwin Rd.

Residents in the area have protested plans to build an outdoor swimming pool at the park because they say the facility will lead to noise, traffic and flooding problems. The pool also is to be located too close to nearby homes, residents said.

At a recent special meeting, the park board agreed to negotiate to purchase the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simons, 1501 N. Oak St., if they believe the pool, after it is constructed, presents a problem. The Simons home is about 23 feet north of the pool site.

Residents of the area said they plan to take noise readings at the site to determine if they violate standards set by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Consumer advocate to speak at Harper

Celia Maloney, consumer advocate for the state of Illinois, will speak on "Consumer Issues in Illinois" to a class at Harper College today.

Mrs. Maloney will address the Principles in Retailing class in Building D, Room 231, at 7 p.m. The lecture is open to the public.

Citizens patrol starts Friday to curb vandalism

by LYNN ASINOF

A special village citizens patrol will go into effect Friday as part of a four-pronged effort by the Mount Prospect Police Dept. to reduce vandalism.

The patrol will make use of ALERT, a 19-member local radio group which will be specially trained by the department to spot and report crimes. The program is a modification of STOP (Special Teams on Patrol), which was proposed by Chief Ralph J. Doney earlier this year.

Doney said some legal questions had been raised whether the village would be liable for the actions of these patrols. He said the arrangement with ALERT solves these problems.

"THE CITIZEN STILL becomes involved with this," Doney said. "The difference is we don't recruit them. They are going to be joining the ALERT radio team which is volunteering its services to the Village of Mount Prospect."

Doney said a radio monitor will be set up in the village's public safety center and will be in operation 24 hours a day. He said he expects six to eight patrolers to be on the road each evening, reporting any crimes or suspicious happenings to the police.

"We've set it up this weekend. We're going to run a little test on it," Doney said. "It will probably be running from 8 p.m. to midnight."

The central radio equipment is being donated by the Countryside Bank, which will also provide money for special printed information on the program.

Doney said three other programs also will go into effect in the near future. He said by starting all four at the same time he hopes to be able to make a substantial dent on crime statistics.

ONE PROGRAM, scheduled to go into effect the first weekend in December, will increase the number of men on duty during peak crime periods over the weekends. Doney said the two extra men will operate as a tactical unit and will enforce curfew as part of their duties.

A second program, still being organized, is a citizen watch effort called Chec-mate. Through this program, Doney said, residents will be able to report crimes to the police without giving their names.

Doney said he has asked the Chamber of Commerce to oversee the program by handling registration. He said residents participating in the program will be given a number, which they can use to identify themselves when reporting crimes. The name of the person will remain confidential, and they will be contacted only if testimony is needed in court.

"It's one step further into encouraging citizens to report crime without their identity being known," Doney said.

JOHN FRIDLUND TOOK time out last week from his busy schedule as superintendent of River Trails Dist. 26 to read to youngsters at Euclid School as part of Children's Book Week. All Dist. 26 schools observed the week with "read-ins," special reading breaks and various other reading activities. Superintendents and custodians alike enjoyed a few moments with a book.

'Where, oh where, has the village hall gone?'

Some people still don't know that the new Mount Prospect village offices are in the old Mount Prospect State Bank building, 100 S. Emerson.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said some residents have come to the village clerk's office, located next to the old bank vault in the building, asking for their safety deposit boxes. Others have gone to the old village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., now occupied by the fire and police departments, to get vehicle licenses.

More than 250 persons did find their way to the village hall Sunday for an open house though.

"There was just a steady progression of people," said Eppley.

During the two-hour open house, more than 1,200 cookies were consumed by visitors, although they left a 100-cup coffee pot untouched.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald Metro staff writer Al Messerschmidt apologizes to author Clement C. Moore for using the basic meter of "The Night Before Christmas" to tell the story of Willy Wonka vs. the NFL and NBC.

NBC officials also were apologizing Monday to thousands of television viewers across the country who were upset by Sunday night's programming slip up. NBC spokesmen said Monday, however, it is unlikely the show will be rerun to make up the 45-minute interruption.

A WMAQ spokesman also said the "Willy Bowl" caused more reaction than the "Heidi Bowl."

"We had 508 phoned protests today," the Channel 5 spokesman said. "After the Heidi affair, we had just a few more than 500."

"A decision was made to pick up the film in progress because it was felt it would be too late for the kids to go to 9:45 p.m. E.S.T.," a network spokesman in New York said.

JOHN CHRISOPULOS can pick away at a block of ice pretty fast and in one hour's time, he's got a piece of artwork — as long as it stays in a freezer somewhere. Ice sculpture is a lost art, he says, but he's using his skills to bring it back.

Pick, chisel tools of area chef

by DIANE MERMIGAS

John Chrisopolos has a cool hobby. He is an iceman — of sorts.

Chrisopolos is reviving the art of ice sculpting by making the frozen art works available as novel centerpieces for parties and banquets.

Chrisopolos, food service manager for Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, learned the carving art while attending the Washburn Trade School for Chefs, Chicago.

Although ice sculptures are not in demand, as they were years ago when Chicago ice companies supplied them, he believes the glass-like art forms are on their way back.

DURING THE LAST nine years he has made 20 ice sculptures of various sizes and shapes. An average sculpture will cost about $75, Chrisopolos said.

The work takes anywhere from one to four hours, depending on the detail involved. "It's always a constant race with time because all the while you're working, the ice is melting," he said.

Chrisopolos could do his sculpting in a walk-in freezer to prevent melting. He also could choose to wear goggles to protect his eyes from flying chipped ice or gloves to protect his fingers from frostbite. But he doesn't.

"I probably should do that, but it doesn't bother me and I just get into it right away," he said.

SO, LIKE A surgeon, he dons a white smock and grabs his tools, a multi-pronged ice pick and a chisel, and goes to work.

The 200-pound block of ice sits idle on a terry-cloth towel atop a steel counter.

"One of the first problems you have is getting the ice block from the freezer and onto a cart, and from the cart onto the counter," Chrisopolos said.

"I've lost a lot of ice that way. You just have to move out of the way as fast before it falls on your feet," he said.

Then he steps up to the block and like a prize fighter who flexes at the sound of a bell, he begins feverishly picking away at the ice, sending chips flying in all directions.

SOME OF THE large pieces crack off by themselves, and all the ice chips end up on the floor. The artist must watch his balance on the slick surface.

"This is another problem you run into. You've got to clear the ice and water off of the floor or it could get pretty dangerous," he explained, just barely keeping his footing while backing away at the ice.

"You can do so many different things with ice, depending on the tools you use," he said. "But when you're done and it's sitting as a centerpiece on a table, people will always be amazed at whatever you do with it."

Chrisopolos said it's a traumatic experience to watch the fruits of his labor melt away during a dinner party, or to have a portion of the sculpture crack off just as it is being completed. But it happens.

"One time, the daughter of a friend of mine was getting married. I carved a heart with two doves on top as a special gift," Chrisopolos said.

"IT WAS SUPPOSED to remain in the freezer overnight, but the freezer wasn't working and when I saw it the next morning, it looked like a scrawny valentine with two sparrows perched on top," he said.

Chrisopolos often makes a rough sketch on paper of what he plans to do with the ice blocks which are purchased from local ice companies.

"I can't even draw, yet I can create some likeness in the ice and it's not too difficult," he said.

rough edges of his ice sculpture with his hands.

"How do you like my fruit basket?" he asked, and smiled.

Is there a future in ice sculpting?

"Well," he said as he wiped the perspiration from his brow, "it keeps me in shape now and it's a novelty for most people. With enough chefs around who know how to do it, it could be the next big thing."
